ISLAND SEARCH LAUNCHED FOR PACIFIC PLANE

Coast Guard Ships Told to Scan Aleutians for Moyle and Allen.

AREA BREEDING SPOT OF SUDDEN STORMS

Fuel Gone by Now; Inexpert Navigating Could Have Caused Disaster.

Seattle, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Coast Guard cutters of the Bering Sea patrol were being prepared tonight to start a search along the storm-scourged Aleutian Islands of southwestern Alaska for Dop Moyle and C. A. Allen, Japan-to-Seattle fliers, long overdue here.

At the request of W. W. Conner, governor for Washington of the National Aeronautical Association, Capt. H. D. Hinckley, division commander of the Coast Guard here, dispatched radio orders to eight vessels to search the north Pacific, the Bering Sea and the Gulf of Alaska.

Capt. Hinckley was frankly pessimistic and experienced aviators familiar with the sudden storms of the Aleutian region and the rocky Islands shared his gloom.

"It is an almost hopeless task," said Capt. Hinkley. "We'll do the best we can—but I'm afraid that will not be enough."

Search Reveals No Trace.

The Coast Guard vessels to which the orders were sent included the Northland, the Chela and the Itaska in the Aleutian Island District; the McLane, en route from Unalaska to San Francisco, and the Alert, in Ketchikan.

A check of all points along the coast of British Columbia tonight failed to reveal any trace of the men.

The most optimistic aviation experts here agreed the fuel in the single-motored monoplane in which the fliers risked their lives and their fortunes could not have lasted longer than about 48 hours, or until 3:30 p. m. (Eastern standard time) today, under the most favorable conditions.

Moyle and Allen left Samushiro Beach, 375 miles north of Toyko at 3:30 p. m. Monday (Eastern standard time). They expected to set their wheels on the airport here in from 39 to 44 hours.

Start Was Promising.

Neither flier had extensive experience as a navigator and slight miscalculation would have led them far from their course. Their margin of safety was only several hours. They carried no radio and if they landed in the water their plane was expected to float not longer than 35 minutes.

Last reported at Point Erimo, Hokkaido Island, 110 miles from Samushiro Beach, the fliers got off to a promising start.

Although numerous ships along the Seattle-Oriental route failed to report the plane, and radio stations from Dutch Harbor, Alaska, onward also scanned the skies in vain, hope was not abandoned until the fuel supply was known to be exhausted. The most economical route the fliers could follow misses most of the ships and land wireless stations.

Dutch Harbor is the most westerly radio station and the fliers could have made a forced landing on one of the mountainous islands to the westward and be isolated in some native settlement or fox ranch for weeks or months before being heard from.

Fiance Gives Up Vigil.

Miss Frances Bresson, fiance of Moyle, who flew up from her home in Riverside, Calif., to greet the fliers, reluctantly left the airport this afternoon. She said she could no longr hope that the fliers would reach the goal in one flight, but was confident they had landed safely at some point along the route and would continue to Seattle without delay.

She planned to return to California by plane tomorrow if no word was received before that time.

Maj. Frederick L. Martin, one of the American 'round-the-world fliers in 1924, was lost for eleven days after his plane crashed in the fog against a mountain peak on the western end of the Alaska peninsula despite organized efforts to find him. He finally reached a cannery equipped with a radio station and sent out word of his safety.

Weather conditions along the route charted by Moyle and Allen were regarded as good, but the Aleutian tip is a breeding place for sudden and unpredictable storms, and authorities on flying conditions here believed it was likely the fliers were forced down in that region.

Bebe Daniels Becomes Mother of Baby Girl

Hollywood, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Barbara Bebe Daniels Lyon, weight 5 pounds, 14 ounces, was born today to Ben Lyons and his wife, Bebe Daniels, featured film players.

"We are very happy and proud," said Lyon. "Both Bebe and Barbara are getting along fine."

Miss Daniels was given an extension in her motion picture contract to prepare for Barbara's arrival.

UNDER ARREST

MRS. CLADYS T. PITTS.

MRS. PITTS IS FREED UNDER $20,000 BAIL

Financier's Wife, Hart and Chauffeur Charged With Concealing Assets.

Mrs. Gladys T. Pitts, wife of G. Bryan Pitts, former chairman of the board of the F. H. Smith Co., was released in $20,000 bond yesterday following arrest in Atlantic City, N. J., on charges of concealing assets with intent to defraud the Government.

Henry O. Hart, confidential agent to the former chairman of the board of the F. H. Smith Co., and Patrick J. Clancy, chauffeur, named jointly with Mr. and Mrs. Pitts in a blanket warrant, were released on a similar bond. Pitts himself is in jail here on embezzlement charges.

Arrest of Mrs. Pitts, for many years socially prominent in Washington, followed a series of seizures by internal revenue agents of her husband's alleged assets to satisfy the Government's $2,000,000 claim against him for alleged back income taxes.

Saturday $189,000 of Investment Building bonds were taken from Hart in this city, when he attempted to cash the interest coupons. He left Washington that night for Atlantic City. Authorities here were notified when he placed securities and other valuables in an Atlantic City hotel deposit vault.

Internal revenue agents arrived and again took Hart, and Clancy with him, into custody. They found $150,000 in securities and $500,000 in jewelry in the safe. Tuesday night the blanket warrant was sworn out against Hart, Clancy, Pitts and his wife.

Hart is under indictment here charging "aiding in the commission of perjury" at the trial of his former chief. Pitts is awaiting outcome of an appeal from his fourteen-year sentence. The internal revenue seizures followed Department of Justice allegations that Mr. and Mrs. Pitts were planning to flee from the country.

President's Aid Sought By Herndon for Flight

Tokyo, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Hugh Herndon and Clyde Pangborn, American aviators, sent a cablegram to President Hoover today requesting him to aid them in obtaining a permit from Japanese authorities to start a nonstop flight from Japan to America.

The fliers appealed to the President after all other interests working in their behalf failed. Herndon and Pangborn were fined recently for having photographed Japanese fortifications while flying from Siberia, where their attempt ended to lower the record for an airplane journey around the world.

Senate Approves Mexico in League

Country Makes Clear That It Does Not Recognize Monroe Doctrine.

Mexico City, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The Senate tonight unanimously ratified Mexico's acceptance of an invitation to join the League of Nations.

At the same time the foreign office published its message of acceptance, which was cabled to Geneva today, in which it is made plain that Mexico does not recognize the Monroe Doctrine, mentioned in Article XXI of the league covenant.

Recognition in the covenant of the existence of the doctrine, together with failure of the organizers to invite Mexico when the league was formed, have been the main stumbling blocks to this country's entry. The second point was cleared up when, in sending an invitation to Mexico yesterday, the assembly at Geneva corrected the omission of her name from the list of those first invited.

Farm Board's Abolition Requested by Grain Men

Hanley Falls, Minn., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Repeal of the agricultural marketing act and "complete retirement of the Federal Farm Board" today was asked in a resolution adopted by the Western Grain Men's Association here.

The organization, with 125 members in western Minnesota and eastern South Dakota, asserted results of the act and Farm Board operations "have proved a distressing failure" in aiding agriculture.

BELGIUM WINS PROSPERITY AS OTHERS SUFFER

Tiny Country, 8,000,000 Population, Has Only 62,000 Idle.

FINANCIAL CONDITION HELD BEST IN EUROPE

Industrial Rebuilding Along Modern Lines Credited for Post-War Era.

Editor's note—World depression has turned British politics upside down, caused drastic economy measures in Germany, and presented the United States with an unprecedented unemployment problem. But tiny Belgium, object of world pity during the war, now looks at the world from her vantage point of prosperity. The Associated Press sent Louis P. Lochner, chief of the Berlin bureau, to make a survey of Belgium and the following story tells why the country is prosperous.

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER.
(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Brussels, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Throughout the war the whole world spoke of poor little Belgium—but it's happy and prosperous Belgium now.

This midget country of 8,000,000 inhabitants, once the object of civilization's solicitude, now can face the future calmly.

Belgium is in excellent shape financially. Her gold coverage of banknotes is 66 per cent. Her government bonds sell above par. Her bank discount rate is only 2½ per cent.

Savings bank deposits continue to grow despite the world crisis. Exports almost equal imports. Sixty-two thousand unemployed workers are no cause for worry. Taxation is not higher than in other European countries.

Rebuilding of Industry.

A survey of the Associatd Press, conducted in Brussels among statesmen, economists, bankers, industrialists and workers, revealed the following explanation for Belgium's happy position.

The war devastation had a blissful sequel, in that industry was entirely rebuilt along the most modern and most progressive lines. This gave Belgium a tremendous advantage over such countries as England, whose industrial equipment remains antiquated.

Thus, without increasing the number of blast furnaces, Belgium has doubled her pigiron output. The glass industry was transformed, practically doubling production. Ninety per cent of the Nation's coal now is extracted mechanically; before the war hand labor prevailed.

In short, the Belgians, who seem to be born engineers, rebuilt farsightedly. Moreover, they proved to be prudent financiers, for during the 1927-1929 boom they built up reserves which can be drawn upon during the present lean years.

Stabilized Currency.

Here is the opinion of Belgium's situation expressed by Paul Vanzeeland, director of the Belgian National Bank and secretary of the Belgian Economic Council:

"Speaking purely for myself, I consider Belgium's economic status the most secure in all Europe.

"First, we have stabilized our currency at a rate favorable to our productive industry. Second, our industrialists not only completely modernized their processes but declined to yield to the clamor for higher dividends and instead built up reserves. Third, a large part of Belgian industry remained in the hands of small individual owners and families who, with amazing suppleness, adapt themselves to changing conditions.

"Fourth, Belgian industry did not make the mistake of overexpanding or tying up surpluses in nonliquid investments. Fifth, the national bank's policy is absolutely sound, constituting Belgium's Rock of Gibraltar. Sixth, the densely populated country is covered with a network of railways, waterways and roads, enabling goods to move cheaply.

Can Live in Country.

$500,000 Is Given For Slump Cures

Henry L. Doherty Donates Sum to Spur Efforts of Engineers.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 9 (U.P.).—Half a million dollars was made available tonight to the American Society of Mechanical Engineers by Henry L. Doherty, public utilities magnate, to study means of alleviating the unemployment situation.

Doherty announced he had deposited that sum in the Commerce Trust Bank here after Dr. Roy V. Wright, of New York, president of the engineering organization, said:

"Engineers and scientists caused the industrial depression by invention of labor-saving devices. It is up to them to solve it."

Dr. Wright urged engineers to bend their energies to obtain a $500,000 research fund to provide for a study of the present industrial situation and to work out ways of remedying it.

Grandi Plan Favored, But Minimized, in U. S.

Proposal for Holiday In Armaments is Not Taken Seriously.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The United States looks with favor on the proposal of Dino Grandi, the Italian Foreign Minister, that the nations call an immediate halt to further strengthening of their armaments, it was announced officially yesterday.

Were such an international truce entered into, it would mean that the United States Navy would have to halt or call off the construction of eleven destroyers, seven 10,000-ton cruisers, three submarines, and one aircraft carrier. These have been appropriated for, and are either already under cohstruction or soon to go under construction.

Foreign Minister Grandi, in suggesting the holiday to the League of Nations Assembly, suggested that it last at least until the World Limitation of Armaments Conference starts next February. The fact of the matter is that no well-posted person in Washington expects the proposal to be taken seriously by the various nations.

Of more importance, perhaps, from a historical standpoint, is the com-

4 Nations Tell League Disarming is Chief Issue at Moment.

Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Spokesmen of four nations today warned the assembly of the League of Nations that disarmament is the most urgent problem facing the league this year and something must be done about it soon.

The proposal put forward by Italy yesterday to arrange an immediate armistice pending the outcome of a general disarmament conference was not mentioned, however, by any of these spokesmen.

Sir B. L. Mitter, India's delegate, began the discussion by suggesting that perhaps the time had come for the great powers "to establish their moral preeminence" by achieving something definite in the way of disarmament.

M. K. Yoshizawa, the Japanese spokesman, likewise emphasized that of all the problems calling for the league's effort "the problem of reduction and limitation of armaments holds beyond question first place."

Japan's army, he said, already had been reduced to 65 per cent of its prewar strength and Japan was faithfully carrying out its naval limitation agreement, but "although the Japa-

POLICE QUIZ WIDENS TO TENTH PRECINCT

Seven Policemen Called as Justice Agents Report 10 Additional Cases.

Seven Tenth Precinct policemen, including a captain and two sergeants, have been called to confer with Department of Justice agents investigating charges of police brutality and third degree methods, it was learned last night.

Two of the men, Sergt. A. M. Swingfree and Private N. W. Jones, were told to report to the Bureau of Investigation yesterday afternoon, and the other five, Capt. Ira Sheetz, Sergt. J. R. Leach and Privates W. A. Reith, W. J. Wagner and W. W. McGregor will report at various hours this morning.

Revelation of orders for the men to report at the Bureau of Investigation was the first intimation that the undercover men had gotten around to the Tenth Precinct in their investigation, although it is known that the many complaints undercovered since the investigation started touch virtually every police jurisdiction in Washington.

At the same time it was learned that at least ten additional cases of alleged police third degree methods were reported by the Department of Justice to District officials yesterday.

While movement lagged in the case of Orville Staples, former policeman who was recommended for reinstatement by the grand jury, it was learned that Representative Thomas L. Blanton intended to take another hand in the case should it come to a new trial.

Dr. Luther Reichelderfer, president of the board of District Commissioners, revealed last night that Mr. Blanton, who acted as Staples' attorney at the time the trial board recommended his dismissal from the Police Department, had wired the commissioners asking that action be delayed until he could be present and take a hand.

The telegram was received shortly before Staples informed the Commissioners he did not care to push the recommendation for his reinstatement.

It was a day of conferences among figures in the limelight of investigation into the involved Staples affair and the "third degree" investigation But like many of the conferences

LONG, ON RADIO, WINS TEXAS COTTON FOLK

Farmers Cheer Louisiana Governor's Advocacy of Ban on Crop.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 9 (U.P.).—Texas farmers, who gathered in this capital city to demand relief from the crush weight of surplus cotton production, tonight overwhelmingly approved complete abandonment of their cotton acreage in 1932.

Approximately 7,000 farmers filled the natural amphitheater in Woolidge Park to hear the radio address of Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana. When the Louisiana executive, speaking over the radio from Shreveport, asked for a vote on the planting holiday plan, it was estimated 75 per cent of the farmers rose to their feet and cheered.

Not content with this demonstration, the crowd drowned out Gov. Ross Sterling's voice with their heckling cries when he rose to answer Gov. Long's address.

Thousands of farmers deserted their cotton fields today and swarmed into Austin to attend sessions of the State Legislature and to participate in the mass meeting.

The farmers pushed their way through crowded halls of the State Capitol to the House of Representatives, and when the galleries were filled, the House resolved itself into a committee of the whole to allow them on the main floor.

Clad in overalls, the farmers squatted in the aisles and listened gravely to various members explaining their cotton control measures. A few of them, bewildered by the vastness of the chamber, summoned courage to "speak their minds."

J. W. Briggs, Fannin County, dressed just as he works in his cotton patch, arose to declare he left his wife and children dragging cotton sacks when he came here to fight for "liberty or death."

"If you show us the same respect you did the oil men, we will go back home and not say a word," he said. "You ask us what right we have to cotton legislation. We have the best right, the right of liberty." The house rang with applause.

Outside in the Statehouse foyer, the Austin Firemen's Band, clad in cotton shirts, played: "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You."

The following bills were either introduced or discussed:

Rep. H. H. Hanson, tyler, explained

Finds in Patagonia Reveal Region Saw First Mammal

"No Doubt of It," Asserts Dr. Simpson, Expedition Leader, After Pocket of Skeletons of Primitive Creatures Is Discovered.

Buenos Aires, Sept. 9 (U.P.).—Proof that the "bitter lands" of Patagonia were the first place on the earth's surface where creatures that crawled evolved into creatures that walked was claimed today by Dr. George Gaylord Simpson, who believes he has solved the 50,000,000-year-old Paleontological secrets of the desolate South American region.

"There is no doubt that Patagonia was the center where the mammal originated, Dr. Simpson, leader of the Scarrit Patagonian expedition which has just completed eight months' exploration, declared. "It was the first place which saw the evolution of warm-blooded creatures, that were soon to dominate and practically drive out the cold-blooded reptiles which had been the only form of life on the earth. Hence the discovery we have made in Patagonia is of primary importance.

"I admit we did not expect to meet with such astounding luck. We struck the richest pocket I have ever seen, a veritable treasure of human knowledge containing several perfect fossils of the isoptemnus, (a low form of life which has nearly equal fore and hind wings) and some 300 other specimens of different genus, including the albertogaudyra and notostylops. The notostylops must have been about the size of a wolf with short, thick hind legs and shaggy hair. In fact, all of the animals of that age were smaller than those of today. Evolution of the warm-bloods was still on the upgrade.

"Patagonia (which stretches from the Gulf of San Matias to the southern tip of South America) must have been much warmer than now. Probably it supported thick vegetation. The fossils were found in either volcanic ash or lava, which would point to terrible volcanic eruptions at some later date, which completely changed the face of the country, leaving it stark and rugged.

"The first to point to the region as the possible solution of scientific problems was Charles Darwin, who a

AMERICAN CASH ABROAD PLACED AT 24 BILLIONS

Sum Includes War Loans to Governments Held at $7,740,000,000.

CANADA INVESTMENTS TOP EUROPEAN LIENS

Department of Commerce Finds Germany Next Favored Foreign Market.

(Associated Press.)

The United States and its citizens on December 31 last held approximately $24,500,000,000 in foreign investments.

The figure included $7,740,000,000 worth of war loans to foreign governments; $15,000,000,000 in private long-term investments in factories, mines, public utilities, and government bonds of all kinds and $1,725,759,000 in short-term credits.

These statistics were compiled in a study of American investments abroad by Paul D. Dickens, of the Commerce Department's Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. The department two months ago published a study entitled "The Balance of International Payments," which fixed short-term credits and the ebb and flow of American capital in international channels during 1930.

Under Face Value.

The face value of the war debt to the United States Treasury is $11,640,000,000 but the actual worth of this debt was fixed by the study at $7,740,000,000 on a 4 per cent compound discount basis. Gov. Grosvenor M. Jones, chief of the Bureau of Finance and Investment, said yesterday that the seven-billion-dollar figure should be taken as the actual value of the war debt.

"Private long-term American investments in foreign countries at the end of 1930," the new study said, "amounted to between $14,500,000,000 and $15,400,000,000. Their rapid growth is brought out clearly when the present total is compared with the estimates of investments in 1900 of $500,000,000 and in 1912 of $1,902,800,000. In the last eighteen years this country has increased its holdings abroad by about $13,268,000,000, or about $737,000,000 a year, excluding, of course, the war debts to the United States Treasury and short-term investments."

How Investments Stand.

More American money is invested in Canada than in any other country and more than in any continent except Europe. Total private investments in Canada are estimated at $3,841,693,000; Europe, $4,929,277,000; Mexico and Central America, $968,576,000; South America, $3,041,926,000; West Indies, $1,233,484,000; Africa, $117,829,000; Asia, $1,022,949,000, and Oceania, $419,294,000.

This gave a total of $15,675,028,000, from which was deducted $630,000,000 for repatriation of securities by foreign buyers in 1930 and $125,000,000 added for insurance company and bank capital invested in foreign countries, leaving a total of $15,170,028,000.

Private investments were about equally divided between bonds and direct investments in industries. Direct investments were estimated to total $7,840,810,000 and investments in bonds were set at $7,204,218,000.

Germany, next to Canada, was the largest individual source of American investments. Long-term holdings of Americans there were estimated at $1,420,000,000 at the end of 1930. Of

Death Penalty Ordered For Chile Revolt Chiefs

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—A mixed army and navy court began sitting today to pass upon the cases of the sailors who participated in the rebellion of the fleet last week, with instructions to mete out the death penalty to those found to have been ring landers of the plot.

Authoritative sources estimated that several hundred sailors would be questioned by the court, but it was believed the actual ring leaders would be found to be few. Skeleton crews and new officers were assigned to the fleet today.

13,000 Men Riot Over 2,500 Jobs

Ohio Idle, in Search of Ditch Digging, Fight Police.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 9 (U.P.).—More than 13,000 unemployed men, seeking 2,500 jobs offered by the county as a means of relieving distress, engaged in a wild riot today at two county store yards where applications for the work were being taken.

Fighting started after late comers tried to wedge themselves into front positions in the lines of applicants. Special police squads, regular riot squads and deputy sheriffs were called out before order was restored.

Several thousand applicants stood in line all night. The county has offered the 2,500 highway ditch digging jobs in an effort to aid in solving unemployment.

MISS MURIEL McCORMICK.

MURIEL M'CORMICK TO BE BRIDE TODAY

Rockefeller Granddaughter Tells Mother of Troth to E. D. Hubbard.

Bar Harbor, Me., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The wedding of Muriel McCormick, daughter of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, of Chicago, to Elisha D. Hubbard, of Middletown, Conn., will take place tomorrow at Deep Cove, summer home of Mr. and Mrs. George A. McKinlock, of Chicago, the Rev. William E. Patterson said today.

Mr. Patterson, rector of the St. Savior's Episcopal Church of Bar Harbor, said the ceremony was to be private, only close friends of the contracting parties being present. The clergyman said he was to officiate at the ceremony.

Neither Miss McCormick nor Maj. Hubbard, nor any of their friends could be located tonight. It was learned that flowers have been ordered from the Mount Desert nurseries for delivery tomorrow.

No license has been issued here to Maj. Hubbard and Miss McCormick. The couple will have to obtain, under Maine law, a waiver of the five-day period between issuance of the license and performance of the ceremony from the municipal court judge of the district. In many cases this is a mere formality. If a license has been procured elsewhere the couple may be married immediately.

Chicago, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The engagement of Muriel McCormick, daughter of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick and Harold F. McCormick, to Elisha D. Hubbard, of Middletown, Conn., was announced today.

The forthcoming marriage, which will bring together two families of wealth, both prominent in the early development of Chicago, was announced to—and not by—the prospective bride's family.

Like her sister, Mathilde, and her brother, Fowler, the heiress selected her future husband and then informed her relatives of the engagement. The announcement was given to the press by Mrs. McCormick's secretary. Mrs. McCormick received a letter from Muriel telling of her intentions, the secretary said but no details, as to the date or place of the wedding, were supplied.

Fowler McCormick, who recently wed the former Mrs. Anna U. Stillman, said he was not acquainted with Mr. Hubbard. Mrs. McCormick's secretary said Muriel met Mr. Hubbard at Bar Harbor, where she had been passing the summer, but her parents had no previous intimation of their engagement.

Muriel is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McCormick, who were divorced in 1921. The father, an executive of the International Harvester Co., which was founded by her grandfather, Cyrus McCormick, later married Ganna Walska, singer. Her

West Coast Quake Bears Out Prophet

California Sleepers Are Roused 24 Hours After Prediction Is Made.

Los Angeles, Sept. 9 (U.P.).—Twenty-four hours after Rafael Bendandi, Italy's famous earthquake prophet, predicted an earthquake tremor for today, shocks were reported on the Pacific Coast.

Residents of Red Bluff, Calif., were awakened at 5:27 a. m. by a tremor lasting approximately three minutes. No damage was reported.

Bendandi said today's quakes would be on the Europa-Asiatic frontier, with repercussions in America. The Pacific Coast quake disturbed adjustment of the seismograph at Mount Harkness, in Lassen Volcanic National Park. Andrew Free, forest ranger, said his lookout station was severely shaken.

(Associated Press.)

The Georgetown University seismographic observatory last night reported earthquake shocks of more than an hour and a half duration.

The shocks began at 3:52:36 p. m. (E. S. T.). The university estimated the distance from Washington at 7,500 miles.

Pershing Pays Respects To President Hoover

Gen. John J. Pershing, who recently returned from France, called on President Hoover yesterday to pay his respects.

The general, who spent several months in Europe, said he did not talk to the President about European conditions.

M'DONALD ASKS DRASTIC STEPS FOR ECONOMIES

Premier Offers Bills for National Frugality by Orders in Council.

PROGRAM SPURRED, DESPITE FRIVOLITY

Snowden, in Speech Today, to Reveal New Taxes to Aid in Crisis.

London, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Drastic measures for national economy by orders in council were presented in the House of Commons by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald today. With the whiphand in Parliament well established, the national government went ahead with its program in steam roller fashion.

A majority of 93 was obtained on resolutions limiting the Commons' business to the nation's financial emergency.

Powerless in obstruction, the Labor opposition resorted to demonstrations ranging from bitter debate to good-humored horseplay. Verbal clashes flared frequently in a strange mixture of personalities and parties. Arguments became extravagant and laughter and cheers immoderate in an atmosphere of nervous restlessness.

Seymour Cocks, Nottinghamshire Labor member, taunted the MacDonald ministers as "the nominees of the money lenders and shylocks," and as having "surrendered to the gangsters of Wall street." Somebody called Sir Oswald a liar and Sir Oswald dared him to go outside and say it again.

Frivolity Indulgd In.

Neil MacLean, radical Labor member from Glasgow, needed a silk hat, in accordance with the ancient custom, before raising a point of order. Few members of his party wear them, but Mrs. Leah Manning, representing East Islington, passed along her smart little model with two feathers in it. The man on the bench behind placed it on Mr. MacLean's head, but the fiery Scott threw it off immediately.

Then the Labor members amused themselves by passing the hat around and placing it on the heads of their unsuspecting colleagues. When Mrs. Manning rescued it it was in battered condition.

Despite this frivolity, the government moved forward with its program according to schedule, and tomorrow Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden will present his supplementary budget, revealing to individual subjects the share they will shoulder of the nation's new tax burden.

Snowden to Reveal New Taxes.

Already the unemployed know they are going to suffer a 10 per cent reduction in the weekly dole of about a pound. Tomorrow the men who ride in limousines will learn what sacrifices the nation demands of them.

The cabinet today gave final consideration to budget measures. Mr. Snowden speaks tomorrow afternoon, but will not reveal the new taxes until after the markets close at 5 p. m.

Speculation continued today regarding their exact character, but as always they remained a state secret. The belief still held that lower incomes would be brought within the scope of the income tax. Increased duties are expected on such commodities as tobacco, beer, wines and spirits, tea, sugar and gasoline. Provision for $300,000,000 in new taxation is expected. One surprise item may be an increase in the cost of a radio license, now 10 shillings ($2.40) a year. Every owner of a radio in Great Britain must have a license.

Theaters and greyhound racing may also be hit. Resolutions making the new taxes effective immediately will be passed tomorrow night.

PRESIDENT CONFERS ON COTTON CREDITS

White House Takes Up Methods to Finance Export Trade.

(Associated Press).

Depressed cotton looked to the White House for assistance yesterday while the Farm Board continued negotiations for the sale of surplus wheat.

From the Executive Mansion came word that President Hoover was conferring with bankers and cotton men on the possibility of arranging banking credits for exports of the staple. He has talked with W. L. Clayton, Texas cotton man; Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and George R. James, a reserve board member, but only the theme of their conference has become known.

Just after the White House interest in cotton exports became known, Chairman Stone said the Farm Board did not plan to ask the next Congress for any more money. He reiterated that the board did not plan to buy any more cotton or wheat. This apparently ended speculation on whether the board might again attempt stabilization operations.

Silent on Deals.

Stone said the board was considering several further wheat deals but he would not discuss them nor comment on reports that Germany has offered to buy 200,000 tons.

He also declined to estimate the money the board has left of the $500,000,000 given it. He said the board intended to keep in "pretty good financial condition," adding it would undoubtedly need more money if it attempted to purchase any considerable quantities of wheat and cotton.

In view of the Farm Board attitude, Government funds apparently are not involved in the plan for financing cotton exports.

The credit might be arranged through commercial banking organizations with the cooperation of the Federal Reserve system to enable the grower or exporter of cotton to carry the commodity until foreign buyers paid for it.

Hoover Sees Need.

Or credit might be established by American banks for the foreign buyer. The banks could accept the bills, charging them against credit extended the foreign buyer and paying the exporter in cash. This would result in substance in the American exporter taking the foreign buyer's acceptance and discounting it at American banks.

The President was represented at the White House as feeling that the need for establishing credits for exports was more immediate than plans to cut production. He also looks upon plans to cut the cotton acreage as the responsibility of the grower and the States.

Hurricane Sweeping To British Honduras

(United Press.)

The Weather Bureau last night issued a hurricane warning stating that a tropical disturbance is moving rapidly westward with "increasing intensity" about 75 miles south of Swan Island.

The storm is reported as accompanied by shifting gales of possible hurricane force near the center and is expected to pass inland over British Honduras near or south of Belize tomorrow. The bureau advised "caution" for all ships in the path of the storm.

a cotton bill embodying the Long plan for 1932 and providing a 50 per cent reduction in cotton acreage for the next year. Penalty for violation of the law would be two years' imprisonment. Gordon Burns, of Walker County, presented a bill reducing acreage by 33⅓ per cent.

Pat Dwyer, San Antonio, discussed a proposed bill calling for appointment of a State agricultural equalizing board with power to deal in, buy and regulate production of cotton. An operating fund of $150,000,000 was specified.

Farmers aligned themselves behind a proposal limiting the cotton crop of 1932 and 1933 to one-fourth of this year's cultivated acreage. After 1933 the plan requires no land shall be sown in cotton in successive years.

A loan fund of $30,000,000 would be provided for farmers by a bill offered in the Senate by Senator Joe Moore taxing ginger ale, malt extracts, gasoline, cotton exchanges. It asks for a levy of 25 per cent of the wholesale cost of radios, 5 cents a quart for ginger ale, 5 cents per horsepower on motor vehicles, 1 per cent on cotton future contracts, and 1 per cent on capital stock of banks and trust companies.

A smashing blow at bucket shops was aimed by Representative Penrose Metcalf, who offered a bill prohibiting the sale of futures. The bill was referred to the agricultural committee. Both fines and jail sentences were provided for violation of the proposed law.

Hopes for speedy cotton legislation received a setback today when the Senate refused to allow its agricultural committee to sit in joint hearing with the House committee.

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—A special session of the South Carolina General Assembly to enact remedial legislation with respect to the situation confronting the cotton growers was ordered today by Gov. Ibra C. Blackwood.

Clara Barton Chapter Address of President

The address of President Hoover yesterday in praise of Clara Barton Red Cross Chapter, organized in 1881, follows:

The law provides that the Chief Executive of the Nation shall also be the president of the American Red Cross. This fact adds to the sense of personal pleasure in the privilege which I have today of greeting by the radio those who have assembled at Dansville, N. Y., to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Clara Barton Chapter, No. 1, the first Red Cross chapter in America. This chapter has the distinction of being organized by Clara Barton herself in 1881. It is a great distinction which your chapter enjoys both for the association with Miss Barton and as the beginners of one of the most beneficent institutions of our history.

The beginnings of human enterprises derive their significance from the service which time proves their ability to perform for humanity. The Nation joins in your celebration because of the success of the great humanitarian agency which sprang from the mind of Clara Barton and the spirit of your community.

The establishment of the pioneer chapter in the village of Dansville was the forerunner of 3,500 chapters now in existence throughout the United States, enrolling at times of national need as many as 20,000,000 members. In its lifetime the Red Cross has raised and expended nearly a billion of money in the relief of human distress. The national organization has become our Nation's assurance of adequate, prompt and efficient handling of any catastrophe within our borders. It is the flowering of the spiritual impulse of sympathetic help and the mechanism for its practical expression. It stands as a monument to individual and local initiative. It proves the ability of a democracy to create from the people themselves the agencies for their service.

More than a century has passed since Clara Barton was born, and it may be well said that the institution was not only founded by a noble woman, but it has been carried on very largely by the womanhood of our country. The 50 years which have passed since that pioneer beginning have written a chapter in the world-wide relief of human suffering which is a fitting memorial to Miss Barton and a proud tradition to her countrymen.

Women's interest in the prevention of suffering and in ministrations of mercy to those in sickness, peril and need, is the foundation of the Red Cross organization which has been fittingly described as "the greatest mother of them all." To Miss Barton, Miss Mabel Boardman and the many thousands of other devoted women, in all localities of this broad land, the cause of prompt, effective and sympathetic alleviation of suffering and distress owes its debt of gratitude and remembrance. To the men who give their service—of whom there is no greater example than Judge Payne—I also pay tribute.

It is my privilege, on behalf of the Nation, to acknowledge the debt, both to the pioneer founders of the organization and to their successors who are carrying on today.

U. S. APPROVES PLAN OF GRANDI BUT DOUBTS ITS ACCEPTABILITY

plete story of the European tour just completed by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson. This may now be told.

U. S. Now in Thick of It.

The story is further evidence that the United States, until recently regarded as an "isolationist" nation so far as Europe's affairs were concerned, is now in the thick of European affairs.

The story depicts Secretary Stimson talking intimately to Chancellor Bruening of Germany, urging him to get together with Prime Minister Laval of France; talking to Prime Minister Laval, urging him to get together with Chancellor Bruening, and again to Dictator Mussolini of Italy and other European leaders.

It shows Secretary Stimson encouraging these European diplomats to get together and settle their various political problems—the quarrel between France and Germany over the Polish Corridor and Germany's lost territories, revision of the Versailles treaty and other matters of contention between the two. It also shows Secretary Stimson trying to prevail upon the French and the Italians to get together, settle their differences in the Mediterranean and thus make a reduction in their navies possible.

Congressional Ire Likely.

These are all "political" questions—European political questions. And were Congress in session right now, its members undoubtedly would have much to say as to the propriety of Secretary Stimson discussing them with European statesmen. For that matter, much may be said about it when Congress comes back in December.

The justification for it, so far as the Hoover administration is concerned, is the League of Nations' world armaments conference, scheduled to be held next February.

President Hoover believes that one of the chief causes of the economic depression is the tremendous outlay for armies and navies—$5,000,000,000 a year, he told the International Chamber of Commerce last May.

If the nations, at the Geneva conference in February, could agree to lighten that $5,000,000,000 burden, then, in the opinion of President Hoover, a real contribution would be made to economic recovery throughout the world.

Inducing Mood the Problem.

The problem, as President Hoover saw it, was to get the nations into a mood where they would want to disarm. A year ago they were far from being in such a mood. They were, to use an expression, looking daggers at each other. Hugh Gibson so reported after the last preparatory disarmament conference.

Thus, according to the authoritative story that now can be told, President Hoover decided last December that Secretary Stimson should go to Europe and make a personal round of the chancelleries and palaces, talking to the various government leaders and seeking to bring them together in a spirit of good will.

If they could talk over and come to some sort of agreement on their various political problems, it was felt here, the one obstacle in the path of disarmament would be removed.

Crisis in Germany.

After that decision was reached by President Hoover and Secretary Stimson the crisis in Germany arose. The result was the President's dramatic proposal for a one-year moratorium on international debts and reparations, a proposal which is credited with saving Germany from collapse and maybe revolution.

Secretary Stimson left for Europe in the midst of the negotiations over the moratorium, and, with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, took part in the seven-power conference in London that resulted in further aid for Germany.

In any event, as a result of the moratorium and as a result of Secretary Stimson's work of conciliation among the leaders of the European nations, the world is now presented with the spectacle of these leaders exchanging visits and talking over their problems.

Bilateral Parleys Held.

Chancellor Bruening, of Germany, calls on Prime Minister Laval, of France, and Laval returns the visit. Bruening calls on Prime Minister MacDonald, of Great Britain, and then receives a visit from the latter in London. The bilateral conferences likewise involve Dino Grandi, the foreign minister of Italy, and ultimately no doubt, will involve other European leaders.

The bilateral conferences are just what President Hoover and Secretary Stimson had hoped for, believing as they do, that only such conferences can dispose of the highly explosive problems that now stand in the way of disarmament.

CLARA BARTON WINS PRESIDENT'S PRAISE

Hoover by Radio, Roosevelt in Person, Laud Woman Red Cross Founder.

Dansville, N. Y., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—A radio message from President Hoover and an address by Gov. Roosevelt, in which he said it is the duty of the community at all times to care for those in need, marked the celebration today of the founding here by Clara Barton of the first Red Cross Chapter in America.

President Hoover, speaking from Washington over a Nation-wide radio hookup, paid tribute to Miss Barton as a "noble woman" and said "the Red Cross proves the ability of a democracy to create from the people themselves the agencies for their service."

Gov. Roosevelt, addressing those at the fiftieth anniversary celebration in person, said: "The teachings of Miss Barton must be applied to the distress and suffering which stalk in our midst on this anniversary day."

Mr. Hoover, who is president of the Red Cross, mentioned that the Dansville Chapter was the forerunner of 3,500 now in existence enrolling at times of national need as many as 20,000,000 members.

"The national organization has become our Nation's assurance of adequate, prompt and efficient handling of any catastrophe within our borders," the President continued. "It is the flowering of the spiritual impulse to serve the common need. It represents both the common impulse of sympathetic help and the mechanism for its practical expression. It stands as a monument to individual and local initiative."

Gov. Roosevelt, after eulogizing Miss Barton as a leader in American public service, said:

"I think I speak for the people of the State when I say that the best and highest tribute we can pay to her will rest in a deep understanding among all elements of our population that no modern social order can rest secure without recognition of the duty of the community at all times to care for those of its members who suffer or are in want."

FOUR NATIONS PRESS LEAGUE ON DISARMING

nese government is ready to make all these efforts in full agreement with other governments to contribute to the success of the general conference, it is very anxious that all powers whose situation closely affects the national defense of Japan should make similar efforts."

Hugh Guthrie, Canada's representative, urged postponement of all incidental questions "until the supreme, the all-important question of world peace shall have been placed upon a more firm and satisfactory basis than that on which it rests today." He declared Canada's adherence to the principle of "arbitration, security and disarmament."

The controversy over whether security must precede disarmament in this formula (France has consistently maintained that security must precede disarmament) was described as futile by D. J. Ghika, of Roumania.

Security Is Stressed.

"It would be useless, however," he added, "to expect that after such a disastrous war as the last one and in the present state of society, the nations should lay down their arms before they are in a position to establish security."

Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, of Germany, is scheduled to address the assembly tomorrow. Inasmuch as the Italian arms armistice proposal aroused enthusiasm in the German delegation, when Foreign Minister Dino Grandi enunciated it yesterday, it is expected that the German foreign minister will devote some time to it.

Preliminary discussion in the constitution committee today indicated that chances for revising the covenant to harmonize with the Kellogg pact this year are slight. Italy has taken a firm stand against revising the league's fundamental law for the present and no delegation appears ready to make a strong fight for the proposed revision.

Germany's arms statement showing an army of 100,500 men and 4,500 officers and a navy personnel of 15,000 men and 1,500 officers was published today by the League of Nations' secretariat.

Foreign Minister Julius Curtius in a foreword said that Germany had not yet been able to build her fleet up to the limit laid down in the Versailles Treaty and that the report revealed how meager Germany's armament is compared with other States of corresponding territory and population.

"Borah-for-President" Club Forms in Virginia

Mendota, Va., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—A "Borah-for-President" Club was organized here today, it was announced by Vernon C. Barker, local attorney.

Mr. Barker said that Senator Borah, of Idaho, was "recognized by the club as the most competent man in the United States to establish economic justice, restore prosperity on a solid foundation, enthrone law and order, insure domestic tranquillity between capital and labor, form a bond of sympathy and cooperation between the North and South, East and West, and usher in the golden age of peace and good will among nations."

mother is the daughter of John D. Rockefeller.

Hubbard is a descendant of Elijah Kent Hubbard, pioneer Chicagoan, who later moved to Middletown. He was president of the Maxim Silencer Co.

Estranged From Father.

Muriel herself has many times figured in the news. She became estranged from her father when the latter married Mme. Walska and for some time ignored her mother at social functions.

After the estrangement she was chaperoned by Mrs. George A. McClintock and once publicly announced she had "met" the latter's dead son, George, jr., in a spiritualistic seance. She proclaimed George, jr., her "spiritualistic bridegroom." The youth was killed in the World War. She had never met him in life, but after the proclamation wore a wedding ring. The announcement caused her mother's earlier statements of recalling a previous existence among the Pharoahs to pale materially.

eighteen years in Europe. She lived with Mrs. McKinlock until 1928, and then went to Rochester, N. Y., to study music.

It was often reported that she planned to enter motion pictures. She took the stage in 1922 under the name of Nawanna Micor. Only last April she managed a miniature theater in West Palm Beach, Fla., and planned the role of Mona Lisa in the premiere of "The Face."

She is an accomplished yachtswoman and her boat Aquilla once won several "socfety" races.

Has Lived Alone.

Middletown, Conn., Sept. 9 (A.P.). Elisha Dyer Hubbard, whose engagement to Muriel McCormick, granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, was announced today in Chicago, is a member of an old and socially prominent Connecticut family.

For many years Mr. Hubbard has lived a quiet and rather secluded life on his small estate in the Westfield section of Middletown which he calls Lone Tree Farm. Except for his butler, he lives alone.

Mr. Hubbard, a son of the late Elisha Kent Hubbard, a pioneer of Chicago, served on the staff of Gov. John H. Trumbull with the rank of major. He is extremely interested in military affairs and is known to his friends as "Major." His chief interest locally is in the Middletown Service Men's Union. During the World War he served overseas with the Yale unit.

Mr. Hubbard has never married. Friends here said he is about 50 years old. He is the brother of E. Kent Hubbard, president of the Connecticut Manufacturers Association, and an official of the New England Council. Another brother, Louis de Koven Hubbard, also lives here.

Fullback Brings Down Stray Bull on Streets

Danville, Ky., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Centre College has a bull-fighting full back, who should be a tower of strength to the Colonels this year. He is Dallas Long, 213 pounds, of Augusta, Ark.

Returning from football practice late yesterday Long added an extra session of drill by tackling a bull that had strayed from a stockyard and was charging right and left on Danville streets.

Long grabbed the bull's neck, threw it to the ground, and held the animal until it was roped. He emerged from his experience with only a few scratches.

RED CROSS FORCES JOIN RELIEF WORK

1,000 Chapters Engaged in Aiding Unemployed; 500,000 Assisted.

(Associated Press.)

The Red Cross announced yesterday that more than 1,000 of its chapters are engaged in unemployment relief work, and sent instructions to the others to do so if necessary.

Criticized for its atttiude toward jobless relief, the Red Cross told its chapters they could participate in preventing distress regardless of the cause, if relief needs were not being met by other agencies.

John Barton Payne, national chairman, in a letter to chapter heads reiterated his organization's distinction between distress resulting from "natural" and "economic" causes but said:

"Where there is suffering and want from any cause and the fundamental local needs are not being met, chapters may participate in the community plans for meeting the need."

Chapters Promised Cooperation.

At the same time he promised the chapters the advice and cooperation of the national organization in relief problems. Mr. Payne also gave out a public statement outlining Red Cross activities in unemployment, drought and general relief.

"Last available reports," he said, "indicate 1,031 chapters are now engaged in general friendly relief work, directly helping their communities to meet the unusual needs of the present situation by assuming responsibility for all or part of local unemployment relief.

"During the year ended June 30 approximately 500,000 persons were given relief by these Red Cross chapters. Many other chapters (including those in some of the largest cities) are playing an important part cooperatively with other agencies in raising funds for local unemployment relief.

Former Service Men Aided.

"Red Cross workers—chapters and the national organization working jointly—during the past year handled the cases of more than 400,000 former service men and their families, thereby relieving other agencies both public and private of this tremendous relief problem.

"This important phase of Red Cross work is being continued with the probability that the load will be materially increased during the time in which unemployment remains a serious problem."

In his letter to the chapter heads, Mr. Payne said in part:

"The suggestion has been made that the Red Cross accept complete responsibility for relief of unemployment in the present depression.

"Consistent with its charter the Red Cross has developed and adhered to the following principles: (1) The Red Cross distinguishes between distress resulting from 'natural' and 'economic' causes; (2) It does not duplicate the work of other agencies; (3) chapters undertake general relief work only where other agencies are inadequate and where the financial support for such work is provided locally."

Indiana Shoulders Burden.

While the Red Cross position was explained, President Hoover made public a telegram from Gov. Leslie of Indiana assuring him that State could take care of its own unemployed next winter.

but undesirable," Gov. Leslie said.

Walter S. Gifford, national relief director, yesterday designated ten additional members of the advisory committee set up by President Hoover as representatives of their States. President Hoover had previously announced that fourteen members of the committee would act as State representatives, making 24 in all that have been selected.

Those announced yesterday included: Maryland, Daniel Willard, Baltimore, and Virginia, Homer Ferguson, Newport News.

CUBA REVOLT OVER, PROBLEMS REMAIN

Brookings Institution, in Report, Doubts Effects Were Beneficial.

(Associated Press.)

The Brookings Institution said yesterday suppression of the recent Cuban revolt had not strengthened Cuba's economic condition and may have weakened it.

"The Cuban revolution, it would seem, has been liquidated," the institution said in a study entitled "The Cuban Situation and Our Treaty Relations," adding "yet the basic problems of that country remain unsolved."

The study was made by Dr. Philip G. Wright, former member of the United States Tariff Commission. Dr. Wright said so long as Cuba remained a one-crop country her economic situation would be precarious, adding that anomalous treaty relationships between the United States and Cuba were partly responsible for excessive concentration on sugar raising.

Pointing out that the United States "has formally or informally intervened in Cuban affairs no less than five times," Dr. Wright said the existence of the Platt amendment had placed the United States in an embarrassing position.

"They make Washington appear to be the 'power behind the throne' in Cuba," he said, "and to be upholding or at least condoning the autocratic methods by which Cuba's president is generally believed to be maintaining his position."

President Machado was described by Dr. Wright as the spearhead of the Cuban opposition to the Platt amendment, which was said implicitly to have abridged Cuban sovereignty.

At the same time, the author questioned Machado's desire formally to abrogate the amendment, since he said there was evidence that it had been an important factor in keeping him in power.

At the same time, Dr. Wright said reciprocity and sovereignty would be minor issues "until the sugar industry is put on a safe and sound basis, or until Cuba ceases to be dependent for her very life on the prosperity of that single industry."

Venezuela Petrol Output Off From June a Year Ago

Maracaibo, Venezuela (A.P.).—There was a reduction in the production of petroleum in Venezuela as well as the exportation of oil from this country in June of this year compared with the preceding month, according to reports just issued by the fourteen leading oil companies operating here.

Figured in metric tons the oil produced by these firms in June aggregated 1,359,976, as against 1,404,935 in May, while the amount exported totaled 1,264,679 compared with 1,368,015 in May.

In the first six months of 1931 the production of petroleum totaled 8,613,864 metric tons, of which 8,341,645 were exported. Stocks on hand July 1 were estimated at 1,085,028.

Coast Artillery Officer Missing

Maj. Coleman W. Jenkins Disappears From Army War College.

Every policeman in Washington early today was making an intensive search for Maj. Coleman W. Jenkins, Coast Artillery officer, stationed at the Army War College, who disappeared from there yesterday morning at the wheel of his auto. The hunt was directed by Assistant Police Superintendent Frank S. W. Burke.

Orders went out to check quietly but carefully every hotel in the city, hospitals, garages and filling stations and to observe all persons sitting in parked cars. Maj. Jenkins' description was broadcast by radio. He is 44 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighs 165 pounds, has gray hair, brown eyes and ruddy complexion and wore dark brown coat, gray trousers, tan shoes and straw hat.

The officer suffered a nervous breakdown recently and underwent treatment at Walter Reed Hospital.

Four Men and 2 Women Hurt in Auto Collision

Four men and two women were injured yesterday in a collision of two automobiles at Bladensburg and Mount Olivet roads northeast. In one car were two sailors, Fred W. Beyer and Anthony Dapkus, and D. E. Benton, of Baltimore, while William Gagne was driving the other auto, accompanied by his wife and Delia Donatelli, 28, 1124 Owen place northeast.

All were taken to Casualty Hospital, suffering minor cuts and bruises, except Mrs. Gagne, who received a possible skull fracture. The Gagnes are from Paterson, N. J.

Boy, Finger Shot, Dies of Lockjaw

Tetanus Antitoxin Is Used in Vain Effort to Save Lad.

Injuries suffered August 16, when he accidentally shot himself in the finger, proved fatal late yesterday to 10-year-old Edward F. McCombs, 1527 Twenty-third street southeast. He died of lockjaw in Providence Hospital.

It was said by hospital authorities that 120,000 units of tetanus antitoxin, considerably in excess of the usual treatment, were administered in a futile attempt to save the boy's life. He was a patient at Casualty Hospital for two weeks, then discharged, only to be sent to Providence Hospital when his condition became worse.

The boy borrowed the pistol from a chum and purchased cartridges. All but one of these were taken away from him by Mrs. Hallie McCombs, who later gave her blood to save the boy's life. It was with the remaining bullet that Edward shot himself.

SMITH DISCLAIMS STATEMENT ON '32

"No One Authorized" to Say He Won't Run, Former Governor Asserts.

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, asked today concerning a published report that he would not be a candidate for the Presidency in 1932, emphatically said: "No one is authorized to speak for me."

A Washington dispatch printed in an afternoon paper said it had been learned from "persons so close to Mr. Smith as to admit no doubt" that the former governor would not allow his name to go before the 1932 Democratic national convention.

Mr. Smith, reached by the Associated Press at Canoe Place, Long Island, said he knew nothing about the published story. The principal paragraphs were read to him.

"No one is authorized to speak for me," he said with emphasis. "That statement did not come from me. I gave out no announcement. I have no statement to make."

Silent on Baker Boom.

He was told that the copyrighted story, which appeared in the New York Evening Post, stated he would make a fight in the Democartic convention for a straight-out wet plank and that he favored the home rule proposal of John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee.

Although he listened to a reading of that part of the story, Mr. Smith refused to comment further.

He also refused to say anything about another statement in the dispatch to the effect that opponents of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt were concentrating upon Newton D. Baker, of Ohio, former Secretary of War, as their candidate, and were hoping for an open declaration from Mr. Baker of his candidacy.

The Post story said that Mr. Baker will probably begin his active campaign for the candidacy with a speech he is to make before the American Legion in Detroit in two weeks.

No Comment on Dry Issue.

The dispatch also said:

"Mr. Smith has been cool to the Roosevelt candidacy, but it is not believed that he will openly oppose the present New York Governor unless an issue arises between them over prohibition. Mr. Roosevelt, it will be recalled, has been against the Raskob plank."

On this Mr. Smith likewise refused to comment.

The Raskob so-called home rule plan provides for retaining Federal prohibition only as it applies to States which desire to remain dry. By a referendum of the voters other States would be allowed to adopt their own methods of liquor control.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 40

THERE have been few more distinguished gatherings at the White House in the past 25 years than the one shown in this picture. Glance at some of the faces below and you will probably recognize men who are bywords in American history.

Every one, of course, will recognize the white-vested figure in the center. His initials are T. R. Any one not knowing who he is by that hint should go back to school, or read the next paragraph where his name is included.

Those in the front row, from left to right, are Andrew Carnegie, without whom you probably wouldn't be reading that free book from the library; William Jennings Bryan, who requires no elaboration; James J. Hill, railroad magnate; John Mitchell, labor leader; President Theodore Roosevelt and Vice President Fairbanks. The others in the front row were all associate judges on the United States Supreme Court. From left to right they are John W. Harlan, David J. Brewer, Edward D. White, Joseph McKenna and Oliver Wendell Holmes.

At least all of the conferees retained that close-lipped silence that has marked events since the grand jury's findings in the Staples case and the indictment of five Washington policemen on charges of assault in connection with complaints that prisoners were severely beaten to obtain confessions.

Among the conferences were those between United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride, Mr. Bride and Acting Attorney General Thacher, Mr. Rover and Department of Justice officials, Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, and Maj. Gen. Herbert Crosby, Police Commissioner, and Henry I. Quinn, counsel for Inspector Louis J. Stoll, prominently mentioned in the Staples case, and Mr. Bride.

Touched on Third Degree.

The talk between the corporation counsel and the United States attorney touched on the "third degree" investigation and the Staples case, but what phases were discussed the officials refused to divulge.

Mr. Bride and Mr. Thacher were equally secretive about their chat. This conference lent color to reports from the District Building that the Commissioners have asked the Department of Justice to extend the scope of investigation from the "third degree" charges to every angle of the police situation in Washington.

Mr. Rover and the Department of Justice officials talked of the additional cases of police brutality now in course of preparation for presentation to the grand jury. Mr. Rover said last night that he did not believe any of these additional cases would be ready to go to the grand jury before the first of next week.

Secrecy also surrounded the conference between Maj. Pratt and Gen. Crosby. It was said after the conference that the police heads talked only of routine "police matters."

Also Kept Secret.

The purpose of the talk between Inspector Stoll's attorney and Mr. Bride was also kept a secret. Mr. Quinn has already challenged the grand jury to indict Inspector Stoll on charges of perjury in connection with the Staples case.

Another matter involving police administration was passed from Mr. Rover's office back to Maj. Pratt. This was the offer of Robert F. Langdon, former policeman who was dismissed from the department following an investigation of the slaying of Beulah Limerick, to go before the grand jury and tell of the "ins and outs" of the Washington police system.

In his letter to Maj. Pratt, Langdon asked for reinstatement on the police force with the proviso that he be allowed to resign immediately afterward. This was refused. The letter was written from Lynn, Mass., last August 18 and is as follows:

"Writing you this letter may seem unusual under the circumstances of occurrences in the past. After considering everything, I feel that my dismissal from the Police Department was unjust in that a higher tribunal cleared me of all charges of guilt.

"It seems unjust for a man who served 24 months overseas and who was picked as one of the best men in the Marine Corps to fill a position of trust and honesty, guarding confidential and secret codes, listening to secret discussions among ranking Government officials, to be forced into breaking up his home, unable to secure employment and at present financially broken owing to the judgment passed by men who are afraid to give a man a fair trial because they fear the newspapers.

"With the exception of one man, Capt. O. T. Davis, I feel that I am morally superior to the men who tried me, as I may be forced to divulge if I must enlist the aid of newspaper articles to give me a living.

"I was charged with aiding a crime that God knows I am innocent of by a few men who blundered on other homicide cases, through their neglect of duty while seeking pleasure while on duty.

Not Afraid of Inquiry.

"I never felt that I would ever reach the level of being a squealer, but rather than do dishonest acts for subsistence. I will have no other alternative than to become one, but in my case I will not have resort to stories of fiction, but to realities, being unafraid to go before any grand jury or congressional committee, and tell the ins and outs of how the rank and file of the Police Department conceal embarrassments that have never been exposed.

"Keeping my mouth shut while a member of the Police Department didn't seem to help me much, for once you are not included in the clique your chance for advancement is poor."

In the Staples case, the District Commissioners marked time while Mr. Bride was busy, apart from conference, in working out two major problems referred to him by the District heads.

ROOSEVELT RELIEF BACKED BY MACY

G. O. P. Chairman Comes to Support of Democrats' Employment Plans.

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The powerful support of the Republican State chairman was placed today behind the unemployment relief proposals presented to the State Legislature by New York's Democratic governor, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Although no official announcement was made it was learned at Republican State headquarters here that Chairman W. Kingsland Macy had sent word to Albany that the Republican party must avoid any charges of obstructive tactics.

Barring a breach within the Republican ranks, such as occurred temporarily over the New York City investigation measure last winter, New York newspapers predicted early passage of the governor's unemployment relief program.

This provides for establishment of an emergency commission of three, named by the Governor, to administer the contemplated $20,000,000 fund, which Roosevelt plans to obtain by increased income taxes.

First intimation that Chairman Macy had decided to support the Roosevelt-Democratic program came when the Long Island delegation in the Legislature, representing Macy's home district, announced themselves in favor of the governor's plan.

In supporting the Roosevelt plan, Assemblyman Edwin W. Wallace, of Nassau, generally regarded as Macy's spokesman in the lower house, declared it was "foolish" for the majority party to oppose Roosevelt's plan "simply because the governor is a Democrat."

Action by Macy followed closely on a report by a Republican-controlled joint legislative committee opposing the governor's program. Principally, the variation between the Democratic and Republican programs lay in the manner in which the relief fund was to be raised and administered.

With the four assemblymen and one senator from Macy's district announcing themselves with the governor's program "to the last ditch," it appeared passage of the Roosevelt bills would be assured.

ONE DIES, 5 INJURED IN UTAH PRISON RIOT

Warden and Aid Balk Revolt of Dozen Convicts Armed With Guns and Bombs.

Salt Lake City, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—A convict riot which flared for an hour today in the Utah State Penitentiary left in its wake one convict dead, one guard seriously wounded and a deputy warden, guard and two convicts injured.

A dozen convicts, armed with a revolver and crude bombs and knives, were held in check by the refusal of the warden and his deputy to capitulate to their demands for the surrender of the guards' weapons.

After riot calls had brought policemen, deputy sheriffs and firemen swarming upon the wall to reinforce the guards and a company of national guardsmen had been assembled in their armory with machine guns, the mutineers agreed to the demands of Warden R. E. Davis that they surrender and liberate two guards they had taken prisoner.

Louis Deathridge, 29, serving a term for robbery, was shot down from the wall by a guard as he was climbing up a rope ladder. C. L. Christensen, a guard attacked by the convicts, received a head injury and stab wounds, but the prison physician reported tonight he was out of danger. Deputy Warden Wilford F. Giles was cut in the hand and D. L. Rees, a guard, was beaten over the head.

Two convicts, Raymond Underwood and Joe Speel, were wounded by bullets of the guards.

Deputy Warden Giles was made prisoner when he answered a call from a cell house saying a convict had fallen and injured himself. Surrounded by a dozen convicts armed with knives and a pistol, he refused to command the guards on the walls to throw their rifles into the prison yard. He likewise disregarded their demands that he summon the warden.

Proceeding to the upper tier in the same cell house, the mutineers attacked Christensen and Rees and took them captive. Then F. C. Hertel, one of the rioters, ran into the yard and hurled a bomb at the lookout tower on the corner of the wall. It exploded harmlessly on the roof, but served as an alarm for other guards. They fired upon Hertel, but missed, and he lost himself in a crowd of some 300 convicts who were exercising in the yard.

Deathridge, holding the deputy warden before him, led the rioters into the yard, but they were scattered by the guards' rifles. Glass broke away and escaped to safety, and Deathridge made his fatal break for liberty.

The GIRL About Town

MRS. GUSTAVE HANNA wrote me a glowing letter about the beautiful decoration which the City of Managua, Nicaragua, gave her for her recent heroism during the earthquake. She is wife of the American Minister to Nicaragua. Mrs. Hanna put her Red Cross training to good account in taking care of the quake sufferers. She will be in Washington this winter.

Chauffeur Surrenders In Strangling of Girl

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Jack Hartigan, 24-year-old chauffeur, sought since Labor Day for questioning concerning the death of Catherine Cronin, 20 years old, who was found strangled to death in Hartigan's apartment, surrendered to police today.

He was accompanied by Abraham Karp, an attorney, and went immediately to the detective bureau at the police station.

ROOSEVELT ATTACKS MELLON BOND ISSUE

Governor Deplores Hoover Regime's Borrowing to Pay Current Expenses.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Franklin D. Roosevelt, New York Governor and potential Democratic presidential nominee, tonight took issue with the latest financial plan of President Hoover's Cabinet.

In an address at a dinner given annually to a large number of farmers and agricultural organizations, the governor advised his home State it would be "very foolish" to follow the precedent established by the Federal Government in floating an $800,000,000 long term bond issue to "cure the defects of a budget."

The bond issue plan has been credited to Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury. The dinner was given by Jerome D. Barnum, publisher of the Syracuse Post-Standard.

Policy on Expenses.

In the address, the governor repeated his long-standing policy of having any government pay expenses as they arise, instead of creating a debt through long bond issues to be paid off in future years.

Drawing an analogy between a government and an individual, he said the individual would be at his "rope's end" if he met his current deficits by borrowing against his capital, unless "it should happen that the luck of fools takes care of him."

Swinging directly into the current depression and governmental plans for tiding over it, the governor said:

"Times of depression such as the present ought to teach us something about public financing and public thrift.

Lesson in Difficulties.

"They ought to teach us that we can't expect to be immune from periods of stress and difficulty, and that we will be in poor shape to meet such emergencies if we have a mounting burden of debt crushing us when they come upon us.

"Right now we have to consider how to meet such an emergency. Shall we meet it according to the example of our Federal Government, which feels itself obliged to put out $800,000,000 of long-time bonds to cure the defects of a budget whose revenues have not come up to expectations?

"I think we should be very foolish and recreant to our trust if we should follow any such precedent. We don't know what the future holds for us. This depression is today's problem. The State must act in the emergency to prevent the most dire distress among its own citizens, distress which private agencies admit they are unable to alleviate except in part."

King of Iraq Introduced To Mayor of Wisecraq

—By JOHN J. DALY—

Said the Mayor of New York to the King of Iraq,

"It's a long way over and a long way back."

Said the King of Iraq to the mayor,

"That's a corker. I'll never be happy till I see New York."

Said the Mayor of New York, in a snappy comeback,

"There's just one New York; is there another Iraq?"

AT Cannes, that celebrated French seaport, now a resort, where Napoleon landed from Elba, Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York encounters King Feisal of Iraq.

By royal arrangement, the Iranian potentate, who had expressed a desire to meet Jimmy Walker—possibly to learn the latest fall styles—called upon the boy from the Big City.

Mayor Walker, in his hotel suite, was busy with a map of Asia, trying to find the unheard-of kingdom.

"Where is Iraq?" asked the Mayor of New York, frantically, as he awaited the arrival of the King. The geographers referred the Mayor to a vilayet in Asiatic Turkey, lying between the Tigris and the Euphrates Rivers, somewhere near the region of Bashra and Bagdad.

"That's what we call New York," said that Mayor, "Bagdad-on-the-Subway. This King has probably visited the Times Square District—for local color."

• • • •

THE King arrives at Cannes.

Court etiquette was searched for a precedent. Who should be introduced—the Mayor or the King?

Queen Margaret of Navarre, daughter of Catherine de Medici, fortunately had laid down one rule: that it is rudeness in a gentleman to go out to meet any one who is coming to see him. So Jimmy Walker, in his dressing gown, remained in his hotel suite whilst the King, amidst a flourish of trumpets, entered the apartment.

Hands outstretched, the King approached the Mayor.

"So this is the celebrated Jimmy Walker," said His Majesty. "I've often heard of you, and of New York——"

"Oh, yeah?" said Jimmy, his face all smiles: "Little ole New York," he repeated, half to himself, and aloud for the benefit of the King, "The greatest town in all the world."

They shook hands.

"And you, King Feisal," said Jimmy, "are from Iraq—so I've been told."

• • • •

"YES," admitted the King, graciously, "and I presume you've never been to Iraq——"

"No," said Jimmy, honestly, "it's such a long way from Forty-second and Broadway. You know how it is with a New Yorker, he kind-a hates to break away from the Bright Lights. We believe that when you leave old New York town you're only camping out," said the Mayor, humming the strains of the popular song.

"Ho, hum," sighed the King, "I presume if the truth were known, New Yorkers have never even heard of Iraq——"

"Well, they might not have heard of Iraq," confessed Jimmy, "but I tell you what they have heard of——"

"And what is that?" asked the King, all ears.

"The Iraqeteers," said the wisecracking Jimmy, while the King bade him good-by.

Marines Reduced In Economy Drive

17,500 Force Will Be Cut During This Year to 16,000.

(Associated Press.)

Reduction of the Marine Corps from 17,500 to 16,000 men, ordered in June as a money saving measure, is to be continued through the next fiscal year as well as the present one.

Naval officials said yesterday the recently completed Navy Department budget for 1932-33 provides for 16,000 marines.

Appropriations for the present year are on a basis of 17,500, but after President Hoover's Rapidan conference with department officials it was decided to reduce the corps to 16,000, with a view to turning back about $1,000,000 into the Treasury.

The entire estate passes to the young flier's grandfather, Christian C. Kyle, of Mount Rainier, Md.

AMY JOHNSON ENDS FLIGHT FROM JAPAN

London Crowds Cheer Girl on Arrival With Record for Voyage to Tokyo.

London, Sept. 9 (U.P.).—Miss Amy Johnson, a rebel against her father's decree that "a woman's place is in the home," came flying back to England today after another journey half way around the world.

With a new record for 10½ days' flight to Toyko in her trophy bag, Miss Johnson and her mechanic landed at Croydon Airdrome at 5:51 p. m. (11:51 a. m. Eastern standard time) to the cheers of a large crowd of admirers. Previously she had landed at Lympe Airdrome to complete officially the round-trip flight to Japan over a route even more dangerous than the one she followed on her first famous venture to Australia.

The 22-year-old girl aviator was as calm as usual about her adventures over the Siberian route, where no woman had ever flown before. She smilingly received congratulations on her success in breaking the eleven-day record from England to Japan set by Seiji Yoshihara, Japanese aviator, but the journey apparently had been only a little more exciting than the subway trips she made every morning until two years ago, when she decided to quit stenography and begin flying.

She now has an outstanding record for women in aviation, having made two of the most dangerous overland and water trips in the world. Her flights to Australia and Japan alone were equal to a trip around the world the longest way. She covered 10,000 miles to Australia and added another 15,000 on the round-trip to Toyko.

Miss Johnson has had few accidents on her flights, although she was forced back from Germany the first time she attempted the Siberian route. One mishap on the Australian journey was of such minor nature that she made repairs herself, and on the flight to Toyko she said they encountered only unimportant difficulties.

She is an expert with tools and likes to work on her plane. She often dons a pair of overalls to tinker with the motor. Her father, a Hull merchant, was in the Klondike gold rush, but has never been entirely reconciled to his daughter's adventurous roaming in the air.

Plane Brings Liner's Mail, Saving 47 Hours

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—A mail-laden airplane that was catapulted from the deck of the liner Europa, 1,275 miles from New York landed here at 7:55 a. m. (E. S. T.) today in what was believed to be the fastest delivery of transatlantic mail via ship and plane.

The plane, piloted by Joachim Blankenburg, German aviator, effected a saving of approximately 27 hours, for the Europa will not dock here until 11:30 tomorrow morning.

32 Torpedo Planes For Navy Are Begun

Cleveland, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The Great Lakes Aircraft Corporation, here, announced start of construction today on 32 new torpedo and bombing planes for the Navy. The planes will cost $1,000,000 and replacement parts an additional $200,000.

The company expects to fill the contract the first of the year and then will start on a new type of amphibian for the Navy. The new ship, designed for airplane carrier service, will have folding wings.

DO-X Cabin Stripped By Souvenir Hunters

New York Sept. 9 (A.P.).—A souvenir hungry public has stripped the cabin of the giant flying boat DO-X of virtually every movable object that might be preserved as a memento, it was revealed today at the North Beach, Long Island, airport, where the ship is on exhibition.

Airport attaches said the control and radio rooms had been barred to the public or there might not have been enough gadgets left to fly the plane again.

Hybla Valley Seen Big Air Terminal

Alexandria Man Optimistic Before Rotary Club at Luncheon.

Establishment of a huge trans-Atlantic terminal for big airships at Hybla Valley, Va., was envisioned yesterday by Dan Hellenga, secretary of the Alexandria (Va.) Chamber of Commerce, in an address before the Washington Rotary Club at luncheon in the Willard Hotel.

Mr. Hellenga described the launching of the Akron, the Navy's new giant dirigible. He depicted Hybla Valley as the logical site for one of the huge air terminals certain to develop as a result of large scale trans-Atlantic flying.

Chester Warrington, and H. R. Mason, were introduced as new members by Paul B. Lum and Edward D. Merrill. Birthday greetings were extended Chester D. Swope, Frederick B. Pyle, George E. Kenelpp and Richard L. Lamb. President S. Percy Thompson introduced a number of visiting Rotarians.

Flier's Parachute Opens At Only 75 Feet Aloft

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Lieut. S. S. Miller, attached to an aircraft squadron aboard the U. S. S. Langley, narrowly escaped death this afternoon when his parachute failed to open until he was within 75 feet of the ground after a 1,000 foot drop.

Lieut. Miller's single-seater land plane plunged to earth after its right wing crumpled 1,000 feet above Cape Henry and he leaped over the side.

Nautilus Is Refitted For Return to America

Longyear City, Spitsbergen, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Sir Hubert Wilkins began overhauling and refueling the submarine Nautilus today in preparation for an early return to America, either directly or by way of Iceland.

The chief damage done in the Arctic was the breaking of the mast by a violent storm. The party expressed satisfaction with its scientific instruments, especially the gyro-compass.

Home Blown Up, Six Hurt and Windows Smashed in Texas Explosion.

The blast lifted Schaerdel's home and splintered it into the ground. His 5-year-old grandson, Billy, was critically injured. Five other members of the family were hurt.

A Negro was tossed from his front porch a mile away. Another Negro was knocked unconscious. Plate glass windows worth $15,000 were shattered. Several buildings were reported cracked. Windows were blown out of a passenger train on the Houston & Texas Central Railroad.

Gross Gets Decree In Chicago Court

Wife Is Restrained From Seeking Third Child's Custody in Illinois.

Chicago, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Superior Judge Joseph B. Davis today signed a modified decree divorcing Capt. Christian Channing Gross, attached to the American Legation in Canada, from Mrs. Virginia Harrison Gross.

The decree granted him custody of two children, Peter, 8, and Barbara, 6, and named him as the father of Mrs. Gross' third child, Anna, 3, the cause of the suit. The court enjoined Mrs. Gross from attempting to obtain legal custody of Anna in Illinois courts until the child is within their jurisdiction. She is now in France.

Gross was granted a divorce in August, 1930, but recently asked the court to set the divorce aside, claiming he learned of the birth of Anna, which occurred four months after the couple separated. He said he wished to include Anna in an $850,000 trust fund if it was found he was her father, and then to be divorced again.

$100,000 Sought For Ending Match

Girl Claims That She Aided Free Wealthy Scion From Woman.

Boston, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Miss Mildred King, of Boston, has filed in Federal court a suit for $100,000 damages against Mrs. Henrietta G. Hartford, of Newport, R. I., who, Miss King alleges, failed to live up to agreements made regarding her son, Huntington, a Harvard student.

The suit alleges that Mrs. Hartford brought her son to Boston to keep him from a woman with whom he was infatuated. Mrs. Hartford asked Miss King for her assistance, the suit further alleges, promising to pay the complainant or adopt her should she succeed in breaking relations between her son and the woman.

Miss King said that she introduced Hartford to young women of high character, and that he stopped seeing the other woman. Mrs. Hartford then declined, Miss King said, to pay her or adopt her. Mrs. Hartford, widow of Edward V. Hartford, is socially prominent and one of the wealthiest of Newport residents.

"My sweetheart smokes 'em . . .

"NOW, you know, Bob was raised in a tobacco country. He has worked in two cigarette factories; and I have heard him say all of them are just the same. He says there are a lot of pipes and things like that running through the roofs of the factories and sometimes they look different, but that the way cigarettes are made is all the same.

"Bob says all tobaccos receive the same sort of drying—heat treatment, he called it. In one factory, he says, they may talk about 'baking' the tobaccos and in another they call it another name. He says what they actually do is to 'dry' the tobaccos—reduce the moisture in them—and that the machine that they all use is called a 'Dryer.'

"But when it comes to the quality of tobacco, that's quite a different story, so Bob says; some factories use mild, ripe tobacco, while others think that thick heavy tobacco is good enough. Bob knows tobacco and he tells me that it takes good tobacco—mild and ripe—to make a cigarette as good as CHESTERFIELD.

"You know how it is when a piece of fruit tastes just right—not raw or sharp or too ripe or tasteless—just pleasing and satisfying. Well, that's the way it is with CHESTERFIELD—they just suit me right down to the ground—they satisfy."

BRENTANO, GERMAN ECONOMIST, IS DEAD

Champion of Free Trade and 8-Hour-Day Advocate Was 87 Years Old.

Munich, Germany, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Lujo Brentano, German economist and social scientist, died at a private sanitarium here today.

His condition called for an operation, physicians said, but in view of his advanced age they deemed an operation inadvisable. He was 87 years old. At his bedside was his only daughter, Sophie.

Up to a few days ago he worked on an autobiography, which was to appear in October.

A stout champion of free trade, in an age when tariff walls were rising in every country in Europe and beyond, Brentano stood out as a firm believer in trade unionism and the eight-hour working day. In the knowledge of the intricacies of political economy and social science, Brentano was preeminent.

National economy and social science claimed Brentano in early youth, and he studied these subjects in Dublin, Munster, Munich, Heidelberg, Wuerzburg and Goettingen. At 23 he was a member of the Statistical Seminary in Berlin, and the next year he went to England, where his study of trade unionism resulted in his principal work, "The Workers Gilds of the Present Time."

This book was assailed by prominent economists of the time, but although written in 1872, it is still considered as authoritative on modern associations of workers and is also appreciated for the impetus it gave to the study of guilds of the Middle Ages and to the examination of the great stores of neglected information bearing on the condition of the people in former days.

With a reputation for economic lore well established, he became at 28 professor of national economy at Breslau, and afterward served for six years in the same capacity at Strasburg. Then followed a brief residence in Vienna, after which he took the chair of German political economy at Leipzig.

Two years later he accepted a call to Munich, where he taught until his retirement during the World War. After that he resided at Prien on Lake Constance, remaining chief collaborator of the periodical Munich Economic Studies. At 85, however, he completed a four-volume work on the history of British economy since the beginning of the Christian era.

Wheat Crop in Canada Estimated Under 1930

Ottawa, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The wheat crop in the three prairie provinces was estimated at 246,400,000 bushels in a crop report issued today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

This is substantially below the crop of 374,500,000 bushels in 1930. While there are bumper crops in central Alberta, there is a complete failure in southern regions. Higher wheat production is forecast in Alberta than in Saskatchewan although the seeded acreage in Alberta was only about half that in the other provinces.

Cortin, extracted from the adrenal glands of cattle, is said by physicians to have cured the disease in recent cases. It was discovered only recently, and the glands of 150 cattle are required to manufacture enough for one day's treatment.

Man Is Found Dead With Gas Jets On

George Carlisle, 51, Held Suicide by Coroner; Left 3 Notes.

George Carlisle, 51, of 443 I street northeast, was found dead in the bathroom of his home yesterday afternoon, with gas flowing from several jets, by his son-in-law, William F. Shaw, of Bethesda, Md.

Fumes escaping from the door cracks alarmed his daughter, Mrs. Helen Shaw, who immediately notified her husband. Shaw had to break down the door to get in and found his father-in-law sitting in a chair apparently dead. The window was tightly closed and the keyhole of the door stuffed with paper.

The man left three notes addressed to his nearest relatives, his wife, his daughter, and a sister. Coroner Ramsay J. Nevitt issued a certificate of death by suicide later in the afternoon.

RAISE IN PENSIONS ASKED BY VETERANS

Spanish War Men Seek Equal Status With G. A. R. Members.

New Orleans, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The United Spanish War Veterans in annual convention here today condemned inclusion of "the pauper clause" in any Federal pension legislation, and announced intention of going before the next Congress with a bill for upward revision of pensions for Spanish War veterans.

Action on resolutions looking to revision which would place the service men of 1898 on the same pension footing with the Grand Army of the Republic was taken after George R. Lunn, former lieutenant governor of New York, and Otto N. Raths, St. Paul, Minn., had been nominated by their respective States for next commander in chief to succed Edward H. Matthias, Columbus, Ohio. The election is set for tomorrow.

With the 1932 reunion pledged to Milwaukee, the veterans today received formal invitations from Los Angeles, Chicago, St. Petersburg, Fla., and San Antonio, Tex., for the 1933 session. These cities will appear on tomorrow's ballots.

The proposed new pension bill, indorsed after long debate, would automatically place all veterans of the Spanish War and their widows on the pension rolls without regard to disability and would be known as "pensions for service."

The minimum rates would be $50 a month for veterans, with graduated increases for disability up to $100 a month; $40 a month for veterans' widows; $10 a month for widows married to service men during the war period.

Another resolution designated the period of service for purposes of defining eligibles for Spanish War pensions as April 21, 1898, to July 4, 1902, covering the Spanish-American war, the Philippine engagements and the China relief expedition.

WET BLANKET FLUNG ON POSTAL REFORMS

Important "Ifs" Are Cited by Acting Department Head; Cut in Hours Opposed

(Associated Press.)

The five-day week, free clinics for sore-footed mail carriers and all other expensive reforms for which postal employes are raising demands in convention out West were tossed under a wet blanket yesterday by Acting Postmaster General Coleman.

Pointing a long finger at the imposing figure of $150,000,000 the official said this estimated deficit for the Postoffice Department for the current fiscal year could be cut down only by Spartan measures.

"We could eliminate it—all but about $40,000,000—if—" Mr. Coleman said, "if there were a business revival and if Congress authorized a 25 per cent increase in postage for letter mail and if we avoided all additional expenditures."

As for the desire of the employes for shorter working time with the same salary, and other proposals, he dismissed all at once:

"I don't believe the American people are in any frame of mind to approve any increase in the cost of government—that covers everything."

Therefore, to the assertion of Representative Kendall, of Pennsylvania, to the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks in Los Angeles, that the postoffice deficit was "unimportant," Mr. Coleman retorted:

"It's nice to say you're in black when you're in red, but that doesn't change the facts. What we don't get for postage we've got to get by going over to the United States Treasury, and the people have to put it there in taxes."

Coleman said he hoped that a business revival would boost revenues before the end of this fiscal year—next July 1. The depression lopped off somewhere around $60,000,000 last year, he figured. Raising the letter-postage from 2 to 2½ cents would add between $55,000,000 and $60,000,000 to postoffice revenues, he added.

Gift to Curtius' Grandson Brings Stimson Jovial Note

While Secretary Stimson was in Berlin, an admirer, a toymaker, presented a little sailboat to him. Mr. Stimson gave it to the grandson of Foreign Minister Curtius, then just a few weeks old. Yesterday the Secretary of State received the following letter written on behalf of the youngster:

"Dear Uncle Stimson:

"Please let me send you all my heartfelt thanks for that wonderful present you made me on my birth and which rendered so pleasant and joyful my entry into this world of misery.

"It was a sweet idea of you to think just of a sailing ship, being there a particular significance connected with her: First, because it was a sailing boat that played such a conspicuous part in what resulted in my parents' engagement, which—as you will agree—was essential for my coming into existence, and secondly because it was a sailing vessel that brought about the greatest deed in modern history, the discovery of America, without which—as you will also agree—there would nowadays be no people of the United States turning out such good and helpful friends to Germany.

"I am awfully glad that the boat is big enough for me, little man, to sit and sail in it. I like to fancy myself crossing the ocean in it under the Stars and Stripes which may some time become a symbol, generally understood, for peaceful intercourse between nations to the welfare of mankind.

"But, of course, for its Atlantic voyage my sailing boat needs a fair wind blowing it forward with fluttering flag. Now, unfortunately—as you know—everywhere in Germany there is dull calm and sails are hanging down slackly at present. So I am afraid I must wait for the first fresh breeze to set me afloat; then, I trust, I shall find my way through!

"Meanwhile, I remain, dear Uncle Stimson,

"Most gratefully yours,

"JAN VON HAEFTEN,

"First Grandson of Dr. J. Curtius, Reichs Minister des Ausseren."

NEW TRIUMPH in OIL BURNERS

Created by the world's oldest and largest oil heating organization

Ideal, radiant heat harnessed for the first time with latest Petro-Nokol Rotary Oil Burner. New and greater economy... new simplicity...new quiet.

It's here...on display today...the greatest achievement in the history of heating homes with oil! Radiant heat has been put to work by a simple rotary burner using the lower priced fuel oils.

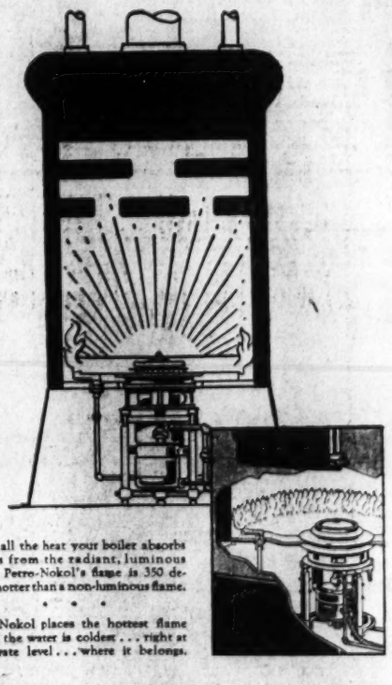
RADIANT HEAT CUTS COSTS

The moment you see this remarkable oil burner in operation, you will realize why it is so much more economical. So utterly dependable. So perfectly quiet. Radiant heat...the same intense heat you feel from the summer sun...is the ideal form of heat. No smoke. No odor. No visible sign. Just pure heat rays. To harness these and put them to work in your boiler is the supreme achievement of Petro-Nokol engineers.

Your own boiler was designed to take advantage of radiant heat. As much as 50% of all the heat your boiler absorbs comes from the luminous radiance of the flame. This new Petro-Nokol gives you this fuel-saving radiant flame every moment the burner is operating.

MORE HEAT WITH LESS FUEL

Not only is this radiant flame much hotter than a non-luminous flame, but it is located where it should be . . . right at the grate level. That's where the coldest water is found in the boiler... and everyone knows that cold water absorbs heat faster than warm water. In this way Petro-Nokol cuts your fuel bill still lower.



50% of all the heat your boiler absorbs comes from the radiant, luminous flame. Petro-Nokol's flame is 350 degrees hotter than a non-luminous flame.

Petro-Nokol places the hottest flame where the water is coldest . . . right at the grate level . . . where it belongs.

You will want to see this new Radiant Rotary Oil Burner . . . that surpasses in economy, simplicity and quietness last year's model that broke all sales records. With all its new advantages . . . the price remains the same . . . $295. Be sure to see it today!

$295

THE LEGION ON TRIAL.

Indications are growing stronger every day that veterans' organizations will attempt a concerted raid on the Treasury as soon as Congress reassembles. A survey made by the New York Herald Tribune leaves no doubt that a powerful drive for payment of the full value of adjusted compensation certificates will be launched at the national convention of the American Legion this month in Detroit. Groups within other veterans' organizations are agitating a Treasury raid with no less vigor.

There is no more excuse for demanding full payment of these certificates than for asking payment of a twenty-year endowment insurance policy that has been running seven years. At its last session Congress increased the loan value of certificates from 22 to 50 per cent and caused a drain of $838,634,000 upon the Treasury. The bonus was extended to all veterans as a relief measure in spite of the fact that only about 16 per cent of them were in need of any kind of relief.

The argument of relieving needy veterans can not be used to support the demand for payment of the certificates in full at this time. Such a step would require $2,100,000,000, none of which is available. Under any circumstances a bonus of that magnitude could not be taken out of the budget. It would require an enormous increase in the national debt for the benefit of a special group of citizens who are already being given hospital care, disability allowances, preference for civil service jobs and many other privileges.

In view of last year's deficit, due in large measure to the bonus, and the present status of the Treasury, the demand for full payment of the bonus at this time is indefensible. It is incredible that the Legion would allow itself to be drawn into such a selfish and unwarranted movement. The spectacle of men who served their country under fire overseas conducting an organized raid on the Treasury at a time when distressed taxpayers are threatened by heavier burdens will cost veterans' organizations dearly in prestige and self-respect.

There is yet time to avert this drive. The Legion can demonstrate to the whole country that its ideals forbid it to bring pressure upon pusillanimous politicians on the eve of a presidential election. The Legion has an opportunity to renounce all claim to special benefits for able-bodied men with jobs when millions are in want. Instead of taking advantage of the depression to siphon more than $2,000,000,000 from the Treasury the Legion can assist in the restoration of confidence. It can set an example that would cast a blight of shame upon all special interests that are planning to seek favors from Congress next winter.

The Legion is facing the greatest test in its history. If it succumbs to the desire for easy money out of taxpayers' pockets its prestige will be gone and the public will henceforth regard the Legion as nothing more than a self-seeking lobby that has no regard for the country's welfare. On the other hand, if the Legion rises to the ideals expressed in its charter it will gain the admiration of the people and immeasurably extend its influence for good.

PARLIAMENT IN SESSION.

The British Parliament opened its special session in circumstances strikingly opposed to those in which it so recently adjourned. Prime Minister MacDonald is supported in his emergency program to save the nation's credit and balance the budget by a coalition of Conservatives and Liberals, while in the seats of the opposition are his companions of 40 years, the Laborites.

The House of Commons convened in tense expectancy for the most important session it has held since the war. Following the vote of confidence in the coalition the government is proceeding to force rapid consideration of its proposals for increased taxation and reduction of expenses regardless of protests from the Labor party, which now represents the minority.

Prime Minister MacDonald does not minimize the seriousness of the situation that has confronted his two cabinets. Reviewing the situation that required the two large credits from the United States and France, the prime minister, glowering at the Laborites who deserted him, said that "the government had to act quickly and vigorously, not in relation to party machines, but with the promptest possible action." He appealed to all classes "to go cheerfully with the government over the hard, broken road along which our security, honor and well-being must be found."

Strong measures are proposed. The "national economies bill" carries with it virtually dictatorial powers that would enable the cabinet to govern by orders issued in the name of the king without the sanction of Parliament. Such a radical step will meet with determined Labor opposition, but in the end will doubtless be adopted by the emergency political alliance.

The first step to expedite consideration of the government's proposals will be to place a limit upon debate. On Thursday Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, will present his supplementary tax budget, and second reading of the economies bill will be called for on Friday. It is quite evident that the coalition of Liberal and Conservative members, together with the comparatively few Laborites who have not deserted Mr. MacDonald, has every confidence that the program it has agreed upon as necessary in the country's crisis will be approved by Parliament with little delay.

Of only secondary interest to the sessions of Parliament itself are the meetings opening simultaneously in Bristol of the Trades Union Congress, mainstay of the Labor party. In the debates of the congress, possibly even more fully than on the floor of the Commons, will be aired the controversy between the Trades Union and the cabinet. The congress will be something of a replica of the House of Commons, debating on Thursday the split with the cabinet and the tariff question. England is having a tense week, but one that bids fair to clear the atmosphere of some of the recent financial clouds.

CAREFUL FINANCING.

Critics of the Treasury's $800,000,000 bond issue are surprised to find that it was oversubscribed by only $140,599,550. In view of the fact that the June issue of a similar amount was oversubscribed eight times, Secretary Mellon was accused of extending a bonus to "unemployed" capital when he offered the current issue at 3 per cent. Several critics were ready to prove that the necessary capital could have been obtained for 2 per cent. The reluctance of investors to tie their money up for twenty years, even in 3 per cent bonds, indicates that Secretary Mellon has lost none of his acumen in financial matters.

It is interesting to note the difference in the public reception of the $300,000,000 one-year certificates, carrying 1¼ per cent interest, and the long-term bond issue. The former offering was oversubscribed 400 per cent in 48 hours. People are anxious to invest their money for one year at a nominal return, but they hesitate to tie it up for twenty years at 3 per cent. This can mean only that investors expect to reap higher returns from private securities. While they are skeptical at present, their faith in the recovery and continued development of American industry in the future is apparently unshaken.

Evidence of a tightening in the money market is unmistakable. The June bond issue, which was so heavily oversubscribed, carried only one-eighth of 1 per cent more interest than the present issue. If this tendency continues the next bond issue may have to carry a higher rate of interest to save the Treasury from embarrassment. It appears that Secretary Mellon has taken advantage of the lowest level of interest that has been obtainable during the depression. His careful financing will save the Government millions of dollars in interest.

BLUNDERING RUSSIA.

One of the most comprehensive pictures of Soviet Russia that has ever been given the American people in a few words is contained in a statement by Eliot Wadsworth, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Wadsworth was well acquainted with Russia before the war, and has kept closely in touch with conditions since, making several visits to different parts of the country. Inasmuch as he is an engineer and a trained observer of industrial and social conditions, his findings are worth more than passing notice.

The modern Russians are described as a people who "walk the streets unsmiling, silent and usually alone." What else could be expected in a country where the state owns everything and the individual nothing, where the ordinary rewards for work do not exist, where the people are forbidden to have a home and all that a home implies, and denied the right to lay anything aside for the future?

The bureaucratic power of the dictatorship over the lives of the people is amazing. "No industrial worker can get a job," says Mr. Wadsworth, "a place to eat, or the right to buy a quota of food and clothing except through a government agency. Without government approval he may find himself jobless, homeless and penniless. No individual is free from the fear that suspicions may turn toward him and a penalty be applied without warning. This is a paternal government to the last degree, skillfully designed to enforce discipline."

Superficial observers too frequently talk of the magnitude of the five-year plan and of the industrial progress Russia is making without taking this psychological factor into consideration. No nation of slaves has ever succeeded. The spirit and even the humanity of the Russian people is being ground out of them. Instead of lifting them up to greater personal achievement, the dictatorship is trampling them down to the status of cattle who toil all day and receive nothing but a meager existence in return.

Mr. Wadsworth finds the economic outlook no brighter than the individual prospects of the people. It has proved easier to put up buildings and have experts install machinery, he says, than to operate it efficiently. Production appears to be far below expectations. In one case 15,000 men were working on a plant, some finishing the construction, others trying to learn how to operate machines. But there were no prospects of actual production. The Soviet is installing the largest water power plant in the world hundreds of miles from any large market in a country where use of electricity under any circumstances is extremely limited.

Financially, the Soviet is feeling the pinch of the depression. The dictatorship owes from $250,000,000 to $500,000,000 for foreign goods bought on credit. In spite of the fact that it "owns" everything Russia produces, cash to pay these debts must come principally from exports of wheat, oil and lumber, all of which commodities are selling at extremely low prices.

Nevertheless, the Soviet continues to blunder on, changing its policy often enough to cover up the appearance of failure and ruthlessly suppressing all opposition that may develop. It is not surprising that the Soviet is frantically calling for more American engineers and making every effort to negotiate trade agreements with European countries. While the people starve and suffer from exposure the dictators continue to amass all the country's resources in a futile attempt to vindicate their insane theories.

Thomas P. Gore, Oklahoma's blind senator, has attended school this summer to study the agricultural situation. But senators who have the advantage of sight will doubtless return to Washington as blind as ever.

FAVORITE SONS

From the Boston Transcript.

Favorite sons, so-called, are always features of the national conventions of the major parties, and while the Republicans next year bid fair to present few, if any, owing to the general belief that President Hoover will be renominated, the Democrats will put up quite an exhibition. The favorite sons, as a rule, are not put forward because of any serious belief on the part of the delegates from their States that they would make the best Presidents, or, in fact, that they should be nominated at all. Personally, they are very earnest contenders and take themselves with the utmost seriousness, and sometimes they win the prize. As a rule, however, they are trotted out for the purpose of holding the State delegations together until the master politicians can unite on one man, and it will be recalled that in 1908 no fewer than eight allies, as they were called, including such men as Fairbanks, of Indiana; Foraker, of Ohio; Cannon, of Illinois, and others, were supposed to be in the running until Taft finally was nominated, thanks to the power of Theodore Roosevelt.

Two of the most picturesque figures in contemporary politics are likely to grace the favorite son group in the Democratic national convention of 1932. These are "Alfalfa Bill," otherwise known as Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma, and James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, familiarly known as "Ham, of the Pink Whiskers," although the cognomen belittles a man who has made a brilliant success of life and contributes some of the best brains of the Democratic party. But Senator Lewis has just been elected for a six-year term, beating an opponent to whom he always referred as "The Lady"—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick—and while no doubt he would like to be President of the United States, he will not complain if fate decides that he should fill out another senatorial term.

Murray is a "character," who attends all meetings of the State equalization board, steadily puffing a fat cigar and removing his shoes when they become uncomfortable, yet he has set in motion machinery which already has reduced the output of petroleum two-fifths in this country, thereby predicating higher prices for the chief product of his State. He nurses an ambition to go further than the governorship, and so we may confidently count on some more unique performances before the nominations are made. He believes that nominations should be made by the people, not the corporations, and he demonstrated his theory by printing his campaign propaganda in the Blue Valley Farmer, of which he is part owner, and then calling for popular subscriptions to circulate the paper. They came in. He believes that if he should be nominated for the Presidency and put four copies of his paper into every mail box in the United States he would be elected. Some say he is a greater orator than Bryan.

Senator Lewis, who carried a Republican State by more than 700,000 votes, was once called by Champ Clark "the greatest dude in America," but, as Samuel G. Blythe once explained him, "he figured it out on the chicken-wittedness of the people that he could go further on a combination of ability plus eccentricity than he could by utilizing his natural ability," so he groomed his whiskers, introduced spats to the American people and has been successively territorial legislator, corporation counsel of Chicago, congressman and United States senator, and now is elected for another term. He has an immense law practice, much of it relating to claims against foreign governments, and he once negotiated a loan of $28,000,000 for Mexico. He also has standing as an author on legal subjects. He is the opposite of the homespun Murray, but of infinitely more actual accomplishment. These two alone might make the Democratic convention memorable—Murray certainly will.

POST HASTE.

The United States is so poor this year that it can only send 31,000,000 pupils to school and college.

The $800,000,000 long-time issue of United States bonds was oversubscribed $140,000,000. The short-time issue was oversubscribed more than four times. The results are equally satisfactory. Under present conditions capital seeks any temporary, safe return; investors have too much faith in this country to tie up their funds for 20 years at 3 per cent.

Our returning Chief Justice will doubtless relish the report that Europe has already appointed him president of next year's disarmament conference as another Hughes joke.

Under a plan being considered the Government would carry over cotton for farmers agreeing not to plant a crop next year. A good idea; and we know several authors who will refrain from adding to the glut of the book mart in 1932 if Uncle Sam will take current MSS. off their hands.

The peevish silence emanating from Democratic headquarters may be due to failure of the chairman's installment. Possibly you noticed in the last quarterly statement that contributions, in addition to Mr. Raskob's $30,000, amounted to just about 1 per cent. At the present rate of increase he will have a controlling interest in the Democratic committee deficit of $748,150 by Christmas.

World Court Politics.

The eight-to-seven decision in this case was thoroughly unsatisfactory. It bore what are widely regarded as unmistakable traces of French political maneuvering, and the prestige of the court will suffer from it. The case was doubly unfortunate inasmuch as the customs-union project had already been killed by force of circumstances.

Men Will Hang Together When the Alternative Is to Be Hanged Alone

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHEN the Farm Board suggested plowing up every third row of the maturing cotton crop to reduce the surplus, a hard-working tenant farmer near my village voiced the opinion of his class.

"I'll plow up my landlord's share if he wants it done," said he, "but I'll shoot any man who tries to plow up mine."

He realizes, as others do, that a smaller crop must be grown year after year if the staple is to sell at a profit, but he has lost faith in voluntary agreements and is beginning to understand that nothing less than national organization and Government authority can solve his problems.

The Russians are getting results despite dreadful handicaps because all activity is directed by a supreme authority that requires implicit obedience.

The allies in the World War made little progress toward victory until they concentrated all authority in the hands of one man.

In America, Government and people quickly learned that success in the war would be impossible without the surrender of personal liberty and obedience to a single authority that harnessed all energy for a common purpose.

Now men of discernment in all branches of industry are beginning to realize that the way of efficiency in time of war is the way of efficiency in time of peace.

A Farm Board having real authority could plan production of cotton to match demand.

Having determined the number of bales to be produced, it could easily determine, on the basis of past performance, what proportion of the crop should be produced by each State.

Having assigned the production of so many bales to each State, it could divide the assignment between counties on the basis of previous average production; and, knowing the average production per acre, it could apportion to each farm its fair share of the county acreage.

Only by some such method, backed by the authority of the national Government, can crop acreage be adjusted to the world's needs.

And only by a similar method and similar authority can the production of crude oil and bituminous coal be purged of criminal waste and made profitable to the owners, the workers and the public.

Call it "socialization" or anything else you please, the fact remains that organization with profit is saner than anarchy with loss.

Individual freedom is sweet, but few men will battle for the right to go bankrupt.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Purely Piratical.

New York Herald Tribune.

It may be difficult to believe that the American Legion and other World War veterans' organizations dedicated to the fostering of patriotism are contemplating a demand on Congress for immediate cash payment of all bonus claims, but such seems to be the case. Shamelessly unmindful of the staggering burden imposed by their successful raid on the Treasury last winter and undeterred by the prospect of a Treasury deficit which in the current fiscal year may reach $1,500,000,000, powerful elements in these organizations are now reported as concentrating upon a further drain of $2,363,213,949. Nothing more destructively selfish could well be conceived.

So far Congress has an unbroken record of pusillanimity in the face of pressure from our organized veterans. Will it succumb again, though the circumstances and the amount involved drive the country to despair? Will the rank and file of the legion permit their propagandists to proceed with their outrageous program? In any case, the most cynical must hope that the roar of protest from the population as a whole will imbue enough congressmen with the moral courage to sustain the President's veto if it is needed.

Higher Taxes or Bonds?

Louisville Courier Journal.

Senator "Jim" Watson, of Indiana is "agin" a pay-as-you-go Government under existing conditions. He prefers borrowing to make up the growing losses. Only as a matter of "sheer necessity" would he favor tax legislation. "If there can be found no way to resort again to bond issues and short term securities at the prevailing low rates of money then we can raise taxes," declares "Sunny Jim." "But I regard it as a matter of doubtful propriety if it should be done."

It is worse than a matter of doubtful propriety to pass the cost of the Hoover administration to future generations. "Sheer necessity" demands that the Government's business should be put on a business basis, and political expediency and the Presidential election next year should not prevent it. Tax increases may not be necessary, but if they are to be avoided lavish congressional expenditures must be checked and governmental economies must be put into effect.

The Budget Deficit.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Federal Government finished the last fiscal year with a deficit of $903,000,000. In the first two months of the new year since July 1 it has incurred a deficit of nearly $400,000,000. If the present rates of income and expenditure obtain we shall have a deficit of $1,800,000,000 by next July 1, but it is not likely to be quite that bad.

As every government in the world today is realizing, there are only three ways of meeting deficits—increasing revenues, cutting expenditures or borrowing. Most countries have adopted a combination of all three methods as the soundest means of breaking even. So far the United States has taken the easiest course—further borrowing.

There are strong arguments for this course, to be sure. It is contended that Government should not slash expenditures, for that will merely increase unemployment and lower the vitality of business. Yet without a check-rein on public spending a burden of debt will be piled on the Nation which ultimately will weigh heavily on business and individuals.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Congressmen Deny Jobs to Many by Putting Wives and Daughters on Pay Roll as Clerks.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Kindly permit me to give a few suggestions in answer to the article signed by "A Government Worker," in Tuesday's Post. I offer no fanatical outburst or half-baked scheme, but the only solution to greatly help unemployment and the only solution that can prove successful. No entire population can live on the Government. One of the main reasons for so much unemployment today is that the jobs are being held by married women whose husbands are also well compensated. To be sure these married women may be under civil service, but a great many took the civil service during the World War, when President Wilson made a call for married women to fill the places of the men serving their country. It was not intended that these married women become parasites on the Government.

The Veterans' Bureau, known at that time as the War Risk Insurance Office, was packed to overflowing with married women. There were hundreds of women filling positions with no civil service status, as there were no examinations for the new jobs. These women are still retained in the Government, and if put to a civil service competitive examination they would be unable to pass the test; thus a great many deserving persons are kept from their rightful jobs. The American Legion has a resolution to present at its coming convention in Detroit, that no married woman whose husband receives $3,000 or more be retained or appointed to a Government job. Of course, this will require an act of Congress. It will also include members of Congress who carry their wives and daughters as clerks on the Federal pay roll without requiring any service of them.

UNEMPLOYED.

Well-Balanced Spending for Necessities of Life Is Essential for Prosperity.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In a recent issue of The Post, Maj. Gen. Fries criticizes adversely an article by Miss Schuman entitled "Choice of Most Nourishing Foods for Least Money to Be Taught." The subject seems to spell economy and good health, but the general's comments were not addressed to the economic or public health phases of the subject. He advocated eating more of the least nourishing foods, and then the use of cod liver and other appetizers (permissible under the Volstead act, of course) to stimulate a false appetite.

This plan would undoubtedly get rid of most of the consumers long before it materially lessened the oversupply of wheat and the other products of high nutritional value mentioned in his letter. The surviving consumers of the least nourishing foods and appetizers would be limited in their diet for some time. Thus, the plan defeats itself at every turn.

Extravagant expenditure for food would leave less for clothing, shelter, entertainment, education, charity, savings and other channels through which flow prosperity and happiness. Wise and well-balanced spending, within the means of each individual, should be urged upon all with the ultimate objective of a well-balanced industrial development.

Citizen Suggests That All Motor Traffic Be Halted by Amber Light to Give Pedestrian a Chance.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: May I beg for a small amount of space in your valuable columns for comment on a recent letter, "For Pedestrians," signed Walker Chapman.

I have written to the proper authorities suggesting the same plan which is set forth by Walker Chapman—namely, that on the amber light all traffic should cease motion and the pedestrian should have the right of way in all directions.

In answer I was told that it was doubtful if it would be possible to give 25 or 30 seconds to the yellow light without congesting street traffic to such an extent that it would be dangerous. May I inquire from some expert what this danger would consist of and how it would be more of a menace than right and left turns?

I was also told by the powers that be that there would not be any serious difficulty with the left turn except during the congested periods. What will be the situation of aged pedestrians going to their offices and of little children walking many blocks to school during the "serious difficulties" of these congested periods?

INDIGESTION.

Time was I wasn't hard to please,
I ate the food they set before me.
Now sandwiches of toasted cheese
In five and twenty minutes floor me.

For fifty years I've gone along
Untroubled by the thought of diet.
Now coffee, just a trifle strong,
Is followed by a nervous riot.

Food hasn't caused me much concern.
Once downed I thought no more about it.
I take a beefsteak, now to learn
That I'd be better off without it.

My doctor grins and says to me:
"There is no longer any question
That food's your mortal enemy.
You're plagued by nervous indigestion."

Perhaps 'tis true, I only know
From frequent touches of disaster
That meals I ate a year ago
I've strangely lost the power to master.

Now part with good old friends I must,
At least while this strange spell is on me.
Roast beef I dare no longer trust
And apple pie has turned upon me.

WILLIAMS CHOSEN NEW WABASH HEAD

Succeeds Taussig, Quitting as Railroad President After 11½ Years.

St. Louis, Spet. 9 (A.P.).—William M. Williams, New York, chairman of the board of directors of the Wabash Railway Co., has been named president of the road to succeed James E. Taussig, who resigned today after 11½ years in that office, it was announced at the Wabash headquarters here tonight.

Williams will retain his post as chairman of the board, which he has held since December 1, 1915. He has been connected with railroads and freight service since 1890 and is prominent in the affairs of many other corporations.

Taussig also resigned the presidency of the Ann Arbor Railroad, a Michigan subsidiary of the Wabash, he announced.

The veteran railroad official "has been requested, and agrees for the present," Wabash headquarters here announced, "to devote some of his time in an advisory capacity, and to continue on the boards of the terminal companies, in which the Wabash is interested. Mr. Taussig intends to devote his time to personal affairs."

Taussig's withdrawal as president comes at a time when the Pennsylvania Railroad is acquiring control of the Wabash. This action follows that of the Baltimore & Ohio, competitor of the Pennsylvania, in acquiring the Chicago & Alton, a competitor of the Wabash.

Taussig is a native of St. Louis, and a member of an old St. Louis family, several of whom have attained professional and business distinction.

5-Year Plan Finishing Mapped Out by Soviet

Moscow, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Soviet Russia's working masses were called upon today to mobilize all their energies toward completion of the industrialization and agricultural program for the final quarter of 1931 and be in readiness for carrying out the final phases of the five-year plan in 1932.

At the same time the appeal sounded a significant warning that in carrying out the 1932 program no more work must be attempted than called for in the official government plan.

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Allen Northington, president of the First National Bank of Prattville, Ala., which closed recently, and his brother, Edward Northington, the bank's vice president, were indicted by a Federal grand jury here today on charges of misapplication of funds and false entries.

Money Circulation Mounts in August

Increase for Month $1.66 Per Capita; Each One Handles $40.31.

(Associated Press.)

The Treasury yesterday said per capita circulation of money in the United States increased $1.66 in August, and money circulated during the month totaled $5,051,333,592.

The latter figure showed an increase of approximately $214,000,000, as compared with the $4,837,084,512 in circulation on July 31. The per capita increased from $38.65 in July to $40.31 at the end of August.

Total money in the country increased $206,873,061 to $9,360,175,387. Of this amount $4,993,937,887 was in gold, of which the Treasury held $3,780,864,634, with $1,213,073,253 held outside the Government vaults. Federal Reserve banks and agents held $850,625,638.

San Domingo Adviser Makes Official Report

(Associated Press.)

William E. Dunn, financial adviser to the Dominican Republic, called yesterday upon State Department officials to discuss the situation in that country.

It was explained his visit was to give the department a comprehensive picture of the economic and financial situation on the island. Dunn also will call upon Minister Despradel during his stay in Washington. No announcement was made as to the possibility of further negotiations for the loan which was sought by former Minister Brache.

Istanbul, Turkey, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Two blocks of apartment buildings and eight houses were destroyed by fire today at Pera.

CHINA GIRDS ITSELF FOR NEW CIVIL WAR

Nanking Prepares to Fight Cantonese, Despite Flood; Bloody Clash Foreseen.

Shanghai, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Only one month of peace has elapsed since the ill-timed rebellion of Gen. Shih Yu-San was crushed in the north, but China today was girding herself for another civil war.

With the Cantonese invasion of Hunan Province confirmed, Nanking, while repeatedly professing a desire for peace, is energetically preparing for conflict. President Chiang Kai-Shek's activities have been diverted from flood relief measures to war preparations.

Indications are that he is making ready to strike swiftly, hoping to shatter the southern invasion before it penetrates too far into Hunan.

Air Squadron Mobilized.

Three divisions of National Guards, Chiang's crack units, are en route to central Hunan while other forces are concentrating on the Hunan-Kiangsi border. It was reported nine Nanking air squadrons, totaling 70 planes, are being mobilized for the expected conflict.

Military experts expressed the opinion the Hunan campaign probably will be swift and sanguinary, since the armies of both sides rank as the highest among the Chinese military in offensive qualities.

Confirmation of the Hunan invasion by the southerners was contained in dispatches stating an advance column of Gen. Chang Fat-Kwei, one of the Cantonese commanders, occupied Chenchow, southern Hunan, on September 4. Apparently there was no resistance.

$21,000,000 for Flood Aid.

Nanking leaders denounced the enemy for "failing to heed appeals for national unity in the face of adversity from floods, outlawry and controversy with the Japanese."

Meanwhile the national flood relief commission approved the $70,000,000 Mexican (about $21,000,000 gold) program of Finance Minister T. V. Soong for the relief of China's destitute millions.

The sum includes $37,000,000 Mexican (about $11,250,000 gold) for the purchase of 15,000,000 bushels of wheat from the United States, and $12,000,000 Mexican (about $3,600,000 gold) for the transportation of the wheat from America to the flood stricken area.

Police Muzzle Kaiser's Son.

Kiel, Germany, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Prince August Wilhelm, fourth son of the former kaiser, was forbidden by police today to speak at a National Socialist meeting which was to have been held tonight. Police said they feared his appearance might cause disturbances.

Children of Broadway Stars Seek Own Place in Spotlight

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Children of Broadway, whose parents became famous on the street of electric lights, are seeking this season as seldom before to win some of that same sort of public acclaim for themselves.

Four offspring of theatrical folk are attempting to write second generation stage history as they play important roles in four plays now on Broadway.

Ethel Barrymore Colt, grandniece of the illustrious John Drew, daughter of Ethel Barrymore, and granddaughter of Maurice and Georgiana Drew Barrymore, both stars in their day, will appear in the "Scandals" when that show has its New York premiere Monday.

She made her footlight debut in "Scarlet Sister Mary," then she was signed for the "Scandals" and sang four songs at the Atlantic City tryout, only to have them taken from her when Ethel Merman joined the cast. Discontented with the minor role into which she then fell, Miss Barrymore resigned. The "Scandals" played Newark without her. But she rejoined the cast in Brooklyn this week after several sketches had been added which gave her a more important part to play.

Helen Cohan, daughter of George M. Cohan, democratic beau of Broadway, is playing a lead with her father in "Friendship."

Owen Davis, jr., son of the playwright, is declaiming lines written by his father in "Just to Remind You," which opened this week.

Margalo Gillimore, whose father was once a headliner and now is president of Actors' Equity, is playing with Katharine Cornell in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street."

And there are dozens of others who for the moment are "off the street," but decidedly in the theatrical picture, such as John Drew Colt, Cornelia Skinner, Dorothy and Paula Stone, William Tannen, "Ted" Emery and Wilton Lackaye, jr.

Alfred Harding, of Actors' Equity, said he saw a healthy theatrical indication in the fact that so many children of theater people are following in their parents' footsteps and attempting to carry on family tradition.

George M. Cohan, who nearly 50 years ago was doing his sleeping in a trunk in the wings of a theater while his parents were out in the glare of footlights, said such children as a rule make good, but they labor under just as many handicaps as advantages.

A number of producers agreed, however, that they are looking to these children of Broadway for theatrical ability that will "pack 'em in," the way their parents used to do—or still are doing.

Police Kidnap Alleged Kidnapers, Court Hears

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Police were accused today of kidnaping from New Jersey without extradition proceedings two men who are themselves charged with kidnaping in connection with the recent abduction of Charles M. Rosenthal, wealthy broker.

The accusation was made in court in behalf of Theodore Adinolfi and Albert Sileo by Attorney John J. Duff. The lawyer contended the two men, arrested in Newark, N. J., a week ago, and brought to New York Friday, did not waive extradition.

London Teachers to Protest.

London, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Three thousand London school teachers, scrapping professional traditions, will march through the city on Friday as a protest against a proposed 15 per cent salary cut in the interest of national economy. Police are planning a demonstration in the same cause on Sunday.

Appropriately styled table silver is recognized by the modern bride as a necessary factor in the dining-room's correct ensemble—and no pains have been spared to make the American Directorie authentic in spirit, and smartly correct. The design is outstandingly original with a purity of line, smart contour, and graceful bend of the handles that gives each piece a nicety of proportion and perfect balance. It blends beautifully with Colonial furniture — Adam, Hepplewhite, Sheraton — and the very new vogue for the American Directoire pieces. School Time . . .

Have You Had Your Children's Eyes Examined

Now, before school begins, is the time to have your children's eyes examined here. Let us check up on their glasses, let us fill their optical prescriptions. Correct vision is of tremendous importance to the child just beginning school, as well as to the college student. Children going away to school should take extra glasses with them—a pair broken while away from home may mean much discomfort. We will carefully fill your eye physician's prescription, or our optometrist will examine your eyes. Granite Hose —famous for its granite-like wear and its exclusive garter block that prevents needless runs

Over fifteen years ago, when the first Granite No. 711—which is still a general favorite—was made, the Granite hosiery manufacturer originated a garter block, that has proved a marvelous means of preventing runs. That feature has never changed. But many innovations and perfections have been accomplished—a slim, French heel—a cradle foot—a shorter length in No. 711 for shorter women—new weaves that mean longer wear—and now a new twist that gives all Granite hose the smart dull appearance.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"VIRGO."

IF September 10 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:45 to 9:15 p. m., from noon to 2:33 p. m. and from 7:15 p. m. to 9:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 10 a. m. to 11:50 a. m. and from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m.

September 10, according to astrological conditions, will be marked by romance, and those who plight their troth or marry on this day will be assured a great measure of happiness. In business, the influences will not be favorable, and no new enterprise will be productive of remunerative results.

A child born on this September 10 will be self-reliant and concentrated. It will be apt to make engagements carelessly and break them when they interfere with its conveniences. It will be affectionate, clean-minded, energetic and kindly. Once it wins a friend or a sweetheart, it will be "for keeps."

You, if born on September 10, are an all-round character. Not primarily a business man or woman, you have good common sense, and if the fates should compel you to look to trade or commerce for a living, you will make good at it and prove yourself capable of earning good money. Where you will shine, however, will be along artistic lines—music, painting, literary work—as you love beauty above all things. If circumstances prevent you, as they well might, from devoting your whole time to that which you like best, then what you would prefer as your life work could well be developed as a hobby.

You are a great reader, interested, above all things, in historical tomes, and you often visualize yourself as one of the leaders about whom stories are woven. Your memory is excellent, you are a better listener than talker. For this reason, you are sometimes given credit for more intelligence than you really deserve. It is easier to look, than to be, wise.

Your disposition is amiable. You are, as a friend, discriminating, and only become intimate with those who are cultured and fundamentally intelligent. Your home, no matter how humble it may be, will always reflect your artistic taste, and as a host or hostess, you will leave little to be desired.

Successful people born September 10:

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

ALTHOUGH he has been on the air for years, a unique figure and known to every one in radio, tonight will be the first time to our knowledge, that the name of Charles K. Field will ever have been broadcast. Mr. Field is a cousin of the late Eugene Field, the poet, and will be revealed as chairman in the new Arco Dramatic Musicale (WRC, 8 p. m.).

Listen to him tonight and maybe you will recall what famous program you have been hearing him in all these years.

The concert dedicated to the United States by Canadian artists last week from the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto, offered a dignity of presentation from which many of our American program directors could learn a valuable lesson.

A song, "By the River St. Marie," with its French-Canadian background, was one which would surely prove popular in the United States if it were heard here more often.

The program started with musical tribute to this country, "American Patrol," and ended with the stirring Canadian national medley.

THE Crosbys named him Harry L. but he has been Bing for all but three of his 27 years. Acquired the nickname from his fondness for "Indian and cowboy" wherein he could and did shout "Bing, bing, bing" from morning to night, redskins by the hundreds biting the Tacoma dust.

Story back of his signing exclusively with Columbia a classic. William S. Paley, president of Columbia, sailed for Europe to look over new foreign talent. Third day out he heard a phonograph in an adjacent stateroom playing a record. Waited till he got back to U. S., previewed a Crosby "short" and got on the phone to the Coast . . . Crosby sped eastward and went for a dotted line.

The 150th birthday fiesta of Los Angeles will die in a blaze of glory when movieland presents "The Pageant of the Jewels" tomorrow night (WRC, 11:30 p. m.-12:30 a. m.). Twenty-six huge floats will parade around the Olympic Stadium, with Harold Lloyd as grand marshal. Stars representing every film company will be introduced over the air, and as a highlight of the evening a polo game with Douglas Fairbanks, Will Rogers and Raymond Griffith has been arranged. The description should listen well to all who are at all interested in Hollywood doings.

Those well-known interpreters of spirituals, the Southernaires, will be guest artists with Harry Salter's Orchestra (WMAL, tonight, 10 o'clock).

An abridged version of Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet" has been prepared by Howard Barlow for Grand Opera Miniatures (WMAL, 8:30 p. m.).

Returning to the microphone to be interviewed instead of discussion of the political situation, Frederic William Wile will make his first air appearance since early summer in Bob Taplinger's "Meet the Artist" period this afternoon (WMAL, 4:45 o'clock). Wile will return to the air regularly on September 26.

A PROHIBITIVE salary is the reason Bing Crosby isn't commercially sponsored • • • Enlisted men aboard the Navy dirigible Los Angeles have separate receiving set for picking up ether entertainment • • • W9XAP and W9XAO, Chicago televisors, will undertake a 12-hour schedule daily week September 14-27 • • • The Silvertone Quartet is air-minded, beginning October 5, probably WRC • • • Senator Guglielmo Marconi will discuss "The Beginnings of Wireless" from London via WMAL, September 19 • • • To emphasize the importance of liberal arts college as a vital unit in America's educational system, President Hoover will participate in special radio programs on November 14 • • • "March of Time" will be resumed tomorrow night, WMAL • • • During the months of September and October programs presenting NBC announcers will be broadcast in "Magic of Speech" series on Thursdays • • • All announcers are being closely watched for next winter's American Academy of Arts and Letters award • • •.

OUTSTANDING in the line of eight Majestic models just introduced is the use of a new type of tube said to have been never before seen in this country, the glass of which is covered with a heavy layer of solid metal that has been sprayed on. Thus each tube carries its own "shield" against interference, eliminating the need for round perforated cans, or square compartments in the receiver.

This layer of metal, it is claimed, also materially increases the efficiency of the tube itself, and types such as multi-mu and screen grid thus coated can be operated to give greater strengthening of the program per tube. Both the idea and the method of application are, it is understood, from Germany.

The only local station to adopt the new method of recording recently invented in the Bell Laboratories, New York, is WMAL. This new process—vertically grooved discs—is declared to have the widest range of frequencies of any recording to date. Special Western Electric equipment is necessary for reproduction of the recorded programs.

Frank Crumit likes to mess around in the kitchen when the servants have a day off. Fried eggs are one of his specialties.

THE members of the Abe Lyman Glee Club have very little time to resume their playing positions after having been grouped about the "mike" for one of their stirring choruses. At a given sign they make a break which looks like a football team coming out of a huddle.

From the Ohio State Journal:

"Radio never will be wholly satisfactory to the listener until he can turn off unpopular programs with a click that will be heard in the studio."

Snow Ends Alberta Forest Fires.

Calgary, Alta., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Snowflakes spread themselves over the foothills of southern Alberta today, ending the forest fire threat and relieving the dried streams and rivers where fish had been stranded in little pools by the extremely dry weather. The snow hindered harvesting, but it was welcomed by by weary forest fire fighters.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Chanel makes a harem-trousered evening gown of white crepe de chine, with anklets, belt and collar of strass.

New York, Sept. 9.

"THE later the brighter" seems to be the slogan for autumn frocks! Blacks, browns and beiges are all very nice for morning and luncheon hours, but after that Miladi Elegante sheds her dull trappings as a butterfly its chrysalis, and emerges in brilliant splendor for the rest of her active day.

And such colors, these new cool-weather hues! In every color except blue there is a range to suit every complexion. Blues are the poor stepchild of the autumn 1931 color class, and are seen in comparatively few shades. But, if you can't decide between red and brown, don't bother—wear that new, rusty combination of the two! If the brighter violet shades are too trying for you, there are fascinating wine and plum shades for your adornment. And, ah-h-h-h, if you combine these purple shades with that new pale-green, you'll be extra specially smart for afternoons!

And speaking of green, last year's "bottle" green has disappeared, and in its place is a cross between it and emerald green—and a much more sensible color it is, too, asserts this Fashun Cricket, who always did think bottle green too sober and emerald green too vivid for most women!

The Hat Empress and Her Secrets.

"Your Majesty, how did you always manage to keep the little scallops of hair so soft looking and tidy as they peeped from your own individual hats?"

"The chemist to My Majesty mixed me up a magic brew, my dear, which, on analysis, proved to be naught but a tablespoon of gum arabic melted into a pint of boiling water. And when this preparation cooled and was applied to my hair it held my hair just as I wanted it, and without any dusty powder to dull its sheen!"

For the women of the harem knew exactly how to wear 'em—and now that they're coming out of the harems they are telling the couturiers of the many charms hidden in their baggy folds. Now what am I talking about? Harem trousers, of course, which the Haut Couture is adapting in an extremely modified way to our loveliest evening things. Chanel, for instance, has gone subtly Harem in the evening gown sketched for you today. The baggy trousers fasten around Miladi's slim ankle with strass bands, but to these trousers is incrusted a panel which sweeps the floor in a train effect and completely hides the fact, from the rear, that there are trousers. The pyjama is held closely about the waist with a strass belt—and there's a wide strass collar that encircles the neck, quite independent of the decolletage!

If you plan to incorporate the feminine wiles of far-away Turkey into your clothes, and do it with subtlety and restraint, you'll gain the charm you seek.

Turkey makes distinct contributions to jewelry, too! The hammered gold necklace sketched today belonged to a dancing girl and is lovely to look at—but it's lovely to listen to, too, with its musical little golden bells chiming softly.

What fur 'n' why? We-l-l, fur instance! You simply have to know what-and-why-and-where-furs these days, or you aren't the sumptuously clad, smart woman you think you are! The wrong fur at the wrong time and place is really worse than no fur at all! And it's all so easy to be right about, if you just send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this week's leaflet, giving all sorts of fur information for you, whether you're thinking of remodeling your old furs, or buying new ones.

Watch for Dare's weekly letter of fashion news and comment. It's a feature of The Sunday Post fashion page.

Burial Rites Denied Reichstag Socialist

Mayenge, Germany, Sept. 9 (A.P.) Considerable discussion has been caused by the refusal of the Catholic bishop of Mayence to grant burial rites for a national Socialist member of the Reichstag who died recently:

His reasons were set forth in a statement by the vicar general of the diocese who wrote, "German Catholic bishops have unanimously condemned national socialism as heresy because its tenets contain matters contrary to Catholic doctrine. No Catholic may become enrolled in the party and the church will grant recalcitrants no burial rites."

Former Spanish King May Live in Argentina

London, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Former King Alfonso of Spain was crdited in the Daily Express today with the intention of buying a large estate in Argentina and moving his family there from Fontainebleau.

It was understood that physicians had advised the Prince of the Asturias, Alfonso's oldest son, that the climate of Santa Fe Province in Argentina might restore his health.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

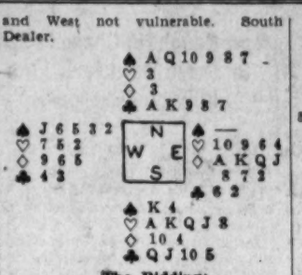
PENALTIES OR PREMIUMS.

"To play for penalties or to play for premiums," as Hamlet might have said but did not, is one of the "rubs" of Contract Bridge. It can be laid down as a safe general principle that it is generally better to accept the penalty equivalent of what you except to make at your own bid rather than attempt to squeeze an extra trick out of the hand. The reason for this is plain. Played at you own declaration, the opponents' insignificant trumps may make pygmies of your giant Aces and Kings, and while the reward for making a certain game has been definately determined, penalties may be even richer than you anticipate. It is, of course, foolish to accept a paltry penalty of 200 points, rather than a sure game. Such hunger for penalties is losing Bridge, and there is no easier opponent to face at the Contract table than the player who doubles too early and too often. On the other hand, it is equally unwise to stretch the trick-taking possibilities of your hand too far and refuse to accept a sure and substantial penalty rather than an uncertain game.

The hand below, played in a rubber game, gave to the North and South players, both of whom were experts, a nice problem in choosing the preferable course—a sure Penalty Double or a try for a doubtful Slam. Inexpert players should have chosen the safe Double, as that reward was sure, and even experts could not have been criticized had they followed that course.

North and South vulnerable. East and West not vulnerable. South Dealer.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♡	Pass	2♠ (1)	3◇ (2)
3♡	Pass	4♣ (3)	Pass
5♣	Pass	6♣	6◇ (4)
Dbl. (5)	Pass	6♠ (6)	Pass
Pass	Dbl. (7)	Pass	Pass
Pass

1—North's Forcing Takeout is obvious. His hand contains 3-½ honor-tricks and two long suits.

2—East has 7 tricks with diamonds as trump. Even in the face of the strength shown by North and South, his bid is justified as laying the foundation for a possible bidding defense against North and South's almost certain game.

3—North completes the showing of his two-suited hand.

4—East decides that the penalty he suffers will not be as great as the probable loss if opponents make their Slam which from the bidding he feels certain they can do. He hopes, however, that West has length in spades and that by bidding six diamonds he had closed the only safe road to a Slam.

5—South has two losing diamonds and only two spades. North has never rebid the spades, so South fears the loss of a spade trick and probably 1 diamond trick. The sure penalty appears more desirable to him than a questionable attempt at a Slam in spades. The bidding has shown that a Grand Slam is not possible, otherwise North would have disclosed that there were no losers in the diamond suit.

6—North's bid of six spades is open to question. However, he feels reasonably sure that South holds the spade King, and his extra length in the spade suit would seem to make it reasonably certain that if South holds that card there is a good chance to make the Slam contract. South's rebid of the heart suit would seem to place a high honor in spades or diamonds in his hand.

7—West's Double is bad, as it marks the location of the spade honor. However, this would have been disclosed on the first play of the suit in any event.

In the play, East opened with the diamond King and followed with the Knave, which North trumped. North now led a spade to South's King, and when East failed to follow, the unfavorable distribution of the trump suit was disclosed. South's last trump was led and the finesse taken. The Ace of spades was laid down in order to shorten West's trump holding. Then North led the Ace and King of clubs, after which he put the Dummy in with a heart and hearts were continued, upon which North discarded his clubs. West was helpless. He followed suit to hearts three times, but his apparently safely guarded Knave of trumps never made a trick. Thus North and South scored the premium for a vulnerable Small Slam, together with 100 points for their contract and 180 additional points below the line as a result of West's unsound Double. North's bil of the spade Slam was made after a close weighing of the respective probabilities of a worth-while set of the adverse contract against the likelihood of the spade Slam. It was a close decision with a fortunate outcome.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The Forcing Takeout has aptly been termed the backbone of the Forcing System. A Forcing Takeout is made when one player has opened the bidding and partner responds with a Jump bid in another suit. This Jump bid must be below the game level.

In response to an Opening bid of one, a Forcing Takeout shows the possession of 3 honor-tricks as a minimum and the practical certainty of a game in the hand, provided the best declaration is selected.

As with the Opening bid of two in a suit, a Forcing Takeout commits both partners to keeping the bidding open until a game contract is reached.

DRESSED ENVELOPE.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

I HAVE several large hydrangeas full of bloom. Every day about 12 noon all the flowers and leaves fade, then every evening, at least some time during the night, they must revive, for by morning they are all again erect. Why is this?

C. L. O.

This condition is due to lack of water. It is because of this that during July and August the plants should be watered twice a day. When watering drench the foliage as well as the soil about the roots.

My asters are turning yellow. I find insects about the roots. What can be done to get rid of these enemies and save my plants?

MRS. BABETTE H.

Certain species of plant lice attack the roots of asters, frequently causing extensive injury to those infested. After an attack of aphides little or no growth is made and the leaves soon turn yellow and wilt in the bright sun. These pests are fostered by several species of ants, which place these plant lice upon the stems and care for the eggs during the winter, later transferring the young lice to the roots along which they have made burrows. Fresh tobacco dust mixed with equal parts of air-slaked lime should be thoroughly worked in around the roots of infested plants. If larger areas are concerned the ground must be coated with this material before it is prepared in the spring. If you care to write again we can tell you a proprietary preparation which will help you get rid of the ants.

A number of forsythia bushes have failed to bloom in my yard last spring and again this season. I pruned these bushes in early October. Can that be the reason? EMILY L.

Yes. Forsythia blooms on wood made the previous season or between the time the flowers fade and frost. When this wood is removed in the fall there is no time for the shrub to send up new blooming wood.

A number of forsythia bushes have their leaves turning like the inclosed ones and later these leavees fall. Is this apparent disease due to beetle spray? Have I used too strong a solution? F. A. M.

The leaves showed no trace of disease, although the bush is going into sear leaf. If you used a solution stronger than the ordinary formula, you may have seared the foliage. Sprays of the strength that is necessary to kill the beetles do not injure the foliage.

Please tell me the names of the plants of which I am inclosing some leaves. HERMAN B.

The leaves you sent me were all from weeds or wildlings.

The needles of my spruce tree are falling off. How can I save the tree? Will too much water cause a lawn to become moldy? MARY E. B.

Spray your evergreen for scale. Your seedsman will recommend a suitable spray or you may send me a stamped envelope and I will send you the name of a proprietary preparation. Better soak your lawn twice a week instead of sprinkling it every evening. Daily sprinkling may cause a sour soil.

Please tell me how to care for the plant from which the inclosed leaf was taken. MRS. J.

A coleus requires to be constantly pinched back to make it bushy and prevent it from becoming leggy. It also demands a daily drink and a great deal of sunshine. Spray the foliage with water every time you water the plant, as this is the only way to keep down the mealybug.

(Copyright, 1931.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Modern Freedom and Its Cost.

DEAR Frances McDonald: I am 30 and a bachelor. I travel with a crowd of so-called moderns. The girls are the pay-as-you-go sort. By that I mean they earn as much as the men and insist upon paying their way. None of the men feel they can afford to marry for years to come. And as a result there are numerous experimental combinations in our group. Those concerned seem entirely serious in their viewpoint, and so their course is no censured by the rest—not openly, that is. But otherwise—well, it is of that phase that I ask your opinion.

Two years ago one of these girls and one of the fellows entered into one of these combinations. Until then I had taken her out quite a bit. She is from a mid-West town, college girl, and unquestionably attractive. Had I been in a position to marry, I would have singled her out as the girl. She was the last girl I would have expected to go in for any unconventional ties. But she did. We discussed it subsequently and she said that she was convinced he was her man and that was all that mattered. She never accepted one cent from him—even for a movie. They were extremely happy—apparently.

About six months ago he began going around with a very attractive divorcee and the other girl was hurt to the heart. She told me of her plight, and that she could never even be friends with him again. To cheer her I began once more to take her about. Until that time I never was conscious of even secret criticism of her conduct. But at once my former feeling for her was revived, and I seem unable to forget for even a moment what she has meant to this fellow who tired so soon. He is a shallow sort, not popular with the men but very much so with the women. I hate being his successor. I am not the sort to go in for these modern ideas, and with me it would be marriage or nothing. But I do not want to marry her now. Perhaps I am a bigot or a prig. But every time I even think of a such a thing I am filled with repugnance.

It has got me to such a state that I even blame her, and in my heart criticize her when she shows that she might care for me. It seems further indication that she would make anything but a dependable mate. Not that I expect her to be true to a man who scorned her love, but the very fact that she could so soon care for another man. Is that the rankest injustice? Or am I right in feeling that emotionally she was about correctly teamed up before? Could I ever outgrow or overcome this feeling? Could I or should I ever think of marriage where she is concerned? She continually harps on the loneliness of existence. At times that gets me. At other times it only gets my goat, at which time am I in my right mind? Where do I get off? What should I do? TIM.

Tim, I will tell you. These girls are just a bit neurotic, to begin with, and become more so by the associations they seek. They would be greatly helped by having the fire hose turned on them in their softer moods just by way of saving adjacent property.

TAKOMA PARK RULED BARE OF POLICE LAW

Accused Man Free as Judge Holds New Acts Needed Under 1929 Charter.

It is perfectly lawful to be disorderly in the Town of Takoma Park, Md., according to a ruling yesterday by Judge A. L. Wilson, in Takoma Park Police Court.

In other words, Takoma Park, technically speaking, has been without regulations ever since its new charter went into effect in 1929, if Judge Wilson's finding may be taken as binding.

He dismissed disorderly and assault charges against Howard Bonifant, 21 years old, of Bonifant's flats, on the Prince Georges County side of the town, upholding contention of defense counsel that none of the old police regulations have been reenacted since the charter's adoption.

Mayor Ben. G. Davis immediately took issue with the court's finding, citing a paragraph in the charter which he holds carries over all of the former restrictions against lawbreaking. It reads:

"All ordinances, regulations and resolutions now in force, and not inconsistent with the provisions of this charter, shall remain in force until altered or repealed by competent authority."

Attorneys J. Enos Ray and Arthur C. Keefer went into court for Bonifant. They argued it is no longer unlawful to be disorderly in Takoma Park, because the town has not approved an ordinance. Unless the case was dismissed, they announced, they would go to the circuit court of Marlboro for a writ of certeriori. The case was dismissed.

The Bonifant case arose out of an altercation and alleged disorderly conduct said to have taken place in Bonifant's Flats the night of August 29.

According to Policeman Frank Lane, an unidentified woman came to the Takoma Park police station that night and reported that "some one was being killed" at a house in the flats.

Policeman Lane said he deputized three civilians who were at the station at the time and went immediately to the scene. The three deputies went to the front door of the house, from which "a lot of noise" was issuing, he said, while Lane went to the back door.

A number of persons escaped from the house in a struggle that followed, he charged. Bonifant was alleged to have resisted arrest and assaulted Theodore Raines, former town policeman, who was one of the deputies. Three others besides Bonifant, two women and one man, were arrested.

Allen, of Newington, chairman of the publicity committee of the Northern Virginia Bicentennial coordinating committee, announced plans for the booklet, "Washington's Own County," telling of the interesting points in northern Virginia. The booklet, to be distributed during the bicentennial, will be prepared by former Representative R. Walton Moore, of Fairfax, and Charles H. Callahan, of Alexandria, assisted by members of the publicity subcommittee.

The chamber is sponsoring a movement to request the State Highway Commission to reduce the legal speed limits on highways near the historic shrines where tourists will gather next year.

BANKING FRAUD PLOT CHARGED TO LAWYER

Man Called Former Shipping Board Agent Accused at Trial in New York.

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The details of what was termed a "gigantic scheme to defraud" the public of $5,000,000, in which an Indiana lawyer came East and organized a string of fourteen banking companies, were recited in Federal Court today by Prosecutor John A. Wilson.

The Indiana lawyer, Wilson said, is Howard H. Gunder, whom he also described as a former district representative of the United States Shipping Board.

Sitting with Gunder at mahogany tables, Wilson said, and helping him to pull the strings that "manipulated the puppet banking companies," were Roland J. Randall, president of the defunct Bankers Capital Corporation, and Everett J. Sturges, former State banking commissioner of Connecticut, who headed one of the concerns affiliated with Bankers Capital, the parent firm.

Wilson's verbal picture was drawn at the opening of the trial of the three men on charges of conspiracy and using the mails to defraud.

After a lengthy opening address, in which he traced ramifications of the alleged scheme through the East and as far west as Iowa, Wilson produced a ton of what he called documentary evidence and sent the first of his 95 witnesses to the stand.

In his opening address, Wilson described his version of how the three defendants allegedly manipulated the fourteen companies they eventually formed.

He sketched a series of intercompany sales to show it was the "custom" just before a report had to be drafted on any one company's earnings, to have it sell securities of other companies to affiliated firms with a "fictitious profit."

"These sales," charged Wilson, "were fraudulent and faked, and they were carried out to show a fictitious profit."

century or more ago conducted an investigation along the coast and found a few incomplete fossils. It was 50 years later that the Argentine brothers, Florentino and Carlos Amarghino, found a few more which strengthened the theory. The country is not flat, but of the broken table-land variety, and conditions were unusually severe. The temperature was low and there were continuous high winds. Once I was blown off a sheer cliff, but fortunately landed on a ledge and escaped with a few bruises. It rained three days a week, entirely halting our work. We were almost ready to quit in disgust when we tried a small table mountain some distance from Puerto Visser. We were surprised to make our rich discoveries there, where we spent some five months.

"The land is cold and stern and has a quiet dignity of its own. It was there that creatures first quit crawling and began walking. On the country's nude and frozen table lands were born and reared the higher forms of life."

Lots at Montauk, Navy Band: LaGuardia Scents Auction

(United Press.)

A formal request to Secretary of Navy Charles Francis Adams as to whether "Montauk real estate lots" would be auctioned in connection with a Navy Band concert at Forest Hills, N. Y., was made yesterday by Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia, of New York.

LaGuardia wired Adams first on September 3, appealing to him not to permit a Navy band to play at the Forest Hills tennis tournament, and thereby "take the bread from the families of unemployed musicians."

"With the scout fleet advertising real estate lots at Montauk and the Navy Band scabbing in competition with unemployed musicians in New York," LaGuardia protested, "the department is certainly not making friends for the glorious Navy."

LaGuardia's Montauk reference was to the recent "request" of Chairman Fred A. Britten, of the House naval committee, that the fleet visit lonsly Montauk. Britten owns lots in a real estate development there. Fleet men were angry when they were sent to the devlopmnt, and charges were made that the Navy was being used to advertise the development.

Adams responded to LaGuardia's protest with a telegram which said that the Forest Hills band concert was a Sunday one, and had nothing to do with the tennis tournament. The trip was authorized by Congress, he said.

"Will you kindly quote act of Congress you refer to?" then wired LaGuardia. "Who is paying the band's transportation and its maintenance while here? Are the musicians being paid? If so how much and by whom? Have you inquired? Will there be any auction or other advertisement of lots at Montauk to be sold at this concert?"

One of seven men under arrest in Dallas, Tex., charged with possession and conspiracy to circulate counterfeit money, said $10 counterfeit bills had been purchased in Juarez for 10 cents on the dollar, the agents reported. The agents said, the bills some of which had been passed in north Texas, were counterfeits of the 1908 issue from San Francisco.

... Demand a "YES" ... to these 5 QUESTIONS

Before you decide on any refrigerator

These five questions are vital to any refrigerator buyer. Promise nothing until you have a definite "YES" to each question.

1. Will it pay liberal dividends in food saving and lessened operation cost?

2. Does it have a modern hermetically sealed unit in the top out of sight that insures trouble-free performance?

3. Will it operate efficiently in "Dog Days," under pantry shelves, in wall recesses and other places where there is little natural air circulation?

4. Will it not only stop but start up automatically when unusual conditions interrupt operation?

5. Is it good looking, and does it offer such conveniences as a usable flat buffet top, broom-high legs, maximum shelf space, temperature selector in the right place, etc.?

Westinghouse answers all five questions with an emphatic "YES." Not even the smallest detail has been overlooked by this great engineering organization in designing this "Completely Balanced" Westinghouse Refrigerator. No feature has been overdeveloped for spectacular effect at the expense of another. Food preservation, fast freezing, operating mechanism, storage capacity are all perfectly balanced with each other. RANSOM 'HIJACKING' IS LAID TO OFFICIALS

Chicago Police Are Accused of "Cutting In" on $75,000 Paid for Gambler.

Chicago, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—A charge that police had demanded and received a $50,000 bribe from the kidnapers of James Hackett, wealthy Blue Island gambler, last May was made today by Pat Roche, chief investigator for the State's attorney, following the arrest of five men in Decatur, Ill., in connection with the abduction.

Roche declared that Hackett's kidnapers were stopped by the police shortly after they had freed the gambler for $75,000 ransom paid by Hackett's wife and a friend late at night on a country road in Cook County. The police, Roche said, found the money in the men's car, recognized them as possibly being connected with the Hackett abduction and demanded two-thirds of the $75,000 to free them.

Pressed for details, Roche said he was not prepared at this time to give out further information, but promised that vigorous prosecution would follow.

"I can not reveal whether the offending officials are city, county or State police, but my information, I am convinced, is correct," he said. Those arrested at Decatur early today are Monte Moore, Morris Luttrell, John Lessinger, Joseph Yates and William Wallace. All were brought here this afternoon by automobile after Hackett, police said, had identified Moore as one of his abductors. Hackett was taken to Decatur by Police Lieut. William Cusack, of Chicago, as soon as the arrests were made known. Hackett previously had identified Moore's picture.

Roche, busy almost exclusively with kidnaping investigations since the abduction three weeks ago of John J. "Jack" Lynch, said last week that kidnapers in the Chicago metropolitan area have ben extorting nearly $150,000 a week in ransom from wealthy gamblers and others.

The abduction of Lynch, a veteran in Chicago gambling circles and part owner of a Nation-wide racing news service, created a furore and impelled a racing magazine to offer $50,000 in rewards for the arrest, killing or successful prosecution of the extortionists. Contrary to the usual rule, Lynch announced he would aid in apprehending and prosecuting his kidnapers.

BELGIUM PROSPEROUS AS WORLD SUFFERS

country where, besides enjoying low rent, he has a patch of land which his wife manages with consummate skill. Truck gardening, poultry raising and rabbit breeding add to the family exchequer."

Leon Hennebicq, president of the International Institute of Commerce and chairman of the Belgian Bar Association, agreed with the opinion expressed by M. Vanzeeland and added:

"A further factor in our stability in the midst of the present world disturbance is the individualism of the Belgian. He relies upon himself, not upon his government, to find a way out. He doesn't hesitate to change his profession or occupation if necessary."

Warned by her 1926 crisis, when short-term credits, reckless public expenditure and an unbalanced budget caused an economic upset, Belgium has stopped her foreign borrowing and is determined to keep her budget balanced.

Budgets Pruned.

As soon as the world depression began to make itself felt in Belgium Premier Jules Renkin served notice on all departments of the government to prune their budgets.

"We will reduce or eliminate every expense the necessity of which is not proved," he publicly announced. "We will block excessive credits. For every item of expense we will provide corresponding resources.

"We will husband public resources as well as conserve the productive industrial processes which alone can prevent the extension of unemployment."

An important factor in Belgium's economic development is the determined pushing of exports, which now are 94 per cent of imports, compared with 70 per cent before the war. In other words, the Nation exports almost as much as she imports, which is remarkable considering Belgium's dependence on foodstuffs and raw materials from abroad.

Free Trade Policy.

"Because of the Hoover holiday," said Finance Minister Maurice Houtard, "we must forego reparations for the remainder of 1931 and the depression will cause an additional diminution of the national income. How to make up ths deficit is occupying the entire cabinet.

"The cabinet is also preparing the 1932 budget, which we adamantly insist must balance. A flat 10 per cent cut has been ordered for all departments and the budget will be constructed to envisage possible further diminution of income. Whatever may happen, however, Belgium will stick to her free trade policy."

While taxation comparisons with other countries are exceedingly difficult because of the different systems used, the Associated Press found general agreement among experts questioned that the Belgians are not taxed more than the French, Italians, English or Germans.

"The income tax in fact is lower than in any of those countries," said M. Hennebicq. "Taking all in all we are not overtaxed although I consider communal taxes, especially on industry, too high."

Lecturers to Describe Soviet 5-Year Plan

"The Decisive Year of the Five-Year Plan" will be the subject of lectures by Miss Violet Orr and A. A. Heller, who have just returned from Soviet Russia, in a public meeting to be held Sunday night at 8 o'clock in Plasterers' Hall, 1028 New Jersey avenue northwest.

Miss Orr is a Stanford University graduate and a member of the faculty of the University of Moscow. Heller is an author and engineer who has spent considerable time in the Soviet Union as a technologist. The meeting is sponsored by the Friends of the Soviet Union.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

PETER, it seems, is really going to fly high.

Glenn Hunter, who plays the name part of Peter in Myron C. Fagan's new comedy, "Peter Flies High," which will be presented for the first time on any stage to open the new season at the National Theater next Monday night, will make the trip to Washington from New York by plane, arriving Saturday afternoon in time for the first of three dress rehearsals to be held in the National prior to the formal Monday opening. Mr. Hunter will be accompanied on the air journey by Leonard Bergman, producer, and Myron C. Fagan, the author.

The party will be greeted at the airport by a "reception committee" composed of representatives of theaterdom and the press.

Other members of the company, including Mary Loane, Dulcie Cooper, Brian Donlevy, Kethryn Givney, Adelaide Hibbard, Eileen Wilson, Burke Clarke, William T. Hays, Mathew Crowley and Forrest Orr, will arrive in the Capital early Saturday afternoon by train.

So you see the title is correct—it is only Peter who flies high.

While the National is inaugurating its new season with the premiere of the Fagan comedy, Mr. L. Stoddard Taylor, manager of the Shubert-Belasco, who has returned from his vacation in the North, will be making preliminary arrangements for the inauguration of his own season of 1931-32 with "Once in a Lifetime," the satire on the talkies which comes here direct from its triumphant run in New York with the members of the original cast in the roles which they created.

Down at the Gayety, come Sunday afternoon, Lillian Dixon on her new "Big Revue" will swing the Ninth street burlesque house into its second week and create almost the impression that it has never been closed at all. George Murray, Bob Startzman, Charles Cole, Harry Beasley, Margie Tilford, Ethel Du Bois, Jane Gordon and Vincent Scanlon head the cast of principals.

Devotees of the Crystal Pool out at Glen Echo Park, one of the most perfectly appointed and most efficiently conducted open air bathing establishments in America, may disregard this paragraph. Those who visit Glen Echo for other recreations, however, should pay heed to the announcement that this is the last week of operation of the popular free amusement resort out on the banks of the Potomac. With close of business at 11:30 o'clock Sunday night, all of the park attractions will close for the season, with the single exception of the pool, which will remain open both day and night until October 1, weather conditions permitting.

Since you seem so interested in the future outlook—or are you only clowning?—you might care to know that next week's lineup in the downtown, first-run cinema sector will be startlingly akin to this: Fox, Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell in "Merely Mary Ann" and Fanchon & Marco's "Russian Art" revue; Palace, Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy in their first feature-length comedy, "Pardon Us," and Loew's "Fiesta" revue; Earle, Doris Kenyon and Lewis Stone in "The Bargain" and Lew Pollack in "Theme Songs," headlining the vaudeville; RKO-Keith's, Jack Holt and Loretta Sayers in "Fifty Fathoms Deep;" Rialto, Adolphe Menjou and Irene Dunne in "The Great Lover;" Metropolitan, Sylvia Sidney and Phillips Holmes in "An American Tragedy," second week; Columbia, Joan Crawford, Pauline Frederick, Neil Hamilton and Monroe Owsley in "This Modern Age," second week.

The engagement of "Merely Mary Ann," costarring Gaynor and Farrell, will be inaugurated tonight at 11:30 o'clock by another of the popular special public previews, which will follow hard on the heels of the last regular presentation of "Huckleberry Finn" and the "Olympic Games" stage show.

Speaking of "Huckleberry Finn" reminds me that the latest ticker report direct from the Fox Theater's adding machine—his name is Lou Brown—is to the effect that up to 6 o'clock last evening 18,568 children had witnessed the screening of the Mark Twain favorite, in which Junior Durkin, Jackie Coogan, Mitzi Green and Jackie Searl appear in the featured roles.

This statement comes as a surprise to me. I should have said, offhand, that more than 18,568 excited kids climbed over me last Friday afternoon during the brief time that I was covering the stage show alone!

Plans are well under way, so I am told, for the elaborate celebration of the fourth anniversary of the opening of the Fox Theater the week of September 18. Details later.

Yes, it is—but the nights are cool!

GEORGIA MARKSMAN IN LEAD WITH RIFLE

Edward Seeser, Quantico Marine, Is Second in Ohio Contest.

Camp Perry, Ohio, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Capt. Kerrie L. Berry, of the Twenty-ninth United States Infantry, Fort Benning, Ga., tonight was leading 1,728 competitors in the national individual rifle match, with four of the five stages completed. His score was 196 out of possible 200. Private Edward Seeser, United States Marine Corps, Quantico, Va., with 192, was in second place.

Closely pressing Seeser were Sergt. William V. Stevely, Portland, Oreg., national guard and Chief Boatswain's Mate Paul Golden, United States Coast Guard, St. Petersburg, Fla., with 191 each.

The last stage is 20 shots per man from 1,000 yards, prone position. Today's firing was ten shots each, 200 yards slow fire standing, 200 yards rapid fire, kneeling or sitting from standing, 300 yards rapid fire, prone from standing, and 600 yards slow fire, prone.

Chief of Police and Former Mayor, Old Foes, Die; Crowd Looks On.

Hartford, Ala., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Chief of Police J. C. Roney and J. H. Radford, a former mayor of Hartford, enemies for years, stood in the Main street here today with their left hands clasped on each other's shoulders and fought with pistols, killing each other.

A crowd, too dumbfounded to interfere, watched the shooting.

The fight, arising from an argument over street grading, was over, witnesses said, before they were aware of what was taking place.

While the shooting was the direct result of a street sprinkler's breaking a concrete sidewalk before Radford's home, officers said the two had been at odds for the past six months because of dry raids on the former mayor's filling station.

Radford and Roney met before the latter's office today. After exchanging a few words, they placed their left hands on each other's shoulder and with their right hands began firing pistols.

Roney dropped with four bullet wounds in his body. He died within a few minutes. Radford also was wounded four times and died as he reached the operating room of a Dothan hospital.

Radford is survived by his widow and a daughter and Roney by his widow and four children.

CROWDER SUBDUES ATHLETICS IN TEN-INNING DUEL, 2-1; SHIELDS EXTENDED AS TENNIS FIELD NARROWS TO EIGHT

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THOSE were harsh words the management of the Chicago Cubs used on Hack Wilson. They packed him off the team, suspended him for the balance of the season, withheld $3,500 in salary and denied him the privilege of the grounds with the polite suggestion that he could hie himself back to Martinsburg, W. Va., to await their further displeasure, which probably will take the form of a trade to some other club, possibly the minors.

The flavor of Hack Wilson's 54 home runs last year didn't last with Owner Wrigley. The roly-poly outfielder with the protruding pantry and the arc-like legs has fallen from grace with the completeness of a polecat at a lawn party. In the role of home-run champion he was toasted throughout the circuit, but in his new role as the bad boy of baseball Wilson crowned himself as the prize flop of the 1931 season.

Babe Ruth tried it, too, and failed. At the crest of his home-run successes, Ruth attempted to set a new free-style record for training infractions a few years ago and slumped right out of the line-up. The homers that he hit so regularly when he was in shape couldn't be manufactured by a body weary from neglect and a batting eye bleary from excesses.

No Value Received

Four times, Hornsby says, he was on the verge of suspending Wilson for breaking training rules ever since the team went into spring practice on Catalina Island. Operating under a $35,000 contract in recognition of his heroics in 1930, Wilson became the club's greatest liability. He couldn't dovetail his collateral activities with his ball playing. One was bound to suffer and it proved to be his batting average. The .350 batter of last year who hit 54 home runs was left behind at the post in the home-run race as well as the batting derby. In 111 games he has clouted exactly 13 for the circuit and his hitting average slumped to the disgraceful figures of .263.

There ought to be a moral in that for Wilson, but he has run his string out with the Cubs. Wrigley, the richest man in baseball, is not forced to retain him in the hope that he will reform and regain the batting pedestal that was his last year. Wrigley's ever-ready bankroll can replace Wilson with another batting star.

Not for Minors

But the possibility that Wilson will be shipped to the minors is less than remote. There are managers in the league who pride themselves on their understanding of human nature who would be glad to practice their charms on Wilson who can hit if he is disposed to take the game seriously to the point of keeping in condition.

John McGraw is noted for reclaiming ball players he has shipped away in various deals only to pay fancy prices for their return. The old Wilson would fit in very nicely in the Giants' outfield which he graced in 1923, 1924 and 1925 before being shipped to the American Association, whence he came to the Cubs.

The Cubs' threat to dispatch Wilson to the minors is laughable. Big league magnates are not letting home-run champions and potential .350 hitters out of the majors after one dull season.

8th in Row for Pirates As Robins Bow, 5 to 1

Pittsburgh Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The Pittsburgh Pirates stretched their winning streak to eight games in a row today as they trimmed the Brooklyn Robins, 5 to 1 in the only game played in the National League.

Heinie Meine won his sixteenth game of the season as he held the Robins to five scattered hits, while his teammates were getting Fred Heimach for seven. The Waner brothers were the stars of the Pirates' attack, Lloyd cracking out a homer and two singles, while Paul was driving in two runs in the third inning with a single.

Davis Cup Ace Barely Beats Gledhill

Doeg Ousts Grant in 4 Sets to Reach Quarter-Finals.

Lott Beats Mangin; Van Ryn Winner Over Boussus.

By GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

WEST SIDE TENNIS CLUB, Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—After two days of dizzy reversals of form, the national tennis tournament at Forest Hills settled down today and moved practically into the quarter-finals without a single upset.

The eight players who survived were naturals, even though a pair of them, Berkeley Bell, of Dallas, and Frank Bowden, of New York City, were not seeded in the draw. They did their spectacular work on previous days and were not seriously extended to wade through today's round.

Bell, Bowden, Vines, Perry In Upper Half.

Completing the upper bracket with Bell and Bowden were Ellsworth Vines, the lazy-looking lad from Pasadena, and Frederick J. Perry, British Davis Cup star. Coming through in the lower half were Johnny Doeg, of Newark, the defending champion; Frank Shields, of New York, and the two Philadelphians, George Lott, jr., and Johnny Van Ryn.

Shields, Davis Cup singles ace and second ranking player in the United States, had the closest scrape of the day. He was extended to the limit in subduing Keith Gledhill, of Santa Barbara, national intercollegiate champion, in five sets, 3—6, 6—2, 6—4, 2—6, 6—4.

Both players were exhausted in the gruelling match that lasted more than two hours under a hot sun. Shields, ordinarily one of the most debonair of players, looked as if he was out on his feet in the concluding set. Gledhill, serving with terrific speed, and matching Shields in the prolonged rallies, held the score even in the deciding set until each had won three games. Then, apparently realizing for the first time how close he was to beating the great Shields, he seemed to let down ever so slightly and the New Yorker broke through his service the one time necessary to insure victory.

Doeg who encounters Shields in what promises to be the feature of tomorrow's round, had too much experience and stamina for Bryan Grant, jr., of Atlanta, beating him 6—0, 4—6, 6—2, 6—1.

Sutter Erratic in Losing To Perry.

Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, gave an erratic exhibition in losing to Perry, last of the foreign stars, 4—6, 6—4, 6—3, 6—3. In previous matches a model of precision, Sutter was wild as a hare today. He knocked balls into the net and over the baseline all afternoon. Perry was even worse in the initial set, but he settled down sufficiently to take the next three with ease.

George Lott, jr., continued to play brilliantly in turning back Gregory S. Mangin, of Newark, 6—1, 6—3, 6—2.

Van Ryn progressed today at the expense of Christian Boussus, last of France's contenders, 7—5, 6—0, 6—4.

Playing easily, almost carelessly, Vines advanced another notch toward the title the experts already accorded him by trimming J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J., 6—2, 6—3, 7—5. Tomorrow he encounters the dynamic Berkeley Bell, who triumphed over Robert Bryan, of Chattanooga, Tenn., 9—7, 7—5, 4—6, 7—5.

Frank Bowden, the burly New Yorker, who surprised one and all by eliminating the fair-haired Sidney Wood, jr., the previous day, finished strong to beat Clayton Lee Burwell, of Charlotte, N. C., 7—5, 4—6, 6—1, 6—3. He will see if he has another upset in his system tomorrow when he tackles Perry.

3,000 See Leonard In Exhibition Bouts

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Benny Leonard, former world's lightweight champion, tonight began his hard march along the come-back trail by boxing a total of four rounds with two opponents at the White City Stadium.

Making his first ring appearance since he relinquished the lightweight crown, Leonard outclassed his two opponents, Karl Lautchlager, of Kansas City, and Mickey Terry, of Bronx, N. Y.

A crowd of approximately 3,000 gave Leonard, who had Jack Kearns in his corner, a rousing reception.

LOUGHRAN BEATS GROSS.

Philadelphia, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia heavyweight hope, pounded out a ten-round decision over Jack Gross, Salem, N. J., baker, tonight in the feature of an outdoor card at Baker Bowl. Loughran won a majority of the rounds.

Dempsey Near Terms to Meet Carnera-Sharkey Bout Winner

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—James J. Johnston, promoter of the Jack Sharkey-Primo Carnera heavyweight match scheduled for Ebbets Field October 1, announced today he had "practically completed negotiations" with Jack Dempsey for a bout with the winner here next summer.

Johnston said he had been negotiating by long distance telephone for a week with Dempsey, who is engaging in exhibitions on the Pacific Coast.

"Dempsey is coming back," Johnston said. "His first major opponent will be the winner of the Carnera-Sharkey match. In a day or two I will be able to make public the actual terms and figures of my agreement with Dempsey."

CANZONERI'S TITLE AIM OF BERG

Italian Is Held 2-1 Favorite Over Briton Tonight.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Tony Canzoneri, the grinning Italian youth, who has failed to duck many a husky wallop, but never a dangerous challenger, puts his lightweight title on the block again tomorrow night for Jackie Kid Berg to shoot at.

The pressure on Tony will not be so great this time as it was in Chicago a few months ago when he gave the dynamic Englishman his first championship chance. Going into that duel, Canzoneri struggled against memory of one of the worst beatings he ever took, a ten-round drubbing Berg gave him in Madison Square Garden before Tony knocked the lightweight crown from Al Singer's head in less than a round. But in Chicago Canzoneri knocked Berg out in the second round with a single perfectly timed right to the jaw.

Thus the advantage that Berg carried into the Chicago title go has shifted this time to the champion, and Canzoneri tonight rules a 2 to 1 favorite.

Schaaf Rated Choice In Roberti Bout Tonight

Boston, Sept. 9 (U.P.).—Ernie Schaaf, blond former sailor heavyweight, is expecte dto whip Roberto Roberti, Italian giant, in their 10-round bout tomorrow night at Boston Arena. Schaaf's recent string of seven straight knockout victories has given him a 10-8 edge on the Italian.

Wood Weeps As He Denies Plot to Trick Don at Start

Misunderstood, Says U. S. Driver; Calls London on Phone.

DETROIT, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Gar Wood, pilot of Miss America IX in the Harmsworth Trophy races, today refuted as "a misunderstanding" statements attributed to him Monday to the effect that he had deliberately drawn Kaye Don, British challenger, in Miss England II, over the starting line, causing disqualification of both boats.

Deeply affected by comment which followed the second heat of the race on Monday, in which Wood and Don were disqualified for beating the starters' gun, Wood said the only thing he had in mind was to "beat Don over the line."

"We wanted to get over first," he said. "I had ridden in Don's wash for 30 miles Sunday afternoon, and I knew what it was like. We felt if we got away first, we'd have a chance to keep the lead."

Told Mechanic To Beat Don.

Wood said that he instructed his mechanic, Orlin Johnson, who handles the throttle, to "watch Don and beat him over the line, at any cost." When they saw Don make a start for the line, he said, they speeded up the boat and passed him before the starter line was reached.

"It was this earnest desire on Don's part to get the lead and our determination that he would not get the jump that caused this unfortunate mixup," Wood said.

Wood wept as he discussed the statements attributed to him after the race on Monday, to the effect that he had tricked Don into beating the gun.

"I've been racing for years," he said, "and we've done the best we could to carry the American flag on our boats in a sportsmanlike way. I don't know how this misunderstanding can be rectified. I've just talked with London over the telephone and they don't seem to understand at all what happened over here. It doesn't seem that any amount of explanation will get it straightened out."

Reiterating his statement that press reports had placed a wrong impression on the matter, Wood broke down as he terminated the discussion, and said he "couldn't talk about it any more."

Race Chairman Heard Wood Plan Too Late

Toronto, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—W. D. Edenburn, chairman of the race committee for the Harmsworth Cup, said today he knew 15 minutes before the start of the second heat on Monday that Gar Wood was going to attempt to lead Kaye Don across the line for a false start but that he was powerless to warn Don or deter Wood.

"You can't tell those fellows anything," Edenburn said. "They're keyed to a terrific pitch. Besides, Don was out in the river by that time."

"Gar took the long chance of the Englishman not following him," Edenburn continued. "In that case Wood alone would have been disqualified and the trophy would have been lost to America."

Edenburn said Wood was animated to the act "by what might be described as patriotic fervor in his defense of the cup."

Yankees Beat Giants, 7-3; Game Nets Charity $59,642

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—New York's unemployed was the winner today as 60,549 baseball fans paid $59,642.50 to see the Yankees defeat the Giants 7 to 3 in the first game played between the two teams in nearly eight years.

The result was so satisfactory in the public's response to the cause of the unemployed that it seems almost certain the Bronx-Harlem baseball competition will be extended to include the Brooklyn Robins in a post-season series for the benefit of the unemployed, starting September 30.

Although it has been eight years since the two rival New York teams met, the result was the same as the last battle on October 15, 1923, when the Yankees took the final game of the world series to become the first New York American League world's champions.

A peculiarity of the game was that the Yanks did their best work when the supposedly less lively National League ball was in use during the last four innings. They scored only two runs off Fred Fitzsimmons during the first five innings, when the American League ball was in use, but in the sixth inning they scored one run and then added four more in the eighth, one of which was Babe Ruth's home run.

Lefty Gomez went the route for the Yankees, yielding 10 hits, while his teammates hammered Fitzsimmons and Bill Walker for 14 safe swats. Ruth's home run was his only blow of the afternoon, but it launched the Yankees four-run rally in the eighth.

Travis Jackson was the star of the Giant's attack, getting on base all four times he faced Gomez—once on an error and three times on hits. One of the hits was a triple and scored two of his team's three runs. He also figured in four double plays.

The Giants were first to score, tallying one run in the fourth, but the Yanks took the lead in the fifth on singles by Gomez, Combs and Sewell. The Giants pulled up even in their half of the sixth, but in the last half of the round a double by Chapman and Dickey's long triple to the running track again put the Yanks out in front and they never yielded advantage.

Chapman, of Yanks, Shows Heels to Trio

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Ben Chapman, fleet Yankee left fielder and champion base stealer of the league, who has defeated all the speed merchants he has met in the American League, today won a four-man race at the Yankee Stadium as a preliminary to the meeting between the Giants and Yankees.

Chapple did 100 yards in his baseball togs in 10 3-5 seconds. Earl Combs, his teammate, was second, with Francis Healey, the Giants' kid catcher, third, and Roy Parmelee, recruit Giant pitcher, fourth.

Don Receives Trophy For Fastest Lap in Race

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Kaye Don, British speedboat pilot, today was presented the Weyhing Trophy, annually awarded the winner of the fastest lap in the Harmsworth Trophy races. Don, who rounded the course once on Sunday at an average of 93.017 miles an hour, only to be disqualified in the race on Monday when he and Gar Wood both were ahead of the starter's gun, received the trophy from Commodore A. A. Schantz, represent the Yachtmen's Association of America.

During the presentation ceremony Gar Wood stood at Don's side and was the first to offer congratulations. The trophy is a 24-inch silver cup.

STEELE WINS WRESTLING FEATURE

White Feather Beaten as 6,000 Watch at Stadium.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

LONG hours of sitting in the night air at Griffith Stadium and watching hundreds of mighty muscled men go through antics, which would hardly strain the intellect of a 2-year-old, or satisfy the gore lust of a Y. M. C. A. secretary, were redeemed last night when the great and mystic law of averages stepped into the picture and produced five of the finest wrestling and rassling bouts ever staged in Washington. A comparatively small crowd of between six and seven thousands were witnesses to this totally unlooked forward to exigency.

Last night's bouts actually carried a measure of suspense, a rather important ingredient the rassle promoters have seen fit to neglect of late. The ofttimes frenzied audience was treated to the spectacle of Ray Steele, No. 2 ranking Curley wrestler, apparently groggy from the left hooks of Chief White Feather; a sterling exhibition of straight wrestling indulged in by Carl Pojello and Don De Laun; a socking match between George Zaharias and Gene Le Jean, which made a farce out of the city's strange ban on boxing; and an opening engagement between Dutch Green and George Romonoff, which actually and almost unbelievably did not result in a draw.

Steele Adds Friends, Enemies.

Ray Steele added many friends and not a few enemies to his scrapbook last night by downing White Feather. Steele either took a terrific beating at the hands of Max Schmeling's old sparring partner, or else he is the most consummate actor in Christendom. The Indian was the aggressor from the first skirmish, during which he secured a five-minute headlock down to the moment before the very end when Steele was dumped like a load of bricks in a bodyslam which could not be "pulled."

White Feather went out of the ring once, propelled by a flying mare and a not too artistic kick in the ribs. This episode came after 40 minutes of fierce battle, but the Chief hobbled back, survived three bone-buckling airplane spins and held his own for the remaining seven minutes. Steele won on three backdrops, ac-

Cubs Beat White Sox, 3-0, in Charity Game

Chicago, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Charley Root was the one-man show of the special White Sox-Cubs charity exhibition game before 34,865 paid spectators at Comiskey Park today. The Cub ace not only blanked the White Sox, 3 to 0, but drove in all the runs.

Root drove in Danny Taylor with the first run of the battle in the sixth, while in the seventh he whacked a double that brought in Barton and Taylor.

Bainbridge "Daily Double" Pays $1,946.20 Mutuel to Set Record

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The "Daily Double" at Bainbridge race track today exceeded American pari mutuel records when it paid $1,946.20 for a $2 ticket.

"Investors" in the Daily Double attempt to pick the winner in two races designated by the track officials, and the contributions are pooled. No one picked the winner, Belgium, in the third race today, so the Daily Double was paid to those holding tickets on Bob's Play, winner in the second race, and Bogan, who placed in the third.

The largest previous $2 mutuel return on an American track was made in 1912 on Wishing Ring at Latonia. This totaled about $1,800.

Walberg Loser in Duel as Macks Are Held to Six Hits.

Foxx's 27th Homer With None on Ties Score in Fourth.

By BILL DOOLEY
Baseball Writer, Philadelphia Record.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 9.—The Old Warrior from the Philippines, the chap who used to call insurrecto Aguinaldo "Aggie"—in other words Gen. Alvin Crowder—was the whole show at Shibe Park this afternoon. The General not only pitched but also batted the Washington Nationals to a 2-to-1 ten-inning triumph over the world's champion Athletics, and his fifth triumph of the season over the A's.

Pitching his fourth straight win, Crowder limited the Mackmen to six hits and, after permitting Jimmy Foxx to tie the score with his twenty-seventh home run of the year in the fourth inning, settled down to outlast Rube Walberg.

Crowder's Hit Wins Game In Tenth.

This, though it was no easy task, the Old Soldier did by subjugating the champions over the last six innings with three hits. Then he came up to bat in the tenth, after Bluege had walked and advanced to second on Spencer's single to right and banged a smart single to center field that broke up the ball game.

The runs that sent the encounter into extra innings were scored in the second and fourth innings, respectively. The Nats, first to spike the plate, did so when Joe Cronin rammed a double to left to open the second round.

Lantern-jawed Joey made third while Dib Williams was throwing out Dave Harris and, slid across the plate in safety when McNair's throw to Heving of Kuhel's grounder was just a wee bit late. Two rounds later the champions tallied the tying run.

Jimmy Foxx, who made this run on a solo effort, came up in the fourth after Crowder had set the great Mr. Simmons down on whiff balls. Jimmy paddled one deep against the right-field fence toward the flag pole in center. The ball bounded against the top of the fence and past the flying Rice, while Foxx raced around the bags and for the second day running made a home run inside the ground. It was Jimmy's twenty-seventh boundary blow of the year.

Good Mound Duel From Fourth On.

Thereafter the opposing gentlemen on the hurling knob settled down to a battle of endurance. Walberg blanked the Griffmen from the third to the ninth innings, inclusive, with only four hits, no one traveling beyond second base on him.

But the hero of the Philippines was just as effective from the fourth stanza to the ninth. Over this span of five innings Crowder limited the Mack offensive to three hits, and during this portion of the encounter he also registered six of his strikeouts.

Given the lead in the tenth, the General made it count for victory by disposing of the champions with workmanlike precision in the last half of the round. He took care of Walberg on a pop to Bluege, McNair on a sharp grounder to the same gentleman, and finished up by retiring Cramer on a roller to Buddy Myer.

Sandwich Easy Victor In British St. Leger

Doncaster, England, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Cameronian, J. A. Dewar's fine 3-year-old, which won the English Derby and the 2,000 guineas, failed today in his attempt to do what few horses have accomplished—make a sweep of the three English racing classics.

Sandwich, owned by Lord Roseberry, was an easy victor by four lengths over Sir John Rutherford's Orpen, with Sir Andrew, American bred and owned by William Woodward, New York sportsman and owner of Gallant Fox, third, a length back.

NATS RETURN TODAY; FACE INDIANS

Brown and Ferrell Likely Selections for Mound.

MANAGER WALTER JOHNSON and his Nationals returned home early last night from Philadelphia and open their final stand against Western clubs at Griffith Stadium this afternoon in the first of a three-game series scheduled with the Cleveland Indians, who are going great guns these days and who come here with a record of seven victories in as many consecutive starts.

Trying to make it eight in a row, Manager Roger Peckinpaugh is expected to start his ace, Wesley Ferrell, on the hill, while the Nats likely will have Lloyd Brown flinging for them.

Only fourteen more games will be played here, with teams from the other sector furnishing the opposition in all but one. Tomorrow is an open date, with the Nats and Indians resuming action Saturday and Sunday. Then come the St. Louis Browns, Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox in the order named, three games being listed with each of these aggregations, while a postponed game also will be played with the Windy Cityans.

$60,000 for 3 Years Declined by Cochet

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Jack Curley, American sports promoter, returned from Europe today with the statement he hopes eventually to sign Henri Cochet to a contract to play professional tennis. Curley said the matter was still indefinite but that he hoped Cochet would "listen to reason."

Curley is reported to have offered the little wizard of the French tennis court a contract guaranteeing him $20,000 a year for three years to barnstorm with William T. Tilden.

HURRICANES ELIMINATE SANDS POINT IN POLO TOURNEY

Sanford Four Winner by 18 to 9

Guest and Stanford Lead Attack for Winning Team.

MEADOWBROOK CLUB, Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Running wild in the last two chukkers of an otherwise hard-fought polo match, Stephen "Laddie" Sanford's Anglo-American Hurricanes started their defense of the U. S. open polo championship today by routing Earle A. S. Hopping's Sands Point combination. The score was 18-9 and the defeat eliminated Sands Point from the tournament.

Winston Guest and Capt. C. T. I. (Pat) Roark, the two high goal internationalists of the championship team, proved entirely too much for the hard-riding Sands Point quartet once they got the range. As a climax, Sanford mounted the fast ponies on the field in the last two periods and went on a rampage. He scored three goals in the last period and led his team's production for the afternoon with a total of seven goals.

Guest's long-range work was all that saved the Hurricanes from being overrun at the outset. He scored five times as he played a great No. 2 for the winners. Roark, who did not strike his stride until the end of the first half, contributed four beautiful goals and the Hurricanes' newly acquired back, Torrence Preece, tallied twice in the last half after doing some fine defensive work.

Close for Three Chukkers.

Hopping, well supported by Seymour Knox, young Buffalo star, and Jimmy Mills, of the old Aiken combination, gave the open champions all they could handle in the first three periods. Riding at a furious clip the Sands Point outfit, a 26-goal combination as compared to the 31-goal Hurricanes, jumped off into a 2-0 lead and subsequently tied the score three times.

The first break came in the fourth chukker, where Roark and Guest engineered the first big Hurricane offensive. It gave the champions a 8-5 lead at half time. They were not seriously threatened thereafter, although Sands Point held them even for two more periods before the defense of Hopping and his companions blew wide open in the seventh period. It was a rout from there on as Roark, Guest and Sanford sifted through for a rapid succession of goals.

Barely 2,500 spectators saw the contest. The second elimination match will be played Saturday when the Argentine champions, Santa Paula, meet Roslyn.

—Lincoln Fields Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

LINCOLN FIELDS RACE TRACK, Chicago, Ill., Sept. 9.—A rather ordinary card has been arranged for the turf followers at Lincoln Fields tomorrow, with the Circle Purse, a six furlong dash, which will be contested under allowance conditions, as the feature attraction. A field of ten accepted the challenge. The rest of the program will be decided by the cheaper grade of horses, with the claiming clause attached.

The feature event has attracted several seasoned campaigners, with PORT HARLEM favored to annex the honors at the three-quarter mile distance. This colt has trained well and will be extended by HOMER L. The latter has also turned in several sparkling trials and is reported in prime condition. QUATRE BRAS II, from the Three D's string, should share in the purse.

FIRST RACE—FRENCH HONEY, clever juvenile from the Audley Farm stable, has shown improvement and should lead from flag fall to finish. LEJOY, a recent winner at this oval, may furnish stern opposition. UNENCUMBERED will prove troublesome on his best form.

SECOND RACE—A cheap band of platers will face the barrier in the seven furlong sprint of the second number. ST. JIM, sporting the O. H. Berz colors, has the speed of this contingent and figures to gain the major portion of the purse. DURVA is rounding to form and on his recent second to Harry Hie Over, appears to be the contender. ST. AGNES should go well in this class.

THIRD RACE—Although MARTIE FLYNN has not raced recently, he rates the call. Chief opposition should be furnished by COPPERFIELD. This Muldoon racer held on well in his last and figures to finish in the runner up position. JUSTINA has shown some clever performances in sprints and is given the show call.

FOURTH RACE—SISTER MARY holds a strong chance to annex the purse. DICK MORRIS has displayed consistent form of late and should force the pace. SWEEP PAST may find the distance a trifle short after his route races but is favored for the show award.

SIXTH RACE—TARNISH should hold his opponents safe. WIRT G. BOWMAN was off slowly in his last but finished full of run to gain the place. At the grueling 10-furlong test, the Barroni colorbearer, should be well up with the pace. TIMOUR appears best of the others for the minor award.

SEVENTH RACE—REVERBERATE, from the E. Haughton string, scored easily in her last at this distance and figures to repeat, against this mediocre field. SKRIP, a useful plater in the J. Spencer string, will have IN HASTE to beat for the place. The latter has displayed staying qualities at a route and lightly weighted with 106 pounds, should share the purse.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PRECEDE, $7.82, $3.24, $2.82; LAZY MARY, $2.96, $2.54; PLAY AROUND, $8.32.

PRECEDE, well ridden and away fast, was rated along under slight restraint opening three-eighths, went around the leaders at stretch turn, and, continuing well after drawing clear, withstood LAZY MARY. Latter, never far back, but forced to lose ground, closed strong. PLAY AROUND responded when hard urged after reaching final five-sixteenths, slightly impeded PUPPET in stretch and weakened in the final drive. WATER HEN had speed, saved ground much of the way and faltered in the stretch run. PUPPET was tiring when impeded in the stretch. SUSU appeared to bear in repeatedly and never threatened.

BUGS LEARY began fast, forced the early pace under restraint, drew into command gradually and had something in reserve. DIODORA, never far back, closed with good courage, but could not threaten winner. MONTGOMERY MAID broke fast, but was taken under restraint, raced wide and held on well under hand riding. HIGH POCKETS saved ground throughout, displayed speed and weakened in the last three-sixteenths. GEORGE MAYPOLE had no mishaps. LOOP, blocked at far turn, lost ground thereafter and Tilden finished with a foot out of the iron.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—OH DAVE, $11.60, $3.60, $2.26; NEWGRO, $2.52, $2.10; GIVANNA, $2.18.

OH DAVE, outrun and dropping far out of it when approaching the stretch, rallied fine speed after straightening up in the final quarter and, coming through on the inside, held NEWGRO in the final strides for a lucky win. Latter had speed, was considerably used racing with SUNIDAY, drew clear slowly and raced wide while holding on well, losing a tough race. GIVANNA raced forwardly, saved ground and was best of the others. SLASH raced well. SUNIDAY had speed and dropped out of it gradually in the stretch.

FOURTH RACE—One mile (out of chute). Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:45½. Off at 3:45½. Winner, H. M. Woolf's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DARK SEA, $3.44, $3.16, $2.42; SEGURO, $19.98, $6.26; FIDDLER $2.70.

DARK SEA, going in his best form and under strong restraint while forcing the early pace, drew into command slowly and without need of pressure, winning handily. SEGURO raced wide most of the distance, responded strongly when urged hard and closed strongly steadily in the final three-sixteenths. FIDDLER, a forward factor throughout, held on fairly well. LADY CAPULET had speed, was rated well, but weakened badly after being headed. TELA was allowed to drop out of it and never threatened. SKIRL was done after five-eighths.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MY DANDY, $7.96, $4.40, $2.42; SATIN SPAR, $5.02, $2.70; BATTLESHIP, $2.24.

MY DANDY moved fast from the start, made the early pace well in hand, slowly drew away after reaching the stretch and had speed in reserve. SATIN SPAR, a keen factor from the start, went wide at stretch turn and weakened after three-quarters, but outstayed BATTLESHIP. Latter, lucky to obtain room on the inside throughout, slightly improved his position entering stretch, but weakened badly in last sixteenth. PITTSBURGHER had no mishap. WHO WIN was outrun. PRINCE ATHELING displayed early speed under strong urging.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:45½. Off at 4:45½. Winner, R. B. Allen's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DABSTER, $7.04, $3.98, $3.30; ROY, $11.06, $7.12; CESARE, $3.74.

DABSTER, well ridden and rated along under snug restraint for three-quarters, easily worked his way to the front and came away fast in the final eighth. ROY, taken into the lead, was gradually shaken up during the first three-quarters, held on well despite inability to withstand winner and outstayed CESARE. Latter, a prominent factor throughout, went with good courage in the drive. GALAHAD began slowly, lacked his usual belated speed and showed a poor effort. JODHPUR quit. VERMICULITE allowed to drop out of it, was weakly ridden.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:14½. Off at 5:16½. Winner, Mrs. S. C. Hunt's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ENGLEWOOD, $11.34, $4.14, $3.10; BRUSH, $3.38, $2.56; TOP HATTIE, $4.14.

ENGLEWOOD, under strong restraint first three-quarters, closed ground slowly thereafter and, standing the drive gamely, got up in final strides. BRUSH, closer up than usual during early stages, easily disposed of PRINCESS EDITH, drew clear quickly and was inclined to loaf in final eighth. TOP HATTIE had no mishaps and, holding on fairly well, outstayed others. PRINCESS EDITH was done after showing speed to stretch. THUNWIN had no mishaps. WELL BEHAVED failed to respond to hard urging and was eased up in stretch.

COMMERCE DEFEATS G. P. O. TO LEAD IN PLAY-OFF SERIES

Riley Allows Typos Only 3 Singles

Pitcher Also Figures in Attack, Making 3 of 12 Hits.

Ingram, of Losers, Is Pounded Out in Third Inning.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

	W.	L.	Pct.
Commerce	2	1	.667
Eldbrooke, M. E.	1	1	.500

THE week-day championship series resembled a nice mud puddle yesterday after Commerce put its finger in the pie and plucked forth an easy 6—2 victory over G. P. O. to assume the lead in the race for the title. Approximately 3,000 fans witnessed the fray, which was terminated in the eighth inning because of darkness.

It was a case of too much Riley for the Printers. The ace of the Commerce staff held his opponents to three hits, two of which came in the seventh frame when the losers scored the second of their two runs. Pete Ingram, who started for G. P. O., was in hot water from the first until the third inning, when he was finally benched in favor of Lyons.

Riley Also Stars at Bat, With Three Hits.

In addition to hurling a good game, Riley also enjoyed a good day at bat, topping his team, along with Lewis and Singman, all of whom were credited with three hits. Commerce scampered out in front in the third with a three-run splurge, resulting from as many hits and errors by Homan and Ingram.

Two markers in the next frame were just so much work for the official scorer, with Riley mowing his opponents down in one-two-three order. The winning hurler fanned Hollis, Hiser and Gartland in the eighth, ending the game.

The Printers' loss puts the Constructioneers back in the running after that team had virtually been counted out of the chase with a loss at the hands of the Eldbrooke M. E. nine Tuesday.

It will be a battle for first place when the Churchmen clash with Commerce today at 4:30 p. m. on the South Ellipse. Commerce boasts a record of two victories in three starts, while Eldbrooke has one victory and a defeat charged to it.

"Dutch" Kinney probably will start "Shout" Taylor in today's game, and it is not too far fetched to say that "Wild Bill" Payne may attempt a come back today after hurling his team to victory Tuesday. Payne, earlier in the season, pitched four games in as many days, and broke even.

STEELE WINS FEATURE FROM WHITE FEATHER

complished in seemingly less than three seconds. White Feather had to be escorted from the ring.

Pojello and De Laun put on a 33-minute wrestling bout which most of the fans failed to recognize as the sport they've been coming to see each week. Pojello, certainly the fastest man in the ring, found a bulldog of a 208-pound man opposing him, but wore him down to a point where three body slams were in order, and accomplished.

Zaharias and a newcomer, Le Jean, slugged toe to toe for 30 minutes in a bout which had the spectators yelling for a knockout. This easily dominated the also fan tussles on the list. Doc Wilson, the unendingly popular young medico, disposed of the cordially hated Tiger Nelson after 17½ minutes with an airplane spin, and aided, it seemed, by Nelson's seemingly inability to use his left arm. Steinborn and Son Jennings drew and George Romonoff, in one of the greatest upsets in the history of sport, tossed Dutch Green in 17 minutes, with a new "holt"—the body slam.

DIAMOND DUST
FROM THE SANDLOTS

FEELING rather gay after its smashing 14-2 victory over the Policemen Labor Day, the Fire Department team has challenged the winner of the week-day series title to a series of three games. Such a series would undoubtdly attract the sandlot fans, provided there is no lapse between the first and second games, while the Smoke-eaters are on night duty.

Negotiations are also under way for a series between the Takoma Tigers, winners of the Capital City League, and the champion of the Baltimore League. Mr. Simpson, business manager of the Takoma Club, will meet with officials in charge of the Monumental City series Sunday to discuss plans for the games.

With seventeen victories and no defeats to its credit, the Phoenix A. C. is gunning for more opponents. Teams interested should call Mr. Norris at Lincoln 7730-W, after 7 p. m.

The Kensington A. C. will meet the Colesville Cards Sunday at 3 p. m. on the latter's field. All Kensington players are requested to meet at Joe's Barber Shop at 12:30 p. m.

The Fredericksburg A. C., which hung a 16-4 defeat on the Logan A. C. Sunday, will tackle the Frederick Eagles next Sunday on the Gaithersburg diamond.

The Brentwood Hawks football team will drill tonight at 7:30 p. m. on the Mt. Rainier field. All candidates are requested to report promptly.

The Marion footballers will meet tonight at 7 o'clock at 322 North Carolina avenue southeast. "Hike" Licarjone will captain the team this year.

The Meridian gridiron squad will go through its paces tonight at 8 o'clock on the Iowa avenue playground.

The Noel House 135-pound eleven will hold its first drill of the season Saturday at 4:30 p. m. on the Rosedale playground field. All candidates are requested to report promptly.

The Palisade A. C. is seeking games for Saturday and Sunday with strong unlimited foes. Teams interested should call Manager Hager at Cleveland 2133-J, or address him at 5040 Dana place northwest.

The Chevy Chase Grays will meet the Skinker Eagles Saturday and the Auth's unlimited nine Sunday. Both games will be played on the Gray's diamond at 3 p. m.

NEWCOMERS RAISE MD.'S GRID HOPES

Norris, Keenan, Chalmers, Poppleman Ready for Action.

CONSONANT with this season's program of putting a polished team on the field in the least possible amount of time, Curley Byrd, Maryland mogul, sent three squads through signal practice and stiff blocking sessions yesterday morning and afternoon on the turf of College Park, the third day of preseason training.

Byrd's chances of whipping his grade A team into condition for the heavy section of the Terp schedule, shortly after the turn of October, were materially enhanced yesterday when Jack Norris, regular end, put in an appearance in the best of physical shape and practiced with the team.

Chalamers, Poppleman and Keenan on Job.

Other noted arrivals were "Shorty" Chalmers, Ray Poppleman and Ted Keenan, letter men from 1930. This trio of newcomers virtually completes the preseason training squad. The only missing faces, among the letter men from last year, are Ray Koelle, reserve guard, and Ralph Sterling, end. Nothing is known of the whereabouts of Koelle, but he is expected back to complete his engineering course. Sterling is in camp with the Third Corps Area and will report on September 20.

Not listed among the good news yesterday was the notice of the fact that Howard Shinn, whose work in a guard position on last year's freshman team earned him the sobriquet of "most valuable" player, had transferred to Rutgers.

G. U. Hospital List Grows; Mills Delays Scrimmage

By JACK ESPEY
(The Post's Staff Correspondent).

REHOBOTH, Del., Sept. 9.—With the casualty list growing at the rate that threatens to prohibit scrimmaging, which is this week's objective, Head Coach Tommy Mills applied the brakes in practice here today for his Georgetown football hopefuls. The usual morning drill was eliminated for the day, as nine of the squad of about 50, suffering injuries sustained Monday and yesterday, underwent treatment from Trainer Crowley.

The hospital squad enlisted three more players following yesterday's sessions, the new "cripples" being Bernie Donohue, high-stepping left half back, whose neck was twisted; Walter Voight, veteran tackle, who fell a victim to a cold, and Joe O'Neill, recruit tackle, who took some hard cracks on the knees in line charging. Donohue and Voight were confined to their beds this afternoon and likely will stay there until tomorrow, possibly longer. O'Neill, however, was able to limp out to the bus which carries the squad to the training field and watched his mates in action from a chair.

Just when he can inaugurate scrimmage, Mills does not know but if no further injuries are sustained and a few of those now out make a rapid recovery, the "real business" will get under way perhaps by Friday. In addition to those already mentioned the six players injured the first two days of the week are Sammy Gellis, Gomer Small and Russ Danlen, backs and Ed Skovinski, John Rowan and Bill O'Rourke, ends.

Today's single drill was consumed mostly by a series of ends against back plays during which the coaches found much fault with both the flank men and the backs. The ends were found guilty of rather haphazard tackling, while the backs who were used exclusively for blocking purposes, failed to execute the intricate block properly. The scene was altogether an unsatisfactory one with coaches and players alike wearing frowns as dark as night.

Tommy Carolan, the sophomore, and whose arrival the squad has been anticipating keenly for a week, got here last night amid sighs of relief.

COACH STAFF COMPLETE AT G. W.

194-Pound Indian Is Strong Candidate for Guard Post.

Special to The Washington Post.

CAMP LETTS, Md., Sept. 9.—Coach Bill Meyers, new back field assistant mentor, arrived here this afternoon and immediately began his duties. The arrival of Meyers completes the coaching staff, while "Blackie" Hoffman, 1929 and 1930 full back, who also came in today, rounds out the squad.

Plenty of heavy work again was included in today's schedule of work and many a pound of flesh melted off the frames of the players who worked under a blistering sun. Coach Pixlee plans to hold scrimmage sessions before the end of the week in order to find out who's who.

Among the 40-odd players making up the roster of the squad none is more colorful than Chief Kanitobe, a full-blood Choctaw Indian chief from Oklahoma. The aborigine weighs 194 pounds and is a strong candidate for a guard position.

41 AMATEUR GOLFERS START PLAY FOR DISTRICT TITLE

Burning Tree Is Scene of Contest

Few Take Advantage of Last Chance to Try Course.

36 Holes Today and Tomorrow; Roesch Is Ineligible.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THE course of the Burning Tree Club was almost deserted yesterday despite the fact that the opening round of the District amateur golf championship will be played this morning, with forty-one entries. Competition will be seventy-two holes, medal play, with thirty-six holes today and an equal number tomorrow.

The winning score last year was 300, made by Frank K. Roesch, of the Washington Golf and Country Club, who is ineligible for the event today as he is no longer a member of any club connected with the District Golf Association.

Harry G. Pitt, of the Manor Club, and former Middle Atlantic champion, played the course yesterday afternoon accompanied by George F. Miller, champion of the Manor Club. No cards were kept. Pitt made no attempt to score but, on the contrary played two balls from every tee in order to get as much practice as possible. Miller started in fine order, scoring a par on the first, a birdie on the second and a par on the third. Pitt, however, was having more or less trouble both with his woods and irons but hoped to be straightened out when he competes today.

Other Stars Take Practice.

Other contestants who played around the course were John C. Shorey, who failed to tie for the championship last year by one stroke; Roger Peacock, Argyle, who recently won the District junior championship; J. Munro Hunter, jr., Indian Spring, and Maurice Nee and William Detweiler, both of the Manor Club, and still in the junior class, although their game may give trouble to some of the seniors. Detweiler, who is only 13 years old, was credited with a 79 on the Burning Tree course last Monday. The field today, however, will include Miller B. Stevinson, Columbia, former District champion, and many others who are liable to give the would-be title-seekers a real struggle before the last putt is holed tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, of the Columbia Club, was the winner yesterday of the prize for low gross score in the tournament played on the Kenwood course under the auspices of the Women's District Golf Association. Her card was 40—40—80, as follows:

Out .....5 5 4 5 5 5 4 4 3 5—40
In .....4 5 5 5 5 4 4 4 4—40—80

The prize for low net, a silver goblet donated by Donald A. Chamberlin, was also won by Mrs. Haynes, with Mrs. J. F. Dowdall, Congressional, second, with a card of 82—14—78. Mrs. Harrison Brand, jr., Chevy Chase, followed with a score of 92—12—80. All players with low net scores under 90 were awarded a golf ball, as follows: Miss Sue Gantt, 82; Mrs. Frank R. Keefer, 82; Mrs. Jerome Meyer, 82; Mrs. H. A. Knox, 82; Mrs. T. N. Beavers, 82; Miss Virginia Pope, 83; Miss Bertha Israel, 87; Mrs. L. Hedrick, 87; Mrs. Henry J. Richardson, 88; Mrs. Holtzmann, 88; Mrs. H. K. Barroll, 89.

Junior Tournament Delayed.

The junior championship of the Congressional Country Club, scheduled for yesterday, was not played, but has been postponed until next Tuesday on account of the proximity of the District amateur championship. The event will be followed by the women's championship of the Congressional Club, to be played next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Five District clubs have agreed to join the series of interclub team matches to be held under the auspices of the Maryland State Golf Association. These clubs are Beaver Dam, Chevy Chase, Indian Spring, Manor and Argyle. Neither the Columbia nor the Congressional Clubs will be represented in this series, which will begin on Sunday, September 20, with the finals listed for October 18. The Columbia Club team was defeated in the finals last year by the team of the Indian Spring Club.

Columbia Club Tournament Scheduled October 7 and 8

THE golf committee of the Columbia Country Club yesterday issued formal announcement of the club championship tournament, with two days, October 7 and 8, devoted to qualifying rounds of 18 holes each.

Play will be in six divisions, as follows: Championship, players with handicaps of 8 and under; second, handicaps of 9 to 12, inclusive; third, handicaps of 13 to 16, inclusive; fourth, handicaps of 17 to 19 inclusive; fifth, handicaps of 20 to 23 inclusive; sixth, handicaps of 24.

Only sixteen will qualify in each division, although nearly one-half of the members of the club are listed in the 17 to 19 class, while the other divisions have a comparatively small number of contestants. Friday and Saturday, October 9 and 10, will be devoted to first, second, semifinal and final rounds of match play in the six divisions, with trophies for the winners presented respectively by Edward B. McLean, James E. Baines, John E. Shoemaker, Herbert T. Shannon, board of governors and the late Chas. I. Corby.

The committee announces that no funds are available for the usual club dinner but this event will be held, restricted to members only, if a sufficient number of subscriptions at $3.50 per plate, are received.

PLAYGROUND HONORS TO HOOVER

Park View Defeated, 6-3, as Wesley and Sclhorb Star.

JOE MITCHELL'S Hoover Playground team won the unlimited championship of the District playgrounds yesterday by defeating representatives of Park View by a 6-3 score in the fifth and deciding game of the play-off series. Hoover, after dropping the first two games, came back to win three straight.

John Wesley, a left-hander, was again the hero for the Southwest team, granting only four hits. Sclhorb, of the winners, contributed the feature blow of the series when he pounded the ball over the swimming pool on the Rosedale field for a home run.

Hoover gained a 2-1 lead in the third inning and was never headed thereafter. Crews pitched creditably for the Park View nine.

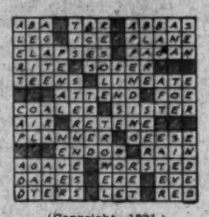
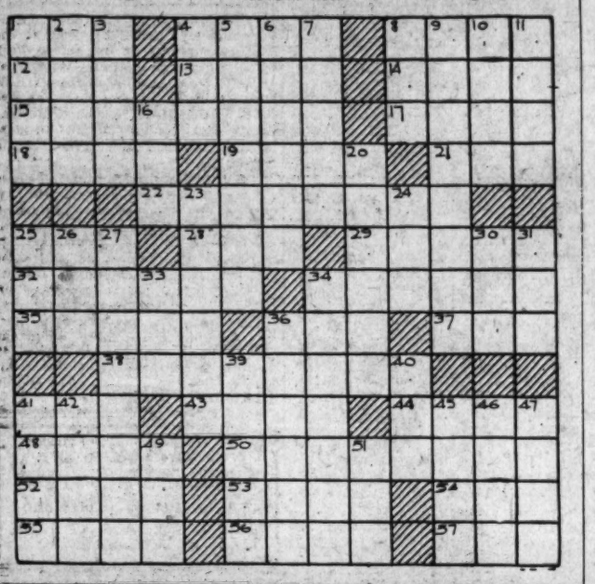
YESTERDAY'S ANSWER.



(Copyright, 1931.)



HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

VACCINATION AGAINST DIPHTHERIA.

IN New York State the policy of controlling diphtheria by vaccination campaigns has been used for more than five years. Dr. Palmer's study shows that New York has had exceptional success in controlling diphtheria. A good part of this is attributable to vaccination against the disease.

The honor of leading all other New York cities in this particular goes to Middletown. In 1929, more than 70 per cent of all children under 5 years of age had been immunized. By 1930 it was said that about all of this age group were immunized. In Ogdensburg the protected were over 60 per cent of the entire number in the age group.

In Mamaroneck, one-half the children of preschool age were immunized, besides a considerable proportion of the other children. In Utica, within six months, they increased the proportion of immunized children from 38 to 68 per cent in the 5 to 9 years age group, and from 9 to 29 per cent in the preschool group. In Niagara Falls, in three months, they increased the proportion of the immunized in the 5 to 10 year group from 67 per cent to 95 per cent, and in the preschool group from 8 per cent to 43 per cent.

Auburn was one of the first cities to prove that immunization against diphtheria was worth while. Schenectady has had reasonably good success with a plan differing in many ways from that employed elsewhere in the State.

Miss M. W. Sheahan gives it as her opinion, based on her experience in New York State, that the best way to get the children in a community immunized, is to run a short, vigorous publicity campaign along the lines of a church revival. Meanwhile, an immunizing center is opened at the health department, or in a public school. Volunteer workers and nurses call at the homes and persuade the parents to take, or send, their children to the center to be immunized. Many of them are given a free automobile ride. Volunteer and paid clerks at the center keep records on the immunized and the nonimmunized children. Physicians give the injections. In Miss Sheahan's opinion, fear is not a requisite for success. A campaign can be made to go if everybody is in earnest, even though there is no diphtheria in town and the people are free from apprehension.

DEFICIENCY IN THYROID.

L. K. writes: With reference to deficiency in thyroid secretion, mentioned in reply to letter from M. E. H., will you please advise whether or not thyroid can be taken without a doctor's specific advice or prescription? I have more or less the same trouble M. E. H. writes of and, in addition, have a tendency lately to gain weight, regardless of how little food I eat. In fact, in this hot weather I have eaten only fruits and vegetables, and these only in small portions, and still I gain rather than lose.

2. Are there any foods which would supply this necessary element in one's system?

REPLY.

1. Any one can purchase thyroid and take it without limitation or question. However, it is not good judgment to do so without knowing that you need it, in the first place; nor how much of it you need, in the second.

2. I presume you mean—Are there any iodine-rich foods? There are. Seaweed, fish and all other foods from the sea are rich in iodine. So are vegetables grown on certain soils. The same varities of vegetables grown on other soils are not.

NO TREATMENT NEEDED.

Miss V. E. writes: Several months ago I was operated on for appendicitis. Have felt fine, but sometimes sharp shooting pains are felt inside the incision. I have been wondering whether or not these are natural. I am 20 years old and play tennis a lot, although not as strenuously as before.

REPLY.

My guess is that your pain is in nerves that were cut during the operation. It is unimportant and calls for no treatment.

BOBBY THATCHER — The Cave — By George Storm

AFTER THE BOYS CAMP WAS WRECKED BY THE HIGH WIND THEY TOOK REFUGE FROM THE DRIVING RAIN IN A CAVE WHICH THEY DISCOVERED IN A NARROW RAVINE---
THERE'S WHERE SOMEBODY BUILT A FIRE A LONG TIME AGO
TURN THE LIGHT OVER THIS WAY
THE INTERIOR OF THE CAVE AFFORDED ONLY HEAD ROOM FOR THE BOYS AND AFTER A SHARP TURN RECEDED ABRUPTLY TO A NARROW OPENING IN THE ROCKS
THERE MUST BE MORE OF IT THROUGH THAT OPENING BECAUSE I CAN HEAR A SPRING RUNNING IN THERE BUT IT'S TOO SMALL FOR ANYBODY TO SQUEEZE THROUGH...

SALES PULL STOCKS LOWER AT CLOSING

American Can and Other Issues Make Small Gains in Heavy Market.

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Stocks developed better resistance to selling in the morning trading today, but enough weak spots cropped out to keep the market uneasy, and the tone during the afternoon was heavy. Short covering just before the close brought scattered gains, although final prices averaged lower.

New York Central's rally after the quarterly dividend had been cut to $1 from $1.50 meant that the stock had discounted the unfavorable news, which was the outstanding item of the day.

Although some other rails were weak, Pennsylvania, Lackawanna, Chicago & Northwestern, Baltimore & Ohio, Northrn Pacific and Canadian Pacific, among others, made new lows. Norfolk & Western, Atlantic Coast Line and B. & O. preferred were especially heavy, but Atchison, Central, Union Pacific, New Haven and Reading closed higher.

Motors Join Selling.

Heavy selling of General Motors, accompanied by gossip that the stock might be put on a $2.50 annual basis, disturbed the comparative calm that greeted the New York Central reduction.

Also, liquidation of National Biscuit, International Harvester and the U. S. Steel issues accentuated the pessimism which still seemed to underlie the market. The irregular recovery in the final transactions left many principal issues with small net changes. Sales amounted to 2,006,720 shares. The small decline in steel making last month and the firmness of prices seem to have given courage to the trade, which is now hoping for a 10-point rally in the operating ratio from the autumnal upturn. Labor Day caused some contraction, but those losses should have been made up by the end of this week.

Investment selling of United States Steel preferred pulled the price down to 129, or 21 points under the year's high, an unusually wide range for that stock. The common punctured 80 on the afternoon dip, touching 79¾, but recovered to 80⅞ for a net gain of ⅛.

Small Advances Made.

There were equally nominal advances in Bethlehem, American Can, Sears Roebuck, Kennecott and Anaconda, while Radio, Allied Chemical, American Telephone and some others closed with fractional losses. National Biscuit, Du Pont, General Motors and Harvester finished the day heavy.

Foreign bonds weakened, although with grade domestics following their example. United States Governments were off coincident with word that the oversubscription to the 3 per cent long-term loan had been small. The new bonds sold at a discount.

The vote of confidence given the British government was taken to mean that emergency measures to be submitted to the Commons would be passed. Sterling exchange was firm in common with other European rates except the mark, which lost about a quarter of a cent, apparently reflecting last week's break on the bourse and liquidation by small foreign holders of German securities.

Net changes in the commodities were largely small gains. Cotton, influenced perhaps by reports of possible banking credits for exports, rallied 85 to 95 cents a bale. Weather news lifted wheat moderately. Corn closed almost unchanged.

BOND PRICES SLUMP TO NEW LOW LEVELS

Day's Losses Are Fractional, With Foreigns Declining Despite Activity.

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The bond market declined irregularly today, but apart from the foreign obligations the majority of the net changes were fractional. The average price of 60 representative issues composed of equal numbers of public utility, industrial and railroad issues touched a new low level at 91.4, a net loss of two-tenths of a point for the day.

Trading in the new Treasury 3 per cent bonds of 1951-55 started in the over-the-counter market following announcement that the $800,000,000 offering had been oversubscribed by $140,000,000 compared with an oversubscription of eight times for the June flotation of an equal amount.

The new issue dropped to a discount, the lowest level being 99 20-32, and it closed at 99 22-32. Trading in these bonds was not particularly heavy and dealers ascribed the decline to the fact that many subscribers, contrary to previous experience, received full allotments on their subscriptions.

The decline will go a long way toward eliminating any profit subscribing banks might derive from the fact that they are permitted to pay for their subscriptions in book credit on which they pay one-half of one per cent to the Government. Outstanding Treasury and Liberty Government bonds were generally lower also, although trading was restricted.

Foreign issues declined irregularly with many of the larger losses occurring among the more speculative loans. A recovering tendency appeared in this group shortly before the close, but it did not go far enough in most instances to cancel previous losses. German 5½s and 7s were two of the most active issues and lost 1½ and 2¾ points, respectively, but closed above the low levels of the day.

Railroad loans continued to recede although losses on the whole were smaller than yesterday and a few of them even gained fractions. Public utility and industrial obligations also declined irregularly.

LOAN HOUSES FORM LENDERS' EXCHANGE

Interest Payable on Bonds This Month Will Total $192,921,946.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Personal finance companies operating in the Washington area under license from Virginia and Maryland State banking departments, have organized a lenders exchange.

The officers, who will also serve as a board of directors, have been elected as follows: President, Davis Weir, State Loan Co., Mount Rainier, Md.; vice president, Walter E. Nuchols, American Fidelity & Loan Corporation, Seat Pleasant, Md.; secretary, Dewey T. Jones, Maryland Personal Bankers, Silver Spring, Md.; Carl M. Paynter, First Industrial Bankers, Mount Rainier.

Cash dividend payments made by domestic corporations in August were smaller than in any previous month of 1931, according to Standard Statistics Co. of New York. Total payments amounted to $211,543,756. Electric light and gas companies accounted for over $51,000,000, railroads for more than $44,000,000, and food products concerns for over $15,000,000.

September Bond Interest.

Interest to be paid this month on American corporate bonds, United States Government bonds and foreign dollar bonds, will amount to $192,921,946, according to the company, a substantial increase over the $143,229,806 paid in August. Redemptions, calls and maturities on these same obligations will amount to $774,583,540 in comparison with $189,346,613 in August. The increase reported is due almost entirely to the amount of United States Government bonds to be retired during September.

International Business Machines Corporation has just opened a school for employes at Santiago, Chile, following its recent opening of a similar industrial school in Berlin, Germany.

These two training units for employes are an extension of the program of business education carried out in foreign countries by the company, which is one of the pioneers among American business corporations in employe education and which in the past five years alone has enabled nearly one-third of its workers to attend its courses. The foreign schools will facilitate the business of the company in 78 countries and dependencies.

Representatives Take Course.

The South American school is being attended by representatives of the company in the various South American countries. The initial session of the German school was attended by 38 employes from Germany, England, Norway and Sweden. The courses are supervised by officials who themselves have been trained in the company's American schools.

The company is now sending about 10 per cent of its workers to school for a part of the year. The intensive training courses vary in length from four to six weeks and are attended by salesmen, service men, factory supervisors and tabulating machine operators. Sessions for the discussion of management and administrative problems are held for executives.

Mother of Girl Saves Youth More Chivalrous Than Wise

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—A mother's understanding of how girls are likely to react to the stimulus of "fame stories" from Hollywood may save Harold Bernstein, 22, from a lot of trouble with the law.

Young Mr. Bernstein, who said he was a student at the University of California, was arrested and released on bail of $1,000 in connection with the disappearance of Emily Grinnell from New Bedford, Mass. Miss Grinnell is 15 years old, 6 feet tall, blonde, weighs 170 pounds and is the daughter of socially prominent parents.

Her mother, Mrs. Lawrence Grinnell, took her back to New Bedford today, and left behind the private opinion that Emily had more to do with her disappearance than did Mr. Bernstein. In fact, she appeared convinced the girl accompanied the youth to New York over his protest and that she was unharmed.

Nevertheless, there will be a further hearing September 17.

Bernstein said the girl wrote to him in response to an advertisement he inserted in a movie magazine in which he offered, for a small fee, to relay requests for pictures to film stars.

Miss Grinnell told him she wanted to be a movie star herself, he said. He wrote back to advise her there was a serious oversupply in Hollywood and suggesting she stay home.

Then he drove to the East to study at Columbia University and decided to call on Miss Grinnell and persuade her in person not to "crash" Hollywood.

He said she insisted she was bored at New Bedford and decided to come to New York for an audition. Because he feared she would fall into unscrupulous hands, he said, he decided to escort her.

The girl did obtain an audition and was told her voice was "promising." Then money ran low and she telegraphed to her parents.

$20,000,000 Netted By Alien Runners

U. S. Reveals Vast Traffic in Preparations for Indictment of 20.

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Airplanes, speed boats, automobiles and even rowboats were used to smuggle uncounted thousands of aliens into the United States from Canada and Mexico during the past ten years, Federal authorities said tonight as they prepared to lay their information before a grand jury.

Federal officials have estimated the smuggling of aliens netted its operators at least $20,000,000 in fees, which ranged individually between $200 and $3,000. After their arrival here, authorities said, the aliens were forced to pay additional money under threat of exposure.

William B. Herlands, assistant district attorney, describing the immigration racket as well organized "as a chain store system," said the Government would seek indictments against from 12 to 20 persons. Of these, he said, probably five or six would be lawyers.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The Simpson State Bank at Simpson, Lackawanna County, was closed today and its affairs taken over by the State Banking Department.

Mobile Ship Line Sale Is Approved

Government to Transfer Vessels to Present Operators.

(Associated Press.)

A contract for the sale of another Government-owned steamship service—the Mobile Oceanic Line—was finally approved yesterday by the Shipping Board. The line is to go to its present managing operator, the Waterman Steamship Co., of Mobile, Ala., for $1,108,000. It consists of fourteen steel cargo ships operating from Mobila and other East Gulf ports to the United Kingdom, Ireland, and continental Europe.

Although the sale received preliminary approval from the board a year ago, confirmation was delayed pending award of an ocean mail contract for the route.

Of the purchase price, 25 per cent is to be paid down and the balance over a period of seven and one-half years, with interest at 4½ per cent.

North Carolina Bank Closes.

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The Marine Bank of Morehead City was ordered closed today by Gurney P. Hood, commissioner of banks, who said he was informed that W. U. Mallison, assistant cashier, had admitted a shortage of an undetermined amount.

FILIPINO SENTIMENT VEERS FROM HURLEY

Island-Owned Papers Begin Questioning Motive of Secretary's Visit.

Manila, Sep. 9 (A.P.).—A change in sentiment toward Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley was being manifested today by Philippine newspapers and politicians, who at first received him cordially.

The Secretary arrived here September 1 and is in the southern Philippines on his tour of inspection to make a report to President Hoover regarding political, educational, social and economic conditions in the archipelago.

The American-owned Manila Daily Bulletin in relating Hurley's visit to Zamboanga, Mindanao Island, gave big display to a story which said the Moros expressed themselves as opposed to Philippine independence.

Filipinos have always asserted as many Moros favor independence as oppose it, and afternoon editions of La Vanguardia, which is Filipino-owned, gave equal prominence to a story saying Capt. E. B. Whisner, Hurley's acting aid, had barred doors to Moros favoring independence, allowing only those opposing it to see the Secretary.

The Philippine Herald, a strong advocate of independence for the Philippines, said today:

"Events during the last few days in Mindanao seem to give credence to the belief he has come to pour cold water on our nationalistic spirit."

La Vanguardia said Senator Jose Clarin would speak in the Philippine Senate this week against questions asked people by Hurley during his travels through the islands.

Clarin, the paper said, would term these questions unfair, especially the one in which the Secretary was quoted as asking:

"How about your national defense—can you resist foreign aggression?"

Filipino independence proponents have asserted most nations would be unable to repel invasion, and inability to do so should not be a requirement for independence.

A mob of 200 Filipinos armed with bolos, clubs and stones attacked five American private soldiers tonight while they were crossing the Colgante Bridge in the center of Manila. The soldiers defended themselves with improvised shields from a nearby market place, holding off the mob until it was dispersed by police reserves.

5 BANKERS TESTIFY IN MAIL FRAUD CASE

McKnew Among Those Who Bought Securities on Face of Circulars.

Asheville, N. C., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—Five investment bankers testified here today they were deceived into handling bonds of the Central Securities Co. of Asheville, Inc., by financial statements, circulars and statements mailed to them by the company's officers.

Their testimony was given in the trial of Wallace B. Davis, president, and William D. Harris, vice president, of the securities corporation, charged by the Government with using the mails to defraud.

The Government alleges the company sold $3,600,000 in bonds to purchasers in fourteen States through false statements of its financial condition. The firm failed last November when the Central Bank & Trust Co., of Asheville, parent concern, closed its doors.

Waldemar de Bille, former president of the Prudential Co., Chicago investment banking house; Donald H. McKnew, Washington; William G. Riley, New York representative of the Colonial Bond & Share Co., Baltimore, and Stanley B. Young, manager of the bond department of E. W. Hays & Co., Louisville, Ky., testified they would not have handled the bonds had they known the firm's true financial condition.

McKnew said he bought $151,000 worth of Central Securities bonds, relying entirely on the financial statements and circulars furnished by the Asheville concern.

He talked to Davis and Harris later, he said, and repeatedly questioned the company by mail and telephone about the amount of cash it carried in the Central Bank. Davis and Harris finally came to Washington, he said, and told him 30 or 31 per cent of the collateral underlying the bonds was guaranteed by

JEWISH NEW YEAR'S DAWNING WILL LACK BLOWING OF SHOFAR

Coincidence of Sabbath to Defer Sounding of Horn to Sunday.

ROSH-HASHANA RITE TO START TOMORROW

Sermons and Observance of Ritual Will Mark Advent of 5692.

Rosh-Hashanah, the Jewish new year 5692, will be ushered in tomorrow evening in the several synagogues throughout the city. The celebration will continue through Saturday and until sundown Sunday.

The holiday is celebrated the first two days of the Jewish month of Tishri. It stresses the universal note of repentance and is preceeded by a 30-day period of personal religious preparation of a devotional and ethical nature.

The traditional blowing of the ram's horn, the Shofar, which is symbolical of the entrance of the new year, will not be observed in the orthodox synagogues on Saturday, because of the conflict with the regular Sabbath celebration. Instead the Shofar will be resounded on Sunday during the observance of the second day's services of Rosh-Hashanah.

At Ohev Sholom.

At Ohev Sholom Synagogue, Fifth and I streets northwest, services will be held Friday evening at 6:30 and Saturday morning at 7. The same order of services will be repeated Saturday night and Sunday morning. Cantor Tobias Schnitman, of Brooklyn, N. Y., will conduct the holiday services. A male choir under the direction of Max Goldberg will assist.

Rabbi J. T. Loeb, of the congregation will read the Schacharith, early morning service, and deliver the sermon at 10 a. m. on both days of the celebration. His topic Saturday will be "Eternal Verities" and on Sunday, "What constitutes Jewish Education." The solemn season beginning with Rosh-Hashanah will continue through the Ten Days of Penitence, culminating in the Yom Kipper fast, September 20 and 21.

Adas Israel Synagogue, Sixth and I streets northwest, the oldest Jewish congregation in Washington will hold a similar celebration. The morning service on the two days will begin at 7, and the evening services at 6:30. The Hebrew ritual will be chanted by Cantor Louis Novick and selections in English will be rendered by Rabbi Solomon H. Metz. Rabbi Metz's sermon on the first day will be "Sinai and the Skyscrapers" and on the second day "Our Heritage," both starting at about 10:30 a. m.

Services For Children.

Special services will be conducted in the vestry rooms at the Synagogue for the children of the Adas Israel Junior Congregation starting at 11 o'clock on both days.

Rabbi George Silverstone will speak at the Congregation Tifereth Israel, 1401 Euclid street northwest. Cantor Jeremiah Weitz will conduct the services, assisted by the Rev. Moses Goldman. Observances of new year will be held Friday evening at 6:30, Saturday morning from 7 until 1, Saturday evening at 7, and Sunday from 7 a. m. to 1 p. m. Samuel Rod, president of Tifereth Israel for the past eight years, will assist in the celebration.

Rabbi Jacob Dubrof, of Georgetown Kesher Israel, 2801 M street northwest, will conduct the services at his synagogue. They will be held Friday at 7 p. m., Saturday and Sunday from 7 a. m. until 2 p. m.

Hebrew Home Observance.

Special observances are planned at the Hebrew Home for the Aged, 1125 Spring road northwest. On Friday evening the Rev. Benzion Epstien and K. Keren will conduct services from 6:30 until 7:30. Saturday evening Mr Maurice Maser, superintendent of the Hebrew Home, and Mr. Jacob Hinkei will conduct the services at 6:30. On Sunday all four of the men will participate in the celebration which will be held from 7 a. m. until 1 p. m.

Thief, Hiding in Closet, Escapes With $135 Loot

After recovering from the rather unusual experience of finding in her clothes closet a strange man who dashed madly by her out of the apartment in to the street, Mrs. Madeline Courtney, of 1740 K street northwest, discovered that she had been robbed of $65 in cash and two watches valued at $70.

Mrs. Courtney told police that she did not know who was more surprised, she or the burglar, and that because of the suddeness of the whole affair she could obtain only a scant description of the man. She said that she had left her apartment for a short while and upon returning opened the closet and found the man.

Jewish Prisoners Get Prayer Books

Welfare Federation Makes Like Gifts to Others in Hospitals.

The Jewish Welfare Federation, in cooperation with the Union of American Hebrew Congregations of America and the United Synagogue of America, has placed in the District penal and eleemosynary institutions prayer books for Jewish inmates of these institutions. These prayer books are of both the Reform Jewish and Orthodox Jewish type so as to fill the needs of the various classes of worshipers.

Oscar Leonard, executive director of the Jewish Welfare Federation, has made personal visits to the various penal and eleemosynary institutions and arranged with the heads of the institutions to enable Jewish prisoners to attend services to be held in the institutions.

Mr. Leonard, through the courtesy of Dr. William A. White, has also arranged for regular New Year and Day of Atonement services to be held in St. Elizabeths Hospital for Jewish inmates.

BAKER CASE EXPERT SMILES AT BIG SUIT

Goddard Accepts Service in Campbell's Action for $750,000.

Richmond, Va., Sept 9 (A.P.).—Notices of motions for judgments totaling $750,000 were served here today on behalf of Herbert M. Campbell on Calvin H. Goddard, ballistics expert of the Northwestern University crime detective laboratory, during an American Legion luncheon.

Campbell was acquitted on a murder charge in connection with the slaying of Mary Baker, Navy Department employe. Goddard had testified as to the relation between bullets found in the girl's body and a pistol owned by Campbell.

Prof. Goddard smiled when told of the legal action and said he would not seek to dodge summons. A short time after the notices were served on him the motions were filed in city circuit court here.

Campbell asks $500,000 damages because of Goddard's testimony that bullets found in the body of Mary Baker were fired from Campbell's pistol, and $250,000 for statements attributed to Dr. Goddard and published in Washington Herbert S. Ward, of Clarendon and Washington, is counsel for the plaintiff.

Wife Finds Spouse Twice With Gas On

Rescue Squad's Second Visit Brings Trip to Gallinger.

After making two alleged attempts to end his life with gas yesterday, Gelbert M. Angel, 34, World War veteran, of 908 New York avenue northwest, was arrested and sent to Gallinger Hospital for observation.

About noon yesterday his wife found him in his room with a gas jet turned on. The fire rescue squad and emergency ambulance responded, but his condition was said to be not serious by Dr. C. E. McNamara of the hospital staff, and he remained home.

An hour later Angel was again found to have turned on the gas, according to his wife, Mrs. Helen Angel, who called the rescue squad once more. As before, his condition was pronounced as not serious. Angel then was arrested and sent to Gallinger Hospital.

Man Is Fined $35 For Shooting Dog

Said to Have Wounded Animal Peacefully Reclining in Own Yard.

A fine of $85 was placed against John W. Simpson, 57 years old, in Police Court yesterday when it was testified that he had shot a dog while the animal was peacefully reclining in its own front yard.

The dog, the property of John Ondryovich, 5410 Georgia avenue northwest, is in a critical condition in a hospital. It was wounded in the breast and feet.

Pete Marzo a witness, said that the dog "Lindy" apparently paid no attention to the approach of Simpson, who levsed the gun at the dog and blazed away. Simpson denied that he had shot the dog, but Judge Gus A. Schuick found him guilty and assessed the fine.

AMERICA DECLARED NEW MUSIC CENTER

Capital Symphony Director Says Europe Has Lost Lead in Interest.

The center of musical interest has shifted definitely from Europe to America Hans Kindler, conductor of the new Washington Symphony Orchestra, yesterday told a representative of The Post in Baltimore upon his arrival from France aboard the S. S. City of Norfolk.

"Music abroad is very much on the decline in comparison with America," Mr. Kindler said. "There is much more enthusiasm here. Europe is tired. There is no longer a feeling of leadership among the arts."

Mr. Kindler declared that the majority of musicians in Europe want to come to this country, thus gradually bringing the leadership in music to America. He said there was nothing abroad that could compare to the great orchestras of Boston, Philadelphia and New York, although there are a greater number of orchestras there than in this country.

Mr. Kindler brought back a number of new compositions by European composers, which will be played at the first of the 24 concerts at Constitution Hall, November 2.

Policeman Put on Trial In Shooting by Woman

Policeman Charles B. Kimball, of the Twelfth Precinct, yesterday faced the Police Trial Board on charges growing out of the shooting of Leonard Hoffman by the latter's sweetheart, Miss Tillie Wilson, last May 29 in a wooded section off Rhode Island avenue near Fifteenth street northeast. Prosecution testimony was heard and the defense attorney, James A. O'Shea, was granted a continuance until next week.

Kimball is expected to introduce witnesses in defense of the woman's charge that he was drinking with the couple when Hoffman was shot. Miss Wilson claims she wounded Hoffman with the policeman's revolver.

Police Are Ordered to Post Themselves on New Traffic Rule.

The new system of left turns for vehicular traffic at controlled intersections will go into effect Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock, Maj. Henry G. Pratt, Superintendent of Police, announced yesterday.

Announcement was made in a special order to all precinct commanders and District heads to provide for thorough instruction of their men in the new turn so that the policemen in turn will be able to correct motorists who may become confusec.

It was mentioned in the order that "this is one of the most important changes made in the traffic regulations for some time and it is very important that every member of the force be familiar with the method of turning under the new regulations, especially the left turn, that they may be able to regulate traffic, when assigned to traffic duty, in an intelligent and safe manner."

Miss Bell Gurnee and Mrs. William Beverley Mason will represent the District Council of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform at the executive committee meeting in New York next Tuesday. The fall and winter campaign will be planned at the session.

BOARD RIDES DOWN CITIZENS' PROTESTS ON MONROE SCHOOL

Reaffirms Decision to Turn Over Building to Use of Colored Children.

CONTRACTORS BLAMED FOR DELAY IN 6 CASES

Lafayette Structure, However, Should Be Ready on Time, Maj. Robb Says.

In the face of vigorous protest, the Board of Education, at its first meeting of the new school year yesterday, reaffirmed its decision to turn the Monroe School on Columbia road near Georgia avenue northwest, over to colored children.

With this problem disposed of, the board was given another with the news that six new schools and the Western High School athletic field will not be ready for the opening of the school year September 21, because of delay in construction. The matter was referred to Engineer Commissioner H. L. Robb.

Approval was given the appointment of Dr. Ellis Haworth as head of the newly created department of science. Henry Gilligan, board member, requested that his opposition to this appointment be recorded on the grounds that the appointment abolishes the departments of chemistry and biology and physics. Mr. Gilligan contends the board has no legal right to abolish departments.

This action of the board removes as heads of the two discontinued departments two veteran teachers in the Capital public school system, W. P. Hay, former head of the department of chemistry and biology, and W. H. Hedrick, former head of the department of physics. They will become teachers in the new department of science.

Report Denies Claim.

A delegation of citizens appeared before the board to oppose the transfer of the Monroe School. It included representatives of the Park View Citizens Association, the Georgia Avenue Business Men's Association, the Columbia Heights Citizens Association and the Citizens Forum of Columbia Heights. This delegation was backed by a petition containing 377 names of citizens.

Wallace Robinson, spokesman for the group, complained that with the discontinuance of the Monroe School for white children the former students would have to travel six or eight blocks, through dangerous intersections, to reach other schools in the neighborhood.

A report, presented by Assistant Superintendent of Schools Robert L. Haycock, showed that the opponents to the transfer had not taken into consideration two other schools in the section; that the children can go to schools much closer than six or eight blocks; that intersections will be guarded by police and members of the schoolboy patrol; that there has been a marked decline in white population in the Monroe School district, and that there has been a continued decrease in enrollment at the Monroe School.

Lafayette Nearly Ready.

The six schools that will not be ready by the time the other schools open are the Young Platoon School near Benning; the Stuart Junion High School addition in Northeast Washington, the Gordon Junior High School addition near Burleith; the Anthony Bowen addition in Southwest Washington, the Key School in Potomac Heights and the Powell Junior High School addition in Mount Pleasant.

The Lafayette School, listed as uncompleted, should be ready by the time schools open, Maj. Robb said last night.

Closing the Poor House.

(Officials of a Western town announce that because of low finahces it will be necessary to cease operating the poor farm unless new funds can be found.)

* * * *

POOR HOUSE SUPERINTENDENT—What's this I hear about closing our Poor Farm?

Mayor—I'm afraid we've gotta do it, Jim. What seems to be the trouble? We've always been able to run a Poor House in the past.

Superintendent—We just don't get the patronage like we used to. It's too easy for folks to get in these days.

Mayor—I don't follow you.

Superintendent—A Poor House was a good proposition when only a small percentage of the population was affiliated with it, but under present conditions when everybody is coming in it's no longer exclusive.

Mayor—That's always the way. The minute folks discover they're in an institution anybody can join they pass it up.

* * * *

Superintendent—We're losing customers every day. Last week a dozen poor people who were booked to join us canceled their reservation when they found we were taking Tom, Dick and Harry.

Mayor—I suppose they feel that when they go to a Poor House these days they're apt to meet most anybody.

Superintendent—That's just it. You're apt to run up against folks you wouldn't even speak to if they weren't broke, too.

Mayor—I wonder what we could do to remedy things.

Superintendent—I dunno. Things are so bad now that even the sons who used to run over in $10,000 limousines to see their mothers once a month don't do it any more. The competition has something to do with it.

Mayor—What competition?

Superintendent—Oh, since the slump, the competition in the poor house business has been fierce. They're opening 'em everywhere. If things don't improve there'll be a chain system of poor houses operating in every State.

Mayor—It's a shame. I claim there oughta be a law to protect the individual poor house against giant combinations. The small poor house has a right to live.

SUPERINTENDENT—Why not petition President Hoover?

Mayor—We'd better not do that. He gets sore when you mention poor houses.

Superintendent—Why?

Mayor—He claims there's no such thing in America.

Superintendent—Well, maybe we'd better just close the place up and turn the inmates out.

Mayor—But what'll become of em?

Superintendent—Oh, they'll just have to get used to doing without any money like the rest of us!

THE Seabury committee is reported investigating the stock market operations of Mayor Walker. This seems unjust. Anybody who had any stock market operations during the last two years has been punished enough.

Two Maine woodsmen are in New York offering their services as marksmen to pick off gunmen. Their sole experience so far has been confined to shooting animals, which would seem to qualify them unusually for the job.

OUIMET.

On through encounters legion,
Down thru the speeding years,
Always within the region
Swept by the well-earn'd cheers.

Over the hills and valleys,
On 'cross a span of life
Watching the tourney's tallies,
There in the hottest strife.

Spurred by a faith undoubting,
Watching the years decamp,
Hearing a distant shouting—
"Ouimet, the schoolkid champ!"

Bearing the scars and scratches,
Bloody, but head unbowed;
Fighting in countless matches,
Beaten but never cowed.

Burning intently, purely,
Faith at a blue-white heat—
Knowing that some day surely Fighters with class repeat.

The five-cent "all-hot" has made its return in New England, which would seem to indicate that the country is getting back to fundamentals.

Meet the Sitler Brothers, Both With Tummy Aches

Oliver Sitler, jr., 7 and his 3-year-old brother, Edmond, caused their parents no little worry when they strolled off with a pushcart and went exploring in the Southwest's watermelon section. Both were back at their home last night.

One Is Edward, Aged 3; Other Oliver, Jr., 7—They Ran Away.

Edmond Sitler is 3 years old. His big brother, Oliver S. Sitler, jr., is 7. They have a sort of pushcart-coaster with "Oliver" painted on the side. Yesterday Edmond, Oliver and the wagon went adventure-seeking and almost had their parents frantic when a Fourth Precinct policeman, picking them up on description, took them to their home at 927 Maryland avenue southwest, at 7 p. m.

It was about 1 o'clock in the afternoon when the trio set out, bound for wherever there was the most excitement. The trail led to the wharves and commission house section on Water street, where there are many watermelons, so the boys had watermelon.

An hour after they vanished, Mrs. Oliver S. Sitler, their mother, asked police to look for them. It was dark, however, before they were found about a mile from home and by this time they were weary and had the stomach-ace. In fact, Edmond allegedly was in tears.

The Sitler brothers were subjected to a bit of parental discipline, given a physic apiece and put to bed.

BICENTENNIAL BODY DENIES TAKING ART

Director Kruckman Declares Group Never Copyrighted Poster in Dispute.

The District Bicentennial Commission last night denied ever copyrighting an "official" bicentennial poster that Albin Baranowski, Polish painter, charged was stolen from his "original" copy of the Houdon bust of Washington.

According to Arnold Kruckman, director of the District commission, the local organization merely lent its sanction to a poster copyrighted by the "Bicentennial Studios," a commercial organization headed by Alex Winecour.

Baranowski's so-called "original" was never submitted to the commission for approval, Mr. Kruckman said. The design sanctioned, painted in gold on a black velvet background, was prepared by Albert Nelson Davis, instructor in art at George Washington University, on order of "Bicentennial Studios."

Mr. Kruckman said he understood the latter was copyrighted in preference to the Baranowski design by Mr. Winecour, who had viewed both posters.

$25,000 Suit Claims Crackers Held Glass

Mrs. Leroy Scott, 16 Fifth street southeast, yesterday sued the National Biscuit Co. for $25,000 damages because of particles of glass that she swallowed while eating a cracker.

The suit claimed Mrs. Scott had bought a sealed package of crackers at a local store June 17, 1930. Before she was aware of the presence of glass in the crackers, she said, she had swallowed some pieces. Attorneys Thomas C. Scalley and Denny Hughes filed the suit.

FORMER WIFE SUES ELLERY B. GORDON

Bureau of Mines Official Remarried, Faces Demand for Alimony.

Charging that he became friendly in 1927 with a beauty contest entrant, Mrs. Lillian Gordon yesterday filed in New York Supreme Court an application for allmony and counsel fees in a divorce action against Ellery B. Gordon, a Bureau of Mines official, according to an Associated Press story from White Plains, N. Y.

The couple were married nineteen years ago. Miss Charlotte Phillips is the Atlantic City contest entrant who, the suit alleges, "had gone through a form of marriage ceremony" with Mr. Gordon, and was living with him in the Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. Gordon told the court that early this year she was served with papers in a Mexican divorce suit opened by her husband. She estimated his income as "not less than $5,000 a year."

Mr. Gordon, in Washington, said yesterday that he had separated from his wife two years ago "by mutual agreement," and in 1930 was divorced from her.

Former Washingtonian Named Fraternity Head

Charles M. Hall, former Washingtonian, now living in Charleston, W. Va., was elected national grand master of Alpha Sigma Lambda Fraternity at the convention held in Atlanta, Ga., this week. Other local men chosen for offices were J. Robert Sherwood, hospitaler, and Paul J. Connell, editor.

The 1932 convention will be held here in connection with the bicentennial celebration.

Policeman Rushes Suspect With Gun

Patrolman Vaughn Takes Negro Covering Him With Pistol.

Patrolman Vance V. Vaughn was given one of those rare "perspiration thrills" yesterday when he arrested Moses P. Owens, Negro, of Clarendon, Va., while the man stood only a few feet away with a revolver pointing straight at Vaughn.

Together with his partner, F. J. Rowen, Vaughn had chased Owens from Seventh and D streets northwest to Sixth and D streets, where the automobile Owens was driving failed to make the corner and crashed into the Police Court Building. As the officers ran up, Owens drew a weapon from his pocket and pointed it at Vaughn.

He was quickly disarmed and was brought into court to face a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. Judge Ralph Given gave Owens 360 days in jail and praised the officers for not resorting to the use of their revolvers to make the arrest.

Court Requested To Condemn Lots

Four Parcels Desired to Provide for Bancroft School Extension.

Four lots, each improved with a two-story frame dwelling, will be condemned by the District Commissioners to provide room for an addition to Bancroft School, Eighteenth and Newton streets northwest.

A petition to have the District Supreme Court appoint a jury of five men to assess the lots and fix a fair valuation was filed yesterday. The Commissioners noted that negotiations to purchase the lots had fallen through because an unsatisfactory price was asked by the owners.

The owners of the lots, all of which are on Mount Pleasant street north of Newton street, are Bessie Snowden Pugh, 3402 Mount Pleasant street northwest; Lillian H. Beach; J. E. McPherson, 2042 Pierce Mill road, and William and Priscilla H. Foley, of 2040 Pierce Mill road. The lots are numbered 801, 132, 133 and 134, all in square 2619.

FEDERAL EMPLOYES ASK FOR EXTENSION OF CLASSIFICATION

Federation Adopts Program Also Seeking Optional Retirement After 30.

STANDARDIZED ANNUAL AND SICK LEAVE URGED

Civil Service Appeals Court Favored at Convention in Seattle.

Special to The Washington Post.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 9.—A broad legislative program, calling for extension of classification to the field services, optional retirement after 30, a Civil Service court of appeals, and extra pay for night work and overtime, was adopted today by the National Federation of Federal Employes holding its biennial convention here.

The program also asked abolition of the average restriction in appropriation bills, and favored standardized annual and sick leave, one day's rest in seven, allowance for transportation when transfers are ordered, institution of proper methods of efficiency ratings, stated pomotion intervals and extension of the merit system.

The program was indorsed in a resolution commending the national officers for legislative victories recently obtained.

Appointments Cited.

The federation adopted a resolution offered by Local Union, No. 105, of Washington, urging officials of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the Treasury Department and the Civil Service Commission, to make no appointments or reinstatements to positions to which women employes of the bureau are eligible for transfer, so long as the present system regarding furloughs remains in force.

Another resolution urged correction of "the growing practice of the Civil Service Commission of restricting the opportunities for advancement of employes in the service by including, as one of the entrance requirements for examination, experience obtained outside the Government service."

Act Violation Charged.

Local Union, No. 2, of Washington obtained adoption of a resolution charging that work performed in Postoffice mail equipment shops has been transferred to the prisons, when vacancies have occurred in the mail equipment shops, in violation of the act for the diversification of employment for Federal prisoners. It was held that the act provided that its operation would not "curtail the production, within its present limits, of any existing arsenal, Navy or other Government workshop."

Other resolutions were adopted urging study of the need for improvements in the scientific work of the Government, with attention to a comparison between standards of entrance, performance, working conditions and compensation between the Government and private industry. A study of the question of leave for professional and scientific members of the Government service was ordered.
